Syrian Troops Marching Into Jordan

'Goon Squads' In Pennsylvania Area Target Of Probers

WASHINGTON, April 13 (AP) — Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) said today his rackets probers have evidence that some Scranton, Pa., labor union officials used "goon squad" violence to deprive union members of their rights.

McClellan said the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee which he heads will explore the story in public hearings starting here Tuesday, along with allegations that terror tactics were used against some employers in labor disputes.

12-15 WITNESSES

The senator said there will be "a dozen to 15 witnesses," including Scranton officials of the Teamsters Union and some officials of the Scranton Building Trades Council. He named none of them in advance.

McClellan said the hearings also will explore what he termed "a grave question of ethics"—the right of certain Scranton union officials to hold office after having been convicted of crimes he said "should disqualify them."

"They are still in office—probably in just as much or more control of their unions," McClellan told a news conference.

He said the FBI is investigating threatening telephone calls one of the committee's staff investigators Lavern Duffy, received while in Scranton sifting evidence. Duffy was warned to get out of town or have his "head knocked off."

McClellan said he doubts the inquiry will rank as "one of the most spectacular" ones his committee plans, but that it deals with an area in which "full disclosure should be made." The committee's mandate from the Senate is to devote a year to a search for evidence of racketeering and other improper practices in the field of labor and management.

The committee's stormy investigations of Teamsters Union President Dave Beck and some of the union's West Coast officials have only touched on the management field. But McClellan said "definitely improper practices" by employers will have a big spot in hearings planned for some time next month on union-employer relations in the New York City area.

McClellan said he hopes to wind up the Scranton hearings before Good Friday, but if this is impossible he will recess from Thursday to some day next week.

District Atty. Found Guilty At Portland

PORTLAND, Ore., April 13 (AP)—A Circuit Court jury today convicted Dist. Atty. William M. Langley of failing to prosecute gamblers here.

The penalty is removal from office and a possible fine.

Langley, who also faces six other charges in a continuing Portland vice investigation, was the first major defendant to go on trial since the investigation began a year ago.

ARREST OF JUDGEMENT

Langley's counsel moved for an arrest of judgment, a technical and almost automatic procedure. Circuit Judge Frank Lonergan will hear arguments on that motion next Monday afternoon.

Langley heard the verdict without a display of feeling. His wife, Janice, rushed to him in the courtroom, took him by both hands and smiled at him.

The vote was announced as 11-1 for conviction. The jury deliberated an hour and 55 minutes.

USED FIFTH

The district attorney, a Democrat, who earlier pleaded the Fifth Amendment in failing to answer questions at a hearing of the Senate Rackets Committee, was accused of failing to prosecute operators of gaming tables at a roadhouse in 1955.

His principal accuser was James (Big Jim) Elkins, Portland gambler, who leveled corruption charges against Langley, Mayor Terry D. Schrunk and Clyde C. Crosby, the top Teamster's Union official in Oregon. All are under indictment and awaiting trial here.

Elkins said he had given the district attorney a cut of the roadhouse gambling profits.

Langley denied it.

MAIL HALTS

Second Solon Asks Jail For Summerfield

WASHINGTON, April 13 (UP) — Rep. John Lesinski D-Mich., a member of the House Post Office Committee, demanded today that Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield resign for halting Saturday mail deliveries and making other cutbacks in postal service.

Furthermore, Lesinski said, Summerfield should be prosecuted under the anti-deficiency law, which is designed to punish government officials who so mishandle their agencies' money that acute shortages result.

Summerfield ordered the service cutback on grounds that his department has nearly run out of money and Congress has not yet voted it more.

The maximum penalty on conviction under the anti-deficiency law is a $5,000 fine and two years of imprisonment.

MAKES GOOD ON THREAT

Lesinski's was the second demand by a member of the Post Office Committee for Summerfield's resignation and prosecution. A similar one was made on Tuesday by Rep. Charles O. Porter (D-Ore.).

Meanwhile, Summerfield made good on his threat to halt regular mail deliveries today and follow this up with other postal service cutbacks Monday because Congress failed to give his department an extra 47 million dollars in operating funds.

Across the nation, post offices closed and letter carriers failed to make their appointed rounds. Only a trickle of mail, most of its special delivery letters, got through.

BLAST SUMMERFIELD

Chairman Clarence Cannon of the House Appropriations Committee charged that Summerfield "had no justification whatever" for cutting postal services.

He told the United Press the Post Office Department actually has $449,180,000 in "cash on hand" to keep running until July 1 when it will get its annual appropriation for the new fiscal year.

And since the appropriations committee has voted the department an extra 41 million dollars, Cannon said, "there was no occasion for (Summerfield) taking this unprecedented step."

Summerfield has insisted that he cannot count on actually getting the extra funds, however, until both House and Senate approve the committee action.

MAKES REPORT PUBLIC

In another development, Cannon made public a report from Comptroller General Joseph Campbell stating that it was really Budget

First Snowfall Reported Here

The first—and probably the last—snowfall of the season was recorded at the CAA's Selman Field station while most Monroyans slept yesterday. Attendants at the station said a trace of snow fell at 4 a.m.

The federal forecaster followed up this report with the view that there will be no picnic weather in the Twin Cities area over the weekend. Light rain and colder temperatures are expected today.

The high recorded yesterday at Selman Field was 49 degrees at 4 p.m., and the low was 36. Rainfall was gauged up to 6 p.m. at .04 inches.

Frost is expected in scattered sections of Arkansas today.

LONDON REPORTS

Panama May Take Over Canal Zone

LONDON, April 13 (AP)—President Ernesto de La Guardia of Panama was quoted by the London Daily Express today as saying his government intends to "resume complete sovereignty" over the Panama Canal and its surrounding zone.

"There is deep feeling in our country over the question of sovereignty," De la Guardia was quoted as saying in an interview with Express correspondent Rene MacColl. "I would say that the prevalent public sentiment is in favor of a takeover by Panama."

NOT HOSTILE

The President added, however: "I want to make it clear that we are not hostile to America. We regard ourselves as partners in a common enterprise and I feel that we can argue with the Americans without upsetting anyone."

Under its 1903 treaty with Panama the United States enjoys "rights in perpetuity" over the vital 50-mile waterway and over the canal zone stretching for five miles on each side of it.

De la Guardia gave no indication in the Express interview when his government intends to "resume complete sovereignty" over the waterway linking the Caribbean and the Pacific.

Cancer Day Fund Drive Opens Here

Today is "Cancer Day" in Ouachita parish.

With volunteers ready for the opening round, the American Cancer Society's Crusade will reach a peak this afternoon between 1:00 and 5:00 fith a double-barrelled plea to "Fight Cancer with a Checkup and a Check."

General Claire L. Chennault and Fred Buenefeld, Jr., joint chairmen of the campaign, expressed gratification at the completeness of the preparations. "The whole drive," they said, "is geared to the dual purpose of getting people to see their doctors for a physical checkup and to give money to aid the fight to control and eventually conquer cancer.

'ATTRACTIVE NUISANCE'

Shreveport Man Sues Government

SHREVEPORT, La., April 13 (AP)—Luther E. Wyatt of Belmont, today filed an "attractive nuisance" suit asking $61,000 damage for injuries to his son by an Army jeep used in exercise King Cole.

Wyatt claimed his son, James Clifford Wyatt, 9, received "serious and perhaps permanent injury" when he stepped from between two trucks of a convoy into the path of the jeep driven by Capt. Edward C. Riggs.

The accident occurred, he said, when the convoy of eight or 10 trucks stopped in Belmont April 9.

Wyatt said the "attractive nuisance" contributed to the accident. The convoy, he contended, offered an opportunity for children to talk with soldiers, help them get water, and to play with a puppy the soldiers had with them. The child was struck, he said, as the convoy started to move again.

The petition said Capt. Riggs is attached to the 3rd Signal Battalion, 3rd Infantry Division, of Ft. Benning, Ga., taking part in the Army maneuvers which end next Tuesday.

U.S. District Judge Ben C. Dawkins Jr. signed an order directing witnesses to appear for deposition next Wednesday at the judge advocate general's office at Ft. Polk.

Tax Exemption Applications Deadline Near

Only one day remains for the 343 home owners in Ouachita parish who have not signed homestead exemption application forms, Bert Coverdale, parish tax assessor, warned Saturday.

Coverdale said his office will close the signing of the forms at 5 p.m. Monday. State statutes require the forms to be signed on or before 5 p.m. April 15. Coverdale pointed out his office will open at 8 a.m. and remain open until the deadline. The office will be open during the noon hour for the convenience of persons who cannot make it by the office any other time.

In West Monroe 84 persons have not signed the forms. Monroe has a total of 259, the assessor said.

SUEZ CRISIS

Big-3 May Take Issue Before UN

WASHINGTON, April 13 (UP)—The United States, Britain and France today were on the verge of asking the United Nations Security Council to consider the stalemated Suez Canal negotiation with Egypt.

Officials said the three powers were in almost constant communication to co-ordinate their policies so there could be no split if the troublesome issue is put before the council early next week. They emphasized, however, that no final decision had been made.

U. S. INITIATIVE

Presumably on American initiative, the council would be informed of the negotiations on Suez Canal operating procedures which have been underway between the United States and Egypt for two weeks. Egypt was reported to have made no real concessions.

Action might also be sought to gain the Security Council's blessings for a continuance of the American talks with Egypt on a long-range Suez settlement, and to obtain council recommendations on an interim canal arrangement.

EYE JORDAN

Diplomats said one factor being taken into consideration is the political dispute in Jordan, and the possibility it might flare into trouble requiring Security Council action. If this came about officials said, the Suez issue would have to be delayed.

Informants disclosed that three-power considerations of U.N. action took a sharp upswing following receipt Thursday night of a secret Egyptian proposal on how the canal should be operated.

This proposal still suggested to experts that Egypt wants to run the canal on its own terms, and to change them at any time it wishes.

The Egyptian memorandum was immediately communicated to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles who is vacationing at his Lake Ontario retreat. The question of possible U.N. action also was put to the secretary who is not expected back until next Wednesday.

ANTHONY EDEN

Ex-Prime Minister UndergoesSurgery

BOSTON, April 13 (UP)—Sir Anthony Eden underwent his fourth major intestinal operation in as many years today for removal of a bile duct obstruction that had caused fever attacks. He was reported in good condition.

Lahey Clinic Surgeon Dr. Richard B. Cattell operated on the former British prime minister for one hour and 15 minutes at New England Baptist hospital.

"There were no difficulties," Cattell said. "We consider the operation a success. No additional surgery is contemplated now. We have a reasonable prospect of complete relief for Sir Anthony."

A medical bulletin issued two hours after the operation said the site of the obstruction had been found in the right hepatic duct and the constricted area was dilated, or expanded.

CAUSE OF FEVER

"This condition was the cause of the recent attacks of fever," the bulletin said. "The tube which had been inserted at the operation of June of 1953 had been passed, as often occurs. It was not found necessary to insert a new tube.

"There was no inflammation of the colon and no malignancy. He withstood the operative procedure well."

Cattell had inserted the plastic tube in Eden's bile duct to relieve an obstruction in one of a series of major operations performed on Eden here in 1953.

BLAMED HEALTH

Dr. James E. Fish, administrator of the clinic, said the tube had passed through the intestines and had been eliminated through natural processes.

The medical bulletin was signed by Cattell, Dr. John W. Norcross, of the clinic staff, and Sir Horace Evans, Eden's personal physician, who flew here to witness the operation at the invitation of Cattell. Lady Eden waited in Eden's hospital room while her husband underwent the surgery. She later discussed the operation with Evans, who said he was "satisfied and happy" with the results.

Eden, 59, had blamed his health for his decision to quit as head of the British government during the Suez crisis.

HISTORIC SECOND TRIP

Mayflower Begins Voyage Tomorrow

By ALVIN J. STEINKOPF

BRIXHAM, England, April 13 (AP)—Cmdr. Alan Villiers, skipper of the Mayflower II, scoffed today at a shipping reporter's estimate the little sailing ship has only a 50-50 chance of getting across the Atlantic on a voyage due to start Monday.

"Fiddlesticks," he said. "We'll start for Plymouth, Mass., and we'll get there. Our forefathers sailed these little squareriggers to the ends of the earth and we, in a ship which is better than any they had, can do as well."

Stanley Bonnett, shipping reporter, of the London Daily Mail, wrote that the Mayflower II had only an even chance of reaching Plymouth safely. He said veteran seamen were skeptical about the seaworthiness of the 180-ton vessel, a copy of the ship in which the Pilgrim Fathers sailed to America in 1620.

Villiers, 54-year-old veteran of sail, said no member of his crew has threatened to quit.

"In fact," he said, "all sorts of people are still trying to get on—good sailors, and I wish I had room."

The skipper said inspectors of the British Transport Ministry were enthusiastic and "have told me that Mayflower II is a splendid vessel."

"Pilgrims—shucks," Lady Astor said. "We had a tidy little settlement in Virginia 17 years before the Pilgrim fathers thought of going to America. And when they set out they wisely wanted to go to Virginia, but got sidetracked somewhere along the way."

However, sipping tea from a plastic cup, she quickly softened her appraisal of the Pilgrims, saying: "They were brave adventurers and what a fine thing that this little gem of a ship, so much like theirs, should be setting out to make their voyage all over again. The Pilgrims, like the Virginians, went with Bibles and took with them so much that is good from this wonderful island."

"Me, climb that rope ladder? Nope!" she said.

She compromised by examining the black and yellow costumes the 30 or so crewmen will wear. The Mayflower II is carrying only the crew. The original carried 102 Pilgrims—men, women and children—and a crew of more than 20.

Future Of Nation Hangs In Balance

BEIRUT, Lebanon, April 13 (UP) — Syrian troops marched into Jordan today over the reported opposition of pro-Western King Hussein and despite warnings from Israel.

The future of the poverty-stricken state, caught between opposing forces and torn by an internal political crisis, was in doubt.

TROOPS MOVE IN

Diplomatic sources in Amman, capital of Jordan, confirmed that more Syrian troops had begun moving into the northern sectors of the country to reinforce the 3,000-man brigade already there since the Suez crisis last fall.

Saudi Arabia, which sides with Hussein in his quarrel with left-wing and pro-Syrian elements, also has a 3,000-man brigade in Jordan, stationed near the southern towns of Maan and Akaba.

The Beirut newspaper "Erraw-wad" said Hussein appealed to President Shukri El Kuwatly for removal of all Syrian troops because the Syrian officers were plotting against him.

ASKS WITHDRAWAL

Reports reaching Beirut said Hussein also had asked the withdrawal of the Egyptian military attache in Amman because he was supporting opposition groups.

Both Syria and Egypt, leaders of the Arab "neutral bloc," were supporting Former Jordanian Premier Suleiman Nabulsi, ousted last Wednesday in a quarrel with the king believed to have stemmed from Hussein's opposition to communism.

Damascus radio reported from Syria tonight that former Defense Minister Abdul Halim Nimr has formed a new government in Jordan.

The radio said "a dispatch from our reporter in Amman a little while ago says that the Jordan cabinet crisis has ended."

Nimr had been trying for two days to form a new regime to succeed that of leftist Premier succeed that of leftist Premier Suleiman Nabulsi whose govern-

A medical bulletin issued two hours after the operation said the site of the obstruction had been found in the right hepatic duct and the constricted area was delated, or expanded.

CAUSE OF FEVER

"This condition was the cause of the recent attacks of fever," the bulletin said. "The tube which had been inserted at the operation of June of 1953 had been passed, as often occurs. It was not found necessary to insert a new tube.

"There was no inflammation of the colon and no malignancy. He withstood the operative procedure well."

Cattell had inserted the plastic tube in Eden's bile duct to relieve an obstruction in one of a series of major operations performed on Eden here in 1953.

BLAMED HEALTH

Dr. James E. Fish, administrator of the clinic, said the tube had passed through the intestines and had been eliminated through natural processes.

The medical bulletin was signed by Cattell, Dr. John W. Norcross, of the clinic staff, and Sir Horace Evans, Eden's personal physician, who flew here to witness the operation at the invitation of Cattell. Lady Eden waited in Eden's hospital room while her husband underwent the surgery. She later discussed the operation with Evans, who said he was "satisfied and happy" with the results.

Eden, 59, had blamed his health for his decision to quit as head of the British government during the Suez crisis.

HISTORIC SECOND TRIP

Mayflower Begins Voyage Tomorrow

By ALVIN J. STEINKOPF

BRIXHAM, England, April 13 (AP)—Cmdr. Alan Villiers, skipper of the Mayflower II, scoffed today at a shipping reporter's estimate the little sailing ship has only a 50-50 chance of getting across the Atlantic on a voyage due to start Monday.

"Fiddlesticks," he said. "We'll start for Plymouth, Mass., and we'll get there. Our forefathers sailed these little squareriggers to the ends of the earth and we, in a ship which is better than any they had, can do as well."

Stanley Bonnett, shipping reporter, of the London Daily Mail, wrote that the Mayflower II had only an even chance of reaching Plymouth safely. He said veteran seamen were skeptical about the seaworthiness of the 180-ton vessel, a copy of the ship in which the Pilgrim Fathers sailed to America in 1620.

Villiers, 54-year-old veteran of sail, said no member of his crew has threatened to quit.

"In fact," he said, "all sorts of people are still trying to get on—good sailors, and I wish I had room."

The skipper said inspectors of the British Transport Ministry were enthusiastic and "have told me that Mayflower II is a splendid vessel."

"Pilgrims—shucks " Lady Astor said. "We had a tidy little settlement in Virginia 17 years before the Pilgrim fathers thought of going to America. And when they set out they wisely wanted to go to Virginia, but got sidetracked somewhere along the way."

However, sipping tea from a plastic cup, she quickly softened her appraisal of the Pilgrims, saying: "They were brave adventurers and what a fine thing that this little gem of a ship, so much like theirs, should be setting out to make their voyage all over again. The Pilgrims, like the Virginians, went with Bibles and took with them so much that is good from this wonderful island."

"Me, climb that rope ladder? Nope!" she said.

She compromised by examining the black and yellow costumes the 30 or so crewmen will wear. The Mayflower II is carrying only the crew. The original carried 102 Pilgrims—men, women and children—and a crew of more than 20.

Future Of Nation Hangs In Balance

BEIRUT, Lebanon, April 13 (UP) — Syrian troops marched into Jordan today over the reported opposition of pro-Western King Hussein and despite warnings from Israel.

The future of the poverty-stricken state, caught between opposing forces and torn by an internal political crisis, was in doubt.

TROOPS MOVE IN

Diplomatic sources in Amman, capital of Jordan, confirmed that more Syrian troops had begun moving into the northern sectors of the country to reinforce the 3,000-man brigade already there since the Suez crisis last fall

Saudi Arabia, which sides with Hussein in his quarrel with left-wing and pro - Syrian elements, also has a 3,000-man brigade in Jordan, stationed near the southern towns of Maan and Akaba.

The Beirut newspaper "Errawad" said Hussein appealed to President Shukri El Kuwatly for removal of all Syrian troops because the Syrian officers were plotting against him.

ASKS WITHDRAWAL

Reports reaching Beirut said Hussein also had asked the withdrawal of the Egyptian military attache in Amman because he was supporting opposition groups.

Both Syria and Egypt, leaders of the Arab "neutral bloc," were supporting Former Jordanian Premier Suleiman Nabulsi, ousted last Wednesday in a quarrel with the king believed to have stemmed from Hussein's opposition to communism.

Damascus radio reported from Syria tonight that former Defense Minister Abdul Halim Nimr has formed a new government in Jordan.

The radio said "a dispatch from our reporter in Amman a little while ago says that the Jordan cabinet crisis has ended."

Nimr had been trying for two days to form a new regime to succeed that of leftist Premier succeed that of leftist Premier Suleiman Nabulsi whose govern-

Reputation Big Pill For The South

By AL KUETTNER
United Press Staff Correspondent

ATLANTA (UP) — One of the bitterest pills of all for the South to swallow in its painful struggle with the race problem is the reputation of a land of violence.

There is no denying that there has been disorder — Negro homes dynamited and shot at, churches blasted to splinters, beatings, riots and threatened mob rule.

The fact is, however, that this sort of thing leaves most white southerners horrified.

Kasper Getting Blame

Kasper is getting the blame for exploiting a family fight where tempers were already short and nerves ragged. He is being called demagogue by those who hate racial integration as deeply as he professes to abhor it. But mainly he has the label of an "outside agitator" — and right now that breed is mighty unpopular in Dixie.

"If John Kasper had never come here, we wouldn't have Negroes in our schools, "Citizens' Council leader W. H. Till said bitterly at Clinton, Tenn.

Kasper was a strange one from the day he set foot in Clinton last fall. School officials there were going quietly, although with distaste, into implementing the federal court orders to integrate the high school.

Breathed Fire

Within a few days Kasper, the unknown, and a confederate from Alabama, Asa (Ace) Carter, had tongue-lashed fire into the people. It took the National Guard to restore order.

Kasper and Carter certainly can't be blamed for all the violence. Before their appearance there was the Autherines Lucy uprising on the University of Alabama campus and innumerable incidents in Tennessee, Florida and Georgia.

But the South definitely seems to have had enough of the Kasper type. He hit his low recently in Florida where a committee of the state Legislature summoned him and for the first time explored his background.

Under incessant prodding, Kasper admitted that in New York's Greenwich Village he had often associated with Negroes.

The Texas and Pacific Railway Co., appellant, vs. Madge Reed Watkins, individually and as natural tutrix of her minor child, Richard Wesley Watkins, appellee, appeal from eastern district of Louisiana, affirmed.

Crowell Land and Mineral Corp., petitioner, vs. Commissioner of Internal Revenue, respondent, petition for review of decision of Louisiana district tax court, reversed.

Fight On 'TB' At X-Ray Clinic Being Planned

OAK GROVE, April 13 (Special) —A mobile chest x-ray unit from the state health department will be in West Carroll for seven days, beginning April 2, according to Dr. Wm. K. Evans, director of the parish public health unit.

The purpose of the x-ray clinic, Dr. Evans said, is to examine apparently healthy persons 15 years of age and over, to detect early tuberculosis if it is present. Evidence of lung cancer and certain heart diseases may also be discovered.

Dr. Evans pointed out that tuberculosis, while not as prevalent as in the past, continues to kill more people between the ages of 15 and 45 than any other contagious disease.

Trio Charged In Burglary Of Firm Here

Three persons have been charged with the burglary of Krauss and Cahn Clothing store on the morning of March 28, Sheriff Bailey Grant said yesterday. One of the men is in the parish jail, and another and his wife are being held in Kirkwood, Mo.

Sheriff Grant said his department, along with the Monroe police department, had been working on the case and established the identity of the parties on April 3. Returned to the Ouachita parish jail several days ago was Joseph King, 43, of West Monroe.

The two other parties involved in the burglary, Sheriff Grant said, are Serbert Ray Medley, 30, and his wife, Rebecca Medley, 26. Both are in the Kirkwood, Mo., jail and have indicated they would fight extradition. Bond for each of the trio was set at $5,000.

The Medley couple are also wanted in St. Louis for similar crimes, it was reported.

Both Medley and King have criminal records, Sheriff Grant said.

When apprehended on information supplied by the local law enforcement agencies, King is reported to have had in his possession several articles later identified as coming from the store.

Presbyterian Men's Banquet In New Center

Presbyterian men of the Covenant Church were entertained at a banquet held in the Westminster Fellowship quarters, near the campus of Northeast State college, Friday night. Twenty - five men of the church attended.

Charles Brulte, junior representative, gave the history of this organization which has grown rapidly as more Presbyterian students are added all the time to faculty and student body of Northeast State.

Brulte, in his talk, said that the Presbyterian Church is interested in helping faculty members and students to increase their understanding and their commitments to the Christian faith. Also it is sought to provide opportunities for students and faculty to know one another. This new Presbyterian student center, he said, fills the requirements completely.

A feature of the occasion was the unveiling and acceptance of a handsome portrait known as "Solomon's Head of Christ." This painting was presented as a memorial from family and friends of the late J. Arthur Smith, Sr., one of the most stalwart Presbyterians who was widely known for his wide friendship and devotion to the faith. For almost a record in length of time, he served as elder of the First Presbyterian Church in Monroe. His death occurred only a few months ago.

Among Glacier National Park's 400 bears, only a dozen beg food from visitors. One of the most notorious bear panhandlers was once trapped and taken to a remote area. Three weeks and 60 miles later she was back on her old stand on the Going-to-the Sun Highway.

2 Highway Jobs Slated To Start In West Carroll

OAK GROVE, April 13 (Special) — The state department of highways has issued authorization to build 1.4 miles of hard surface road and to overlay approximately 2.5 miles of existing hard surface road in West Carroll parish.

Rep. J. Spencer Myrick said he had been informed that authorization has been issued for district highway maintenance forces to surface 1.4 miles of road from Pioneer west and for letting of contract to overlay state highway No. 2, from Bayou Macon bridge west of Oak Grove.

It is against the law for Lisbon's fishwives to go barfoot. But bare feet are a tradition of centuries, so many Portuguese street vendors carry shoes in their baskets and pop them on only when a police officer comes into view.

Trio Charged In Burglary Of Firm Here

Three persons have been charged with the burglary of Krauss and Cahn Clothing store on the morning of March 28, Sheriff Bailey Grant said yesterday. One of the men is in the parish jail, and another and his wife are being held in Kirkwood, Mo.

Sheriff Grant said his department, along with the Monroe police department, had been working on the case and established the identity of the parties on April 3. Returned to the Ouachita parish jail several days ago was Joseph King, 43, of West Monroe.

The two other parties involved in the burglary, Sheriff Grant said, are Serbert Ray Medley, 30, and his wife, Rebecca Medley, 26. Both are in the Kirkwood, Mo., jail and have indicated they would fight extradition. Bond for each of the trio was set at $5,000.

The Medley couple are also wanted in St. Louis for similar crimes, it was reported.

Both Medley and King have criminal records, Sheriff Grant said.

When apprehended on information supplied by the local law enforcement agencies, King is reported to have had in his possession several articles later identified as coming from the store.

Medley was free on bond for violation of the Dyer Act, illegal transportation of a movable across state lines.

Presbyterian Men's Banquet In New Center

Presbyterian men of the Covevenant Church were entertained at a banquet held in the Westminster Fellowship quarters, near the campus of Northeast State college, Friday night. Twenty - five men of the church attended.

Charles Brulte, junior representative, gave the history of this organization which has grown rapidly as more Presbyterian students are added all the time to faculty and student body of Northeast State.

Brulte, in his talk, said that the Presbyterian Church is interested in helping faculty members and students to increase their understanding and their commitments to the Christian faith. Also it is sought to provide opportunities for students and faculty to know one another. This new Presbyterian student center, he said, fills the requirements completely.

A feature of the occasion was the unveiling and acceptance of a handsome portrait known as "Solomon's Head of Christ." This painting was presented as a memorial from family and friends of the late J. Arthur Smith, Sr., one of the most stalwart Presbyterians who was widely known for his wide friendship and devotion to the faith. For almost a record in length of time, he served as elder of the First Presbyterian Church in Monroe. His death occurred only a few months ago.

Ellender Concerned Over Soil Bank

WASHINGTON, April 13 (UP) — Sens. Ellender (D-La) and Aiken (R-Vt) said today that the administration's new soil bank program faces a crucial test this year.

"I'm disappointed that there is not wider participation by farmers," said Ellender, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee.

"Unless it accomplishes its purpose of bringing balance to farm production I know what the taxpayers will say."

Aiken, senior Republican on the committee, agreed in a separate interview that the vast experimental program faces a stiff test this crop year.

"I think more emphasis should be put on the conservation reserve phase of taking poorer farm lands out of cultivation and returning them to grass, trees and wild life shelters," he said.

Both senators said they expect no major agricultural legislation at this session of Congress.

They voted with the Senate majority this week in defeating an effort to push through a one-year special corn program that would have boosted acreage and price supports in commercial corn areas.

"I think Congress did a wise thing on the corn bills," Ellender said. "They would have cost at least an extra hundred million dollars without cutting back production or surpluses."

Under the soil bank act, producers of corn, cotton, wheat, rice, tobacco and peanuts can contract to take part of their land out of production for three years and receive a federal payment intended to give them a fair return.

This is called the acreage reserves program with 750 million dollars in annual payments authorized for three years.

Farmers also may receive lesser payments on contracts for converting cultivated lands for as long as 10 years to grass, trees, ponds or similar conservation uses. This is termed the conservation reserve with annual payments of up to 450 millions authorized.

Both phases of the soil bank aim at reducing over-production that has created price-depressing surpluses and other problems.

Although President Eisenhower earmarked the full $1,200,000,000 in his budget for soil bank payments, lack of farmer participation caused him to recommend a quarter million dollar cutback in these allotments this past week.

"The acreage reserve program on corn last year was a big flop," Ellender said. "The government paid out 180 million dollars and corn production was some 200 million bushels larger."

"Another year of this and the taxpayers may insist on tossing the whole soil bank into an ash-can," he said.

Russia Fires Another Atom Test Friday

WASHINGTON, April 13 (UP) — The Atomic Energy Commission announced today the Russians tested another nuclear weapon yesterday, the fourth in 10 days.

It was the 22nd U.S. announcement of a Soviet atomic test.

The Russians now have staged four test explosions this month—on April 3, 6, 10, and 12.

This month also has marked a spurt in Soviet atomic propaganda designed to frighten America's North Atlantic pact partners out of the alliances.

The announcement gave no indication of the size of the new blast. It is believed, however, that the shot on April 10 was the largest of the series. It was detected and reported the same day it was detonated.

"The Soviet Union on April 12 conducted another nuclear weapons test in its current series. The U.S.S.R. has detonated four test explosions in a period of 10 days, the last previous explosion having occurred on April 10."

Russia has issued warnings in the past few weeks to a number of nations against allowing U.S. atomic bases or nuclear weapons on their soil.

IN CIVILIAN AIR CHANNELS

Commercial Pilots Denounce Encroachment By Air Force

WASHINGTON, April 13 (UP)— Commercial airline pilots complained bitterly to Congress today that the armed forces are "encroaching" on air space set aside for civilian use.

Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, chairman of a Senate Interstate Commerce subcommittee on aviation, disclosed he had received an angry protest from the Airline Pilots Association, representing 11,000 scheduled airline captains and co-pilots.

It was the latest development in a dispute, over various proposals to solve the mushrooming menace of collisions.

ALPA's protest specifically referred to the Civil Aeronautics Administration's proposal to establish a new commercial airway over the Grand Canyon area — scene of a June 30, 1956, collision between two airliners that sent 126 persons to their death in the worst commercial aviation disaster in history.

The new airway would have supplied additional federal air traffic control for the heavy transcontinental airliner traffic in and out of Los Angeles. The pilots' union, however, charged that the U.S. Air Force has blocked the CAA proposal by designating a large area north of Winslow, Ariz. as restricted to civilian planes.

"It (the Air Force action) not only overlaps the Grand Canyon airway but also a transcontinental airway proposed for 1958, plus present established airways and four off-airway routes authorized and currently in effect," ALPA advised Monroney.

The Oklahoma Democrat told the United Press that "this complaint involves more than just an isolated instance; it is just one of many reports I have received of the military grabbing air space deemed necessary for commercial traffic by civil officials. And once the military grabs something, it hates to give it up."

Local School Is Featured In Magazine

The organization's special traffic project was the primary emphasis of the article in a whole page spread with two pictures and a replica of the parking sticker. Bobby Johnson, outgoing president of the council is shown with Allen Foster who is pointing to a "one way" sign on one of the schools stairways.

In the other picture is council rep Dottie Dawson, showing Jimmy Leverett the position for placing a parking permit on a car. The purpose of the parking permit is twofold: One purpose is to insure that everyone observe proper parking rules which in turn assures ample parking space for everyone, and it also renders service to the students and faculty.

According to the journal the Neville project has proved to be a success with nearly 100 per cent cooperation received. Each student receives a small sticker about the size of a theater ticket with a different number on each. Usually the identifications are placed on the front passenger side of the windshield so that the driver's visability will not be impaired.

Arkansas Club Operator Shot To Death At Bar

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., April 13 (UP)—George W. Stockton, 38, operator of a gambling club here, was shot to death early today as he stood at the bar talking with a one-time friend.

Police Chief John Ermey arrested the 35-year-old man several hours later and said he would file first degree murder charges against him, probably later today.

Ermey said Stockton and the man had had difficulties and had been bitter enemies for the past several years. He said the man denied the shooting, but that he had enough information to back up the charge.

Ermey said he was questioning a number of persons who saw the shooting. He said Stockton had opened one gambling table at the Palmingo Club last night, but it had been closed at 3 a.m. He gave no indication as to what caused the shooting.

Stockton was shot four or five times and died instantly. The body was removed to a funeral home.

Civil Court Code Ready For Solons

NEW ORLEANS, April 13—UP—Col. John H. Tucker Jr., Shreveport, president of the Louisiana State Law Institute, said today the new statutes of Louisiana's revised Code of Practice for civil courts will be ready to present to the 1958 Legislature.

The institute, official law reform agency, was asked by the state in 1956 to rewrite the statutes in an effort to simplify and accelerate civil court procedures.

Henry G. McMahon, professor of law at Louisiana State University, Leon Sarpy and Leon D. Hubert Jr., parish district attorney, are in charge of the basic research for the new statutes.

Two of the changes in the new code will make pleading rules more liberal and basic rules for trials will be simplified.

McMahon said two of the recommendations of the council had already been adopted by the Legislature.

One of approved changes is pretrial conferences between judge and attorneys for both sides. The procedure, now in use particularly in Orleans parish, has not been adopted by a majority of the judges in the state.

The law professor said the deposition procedure "in which each litigent finds out what the other's case is" is eliminating the element of surprise in Louisiana civil courts.

East German 'Mock War' Is Held In Berlin

BERLIN, April 13 (UP)—The East German Communist workers militia waged mock war against "counter-revolutionaries" in East Berlin today to practice for any Hungarian-style uprising.

It was the first such maneuver held in the Soviet sector of the divided city and it emphasized the Communist fear of unrest which has spread throughout East Germany since the Hungarian revolt last Oct. 23.

Several thousand members of the militia "fighting groups" armed with rifles and submachine guns marched down main streets to the Alexander Platz area. Police and "peoples army" armored cars backed them up.

The "enemy forces" in the war games were officially designated as "counter-revolutionarieis" — the word the Communists used to describe the Hungarian rebels.

East German 'Mock War' Is Held In Berlin

BERLIN, April 13 (UP)—The East German Communist workers militia waged mock war against "counter-revolutionaries" in East Berlin today to practice for any Hungarian-style uprising.

It was the first such maneuver held in the Soviet sector of the divided city and it emphasized the Communist fear of unrest which has spread throughout East Germany since the Hungarian revolt last Oct. 23.

Several thousand members of the militia "fighting groups" armed with rifles and submachine guns marched down main streets to the Alexander Platz area. Police and "peoples army" armored cars backed them up.

The "enemy forces" in the war games were officially designated as "counter-revolutionarieis" — the word the Communists used to describe the Hungarian rebels.

D. Sumrall organized the graduate school in 1947. He began his career as a history professor at Clarke Memorial College the year that school awarded him his B.A. degree.

During World War I, he served as education director of Camp Travis in San Antonio, Tex., in 1924, he joined the Mississippi College faculty, serving as assistant professor of history, chairman of the departments of economics and sociology, and education and psychology, and academic dean. He left Mississippi College in 1947.

Mississippi College awarded him an M. A. degree in 1925. He received his doctorate from Indiana University four years later.

HORSE MEAT RISE

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP) — M.N. Gammon has been selling meat for the city's zoo animals for 45 years. In 1905, Gammon said, horse meat sold for five cents per 100 pounds. Now the price is $13 to $15 per 100.

Home Show Scheduled At Fair Grounds

The Northeast Louisiana 1957 Home Show will be held at the Ouachita Valley Fair Grounds in West Monroe beginning Wednesday, April 24, and continuing for five days. The show is sponsored by the Home Builders industry.

Highlighting the entertainment side of the show is Mac Murray, internationally known as "Mr. Mystery." Murray will perform nightly on the stage at the show. He operates with volunteers from the audience and performs his feats by reading the serial number of paper money that the participant may have in his pocket. His mindreading act will be presented nightly.

Charge Farmers Too Used To Help

By BERNARD BRENNER

WASHINGTON, April 13 (UP) — Federal crop insurance officials complain that farmers are getting so accustomed to government assistance they've become tough prospects for crop insurance salesmen.

The federal insurance program is "somewhat unique" in the government farm program field, agriculture department officials explained in a statement filed with the House agricultural appropriations subcommittee. Farmers have to pay for crop insurance.

"They must buy this protection just as they do other insurance. It is not a case of signing up and being assured of a check for doing so," officials said.

Insurance Men Lament

But, the crop insurance officials lamented, while they've been trying to sell insurance other agriculture department agencies have been paying farmers for such things as planting conservation crops or not planting crops at all.

"It has been hard to get farmers to recognize that they must pay their way... under the crop insurance program when they are not required to make cash contributions to get benefits under so many other parts of the farm program," the statement added.

"This is frequently illustrated by our salemen being told by farmers that 'if our crops are that bad, the government will provide us some form of free emergency assistance,'" crop insurance officials said.

The stateuent said "real progress" has been made in many areas but "there is still a long way to go" in the effort to persuade farmers to recognize federal crop insurance as a business-like operation.

Indemnity Payments Top

Since the current "experimental" government crop insurance program began in 1948, indemnity payments to farmers of 190 million dollars have topped premium collections by about 17 million dollars, officials reported.

The federal insurance program expanded into 52 additional counties this year, bringing the number of eligible counties to 1,000, officials said in testimony released by the House subcommittee last week.

Crop coverage was raised from $306,742,000 last year to $401,000,000 this year. It will go up again to an estimated $443,000,00 in 1958 when the program moves into an additional 5 counties, assistant Agriculture Secretary Marvin L. McLain told the subcommittee.

F.C. McCartney, manager of the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, estimated with his aides that the program will show a profit this year. He estimated premium collections at $28,433,000 and indemnity payments at $25,500,000.

The corporation has lost money in six of the nine years since launching its current program. It last showed a profit in 1952.

Tax Collectors Not Upset Over Slash In Mails

WASHINGTON, April 13 (AP)—An Internal Revenue Service spokesman said yesterday 'we certainly aren't going to quibble" over income tax returns that may be a day or two late because of postal service cutbacks.

Technically the law requires the returns to be in the district tax offices by midnight Monday, April 15.

But the IRS spokesman, asked about the prospect of a pileup resulting from the closure of post offices this weekend because Congress hasn't provided requested extra money, told a reporter:

"We have never quibbled if the return carried a postmark of midnight on the 15th—nor, in fact, even if it is a day or two late.

"And we certainly aren't going to quibble about returns that may be held up by this Post Office development and take the chance of penalizing hundreds of honest taxpayers because of circumstances beyond their control."

Congratulates Reds On Giant Atom Smasher

BERKELEY, Calif., April 13 (AP)—Prof. Ernest O. Lawrence, famed nuclear scientist, yesterday congratulated Soviet Russian scientists for putting into operation an atom smasher which Moscow called the most powerful in existence.

The Russian instrument is a modernized version of the cyclotron, which Lawrence invented more than 25 years ago and which played a major part in the development of the atomic age.

A Russian announcement yesterday said their new machine, called a synchrophasotron, uses protons as nuclear bullets and fires them at a speed equivalent of 8.3 billion electron volts.

The most powerful atom accelerator in this country is in Lawrence's radiation laboratory at the University of California here and it's top output is 6.3 billion electron volts. It is called the bevatron.

Mississippi Is Favorite Playground For Twisters

JACKSON, Miss., April 13 (AP)—Mississippi is a favorite playground of tornadoes. One that struck Natchez more than a century ago killed 317 persons, possibly a record.

Little is known about the killer-storm which hit Natchez on May 7, 1840. But enough data has been collected to show that tornadoes hit the state hard and frequently.

"Mississippi had more tornadoes than any other state east of the Mississippi River in the 34 years ending with 1949," weather expert Snowden Flora wrote in "Tornadoes of the United States."

"Its death list from these storms has exceeded that of any other state, except Illinois and Arkansas. A person living 68 years in Mississippi has one chance in 1,529 of being killed by a tornado and one in 118 of being injured.

Flora calls that "the greatest hazard of the kind that exists in any state except Arkansas."

An old book, "Climatology of the United States," written in 1857 by Lorin Blodget, describes the 1840 tornado which hit Natchez as "the most destructive yet observed in the United States."

Houses, he said, were burst open—the typical effect of the tornado, whose violent whirl creates a vacuum so strong that houses literally "explode." The Natchez storm struck six or seven miles below Natchez at 2 p.m. and then moved up river.

The storm was said to have seared and crisped leaves and buds of plants.

Flora's book was published in 1953 by the University of Oklahoma Press at Norman.

The greatest single killer among history's tornadoes is the one which began in Missouri about 1 p.m. on March 18, 1925, moved across Illinois, and dissipated in Indiana at 4:13 p.m. It traveled 219 miles—and killed 689 persons.

But no city hit by that fantastic storm suffered the 317 death toll recorded at Natchez. The closest approach to the Natchez figure is the 306 killed May 27, 1896, in St. Louis, Mo.

Mississippi's most recent major tornado disaster, the one that struck at Visksburg in December 1953, ranks as the state's fourth most destructive tornado.

Tupelo's death toll of 216 on April 5, 1936, was one of the great tornado disasters of history, and the second worst in Mississippi history. On April 20, 1920, a wide-ranging tornado killed 160 people in a trip through east-central Mississippi, the state's third-ranked tornado.

U.S. Weather Bureau records for the 1916-50 period show the hour of greatest tornado danger in Mississippi begins at 6 p.m. Of the 155 tornadoes recorded in the state in that period, 14 occurred between 6 and 7 p.m. Thirteen occurred between 4 and 5 p.m. and 13 between 7 and 8 p.m. Over the nation as a whole, the most dangerous hour begins at 4 p.m.

The Tupelo tornado which injured 700 persons and caused about 3 million dollars in property damage, provided one of those freaks which often mark the killer storms.

The tornado blew open a trunk in a Tupelo home, picked up a picture from inside and deposited it near Cherokee, Ala., about 60 miles away. A minister who picked it up saw the woman's name and address on it and mailed it back to her. She received it in her hospital bed, where she was being treated for tornado injuries.

Yearbook Conference Is Given High Praise

Since the recent annual yearbook conference for high schools at Northeast Louisiana State College numerous letters of praise and commendation have been received by the college from high school faculty members and sponsors.

These letters point out that the conference is extremely beneficial to faculty and student yearbook workers, giving them practical ideas for producing their own yearbooks and stimulating interest to a great degree in this activity.

The first yearbook conference at the college here was held in 1955. No meeting was held in 1956 because the amphitheater in which it had been planned to hold the conference had not yet been completed.

The 1957 conference, held recently, attracted an attendance of 196 students and faculty sponsors from 25 schools of north Louisiana. Practically all high schools from Shreveport to the Mississippi line and from the Arkansas line to Alexandria were represented. This large representation was gratifying to President Lewis Slater of the college, to Lady Stahl, college yearbook sponsor and director of publicity and to all other members of the college staff, as well as to the Twin Cities and Ouachita parish.

All of the attending high school students and their faculty sponsors were enthusiastic over the opportunity to attend the college-sponsored event, to view the many displays and to engage in the exchange of ideas on the production of attractive yearbooks.

From the standpoint of practicability, the conference was declared a complete success. Representatives of high class yearbook companies were present with the most up to date and attractive displays of yearbooks and photographs.

Staff organization, yearbook content, photography and general design and makeup were among the subjects discussed in group meetings.

The yearbook conference is one of the "extra" services which the college is able to render to the people and the schools throughout north Louisiana. A constant effort is being made by the college officials and staff members to increase the services rendered not only to the young students of this area but to the adults as well.

The college personnel is to be commended for its unceasing efforts to render new and better services to the people of this area.

Government Is Never Disciplined By Itself

The story is told of Will Rogers being shown the beautiful new state capitol building at Lincoln, Neb. They were standing in front of the building reading the inscription over the entrance, "The vigilance of the people is the salvation of the state."

Will Rogers read it, thought about it a moment, then scratched his head and said: "Why don't they put those things up there in language the people can understand?"

"Oh, something like this," replied Will: "You gotta watch them guys or they'll run away with the state capitol."

Actually, Will Rogers meant this as no reflection upon the State administration of Nebraska or upon the members of the Nebraska legislature as individual persons. He could have, and would have, made the same observation about any state in the nation or about the national government itself.

Will Rogers knew human nature, he knew politics and politicians, well enough to know that it is simply not in the nature of government to discipline itself—to "watch" itself.

This is true of government of any sort. It is generally recognized as true of a dictator government, of course, but it is not so generally recognized as true of government in a free nation. But it is—and the only way in which government can be limited is by the "vigilance," by the demand of the people.

We have seen this illustrated by the government in our own free nation for a number of years—and it has made no difference which political party was in power because, as we have said, that is simply the nature of government. We have seen bureaucracy feeding upon itself at an alarming rate—and unless people quit providing the money to support this bureaucracy, it will continue to do so.

One of the best illustrations we have of the fact that even our own government will not discipline itself, limit itself, control itself is evidenced by the fact that all the emergency measures instituted for the last two or three decades have been continued in one form or another on a permanent basis. This is nothing so temporary as the permanent wave in a woman's hair; and there is nothing so permanent as a temporary measure inaugurated by a bureaucratic government!

Price support for farm products was instituted as a temporary emergency war measure during the Second World War. By the time the emergency was over, this paternalism was liked by so many people for one reason or another that this "federal aid" was continued; now it is just about as permanent as anything we have in our economy. The farmers, once the most independent and self-reliant of all our population, are now "kept" people, they are told what to raise, how much to raise, how much they can get for it, and what to do with their land. Their lives are no longer their own. They had just as well live under a dictatorship.

The farm situation, of course, only applies to a portion of our people, but it affects all the people—and if extended to enough segments of our population, we would very quickly become a complete welfare state and be living under a completely socialist government.

And it has been extended to many other phases of our economy to a greater or lesser degree; and many other illustrations could be cited, for which we do not have space here, of temporary emergency measures that have come to be considered as permanent.

Nor is that all—new ones are being proposed. One of the most prominent right now is federal aid for school building construction. It is being argued that adequate schools are of the utmost importance. That is true, but that is not the question at all. Anyone who knows anything knows that the "temporary" aspect of this proposal is a sham and a delusion. Anyone should know that the federal government must get the money with which to build these schools from the states before it can give it back to the states. Anyone should know that the real question is whether we shall have centralized, federally controlled public education or whether we shall continue to leave our public education under the control of local communities who best know what they want and need.

Senators Study Rules And Prepare To Launch Civil Rights Filibuster

WASHINGTON, April 13 (CQ) — Senators may soon be doing more homework than usual in preparation for a filibuster over civil rights legislation.

Parliamentary rule books and precedents will be considered carefully both by opponents of civil rights legislation who would filibuster and the proponents of the measures who will be trying to break the filibuster — a tactic by which a minority opposed to legislation uses unlimited debate to delay action on a proposal.

Expert knowledge of parliamentary rules helps both the filibusterers and their opponents. Dilatory motions, roll - call votes, quorum calls and points of order may provide temporary relief for Marathon speakers, but the slightest parliamentary blunder could lose the battle for the minority engaged in the filibuster.

The majority, meanwhile, by using a number of generally ignored senate rules can keep a filibustering senator from so much as leaning on his desk, insist that business intervene between quorum calls and refuse to permit a senator to speak more than twice on the same subject in one day.

Stimulating what will be the first full - scale filibuster since 1954 is President Eisenhower's four-point civil rights program. Supporters of the bill expect it on the house and senate floors after the Easter recess.

Southern opponents of the legislation have served notice that the filibuster will be used to keep intact their record of not having any significant civil rights legislation enacted since 1875.

In the house, where debate is strictly controlled, parliamentary obstruction may delay but cannot prevent a vote. But virtually unlimited senate debate frequently has done just that.

Under senate rules, 64 senators (two - thirds of the entire membership) may vote to invoke cloture — that is, limit debate. Cloture never has been invoked under this rule. From 1917 to 1949, two - thirds of the senators present and voting could invoke cloture; that rule was successful only four times, most recently in 1927. All told, there have been 22 cloture votes since the rule first was adopted in 1917. Eight dealt with so - called civil rights issues, none successfully.

A senate subcommittee currently is considering various proposals to reduce the number of senators required to limit debate, but it is unlikely to make its recommendations until after the senate disposes of the civil rights bill.

Essentially the filibuster is an endurance contest; the filibusterer tries to wear down the opposition with talk, and his opponents usually try to exhaust him with continuous day - and - night sessions —the theory being that eventually he will render himself speechless and the senate majority can work its will. Frequently the theory does not work, especially if the number of participants in the filibuster is sufficiently large and well organized to continue indefinitely.

Sen. Wayne Morse (D Ore.) set a record during 1953 debate on the "tidelands" offshore oil bill by talking for 22 hours and 26 minutes, but the bill he opposed eventually was passed. On other occasions Morse has denounced the filibuster, and in 1953 and 1957 he supported efforts to ease the cloture rule.

Another sitting senator, Allen J. Ellender (D. La.), in 1938 spoke for 25 hours intermittently over six days during a filibuster against an anti - lynching bill. That filibuster achieved its purpose.

On One Subject

During a successful filibuster against President Woodrow Wilson's ship purchase bill in 1915, Sen. Reed Smoot (R Utah) spoke for 11 hours and 35 minutes without relief and without deviating from the subject. In so doing, he probably set another kind of record, since filibusterers generally are not noted for their relevancy.

Exasperated senators have, on occasion, enjoyed such varied entertainments as reading from the Bible and Aesop's Fables and mouth - watering descriptions — coutesy of the late "Kingfish" Huey Long (D La.) — of southern "pot likker," turnip greens and corn bread.

Sen. Robert M. LaFollette Sr. (R Mich.), during a 1908 filibuster on a currency bill, held the floor for 18 hours and 23 minutes, but he was interrupted by 29 quorum calls and three roll calls on questions or order. He maintained his strength with egg - nogs delivered from the senate restaurant. One glass, which he rejected as doped, reportedly later was found to contain a fatal dose of ptomaine.

Lone Civilian On Board Airplane Grows Stubble

AIRBORNE, Westbound — As the lone civilian aboard this military cargo plane plying between the American mainland and the shore of Africa, I have acquired a two - day stubble, a great yearning for a hot bath and some first-hand knowledge of the air logistics project called FAST.

As I write this, the brown shoulder of the Dark Continent comes into sight under the right wing of our C-121 Constellation. Near the end of my outstretched toes stands a strapped - down pay load of 17,000 pounds of technical items for the U. S. sixth fleet. This cargo was assembled at the Norfolk navy base, trucked to Charleston, S. C., and then loaded for Nouasseur, Morocco. There it will be off - loaded to smaller planes and finally delivered COD (carrier on deck) to the ships of the U. S. sixth fleet, somehwere in the Medlterranean.

Airlift is expensive and long a-building. Three separate crews of highly - trained personnel with many years of accumulated service on the Atlantic routes of MATS have manned this plane since we left. The dollars and skills involved would far overtop those necessary to bring this amount of freight the same distance by sea. But my flight was the tail-end of a six months navy experiment in putting speed and efficiency above cost-consciousness.

The argument is that airlift will pay off in the long run, and I believe it. The intangible benefits are in the building of airmanship which, in our air age, is of immeasurable value. The things which military aviation learns today, commercial aviation will have at its command tomorrow. If it could be said that one single factor made America the world's greatest power, that factor would be our air power — commercial, industrial and military.

But in warfare, it's still the "fustest with the mostest," and this is the true justificaton for navy airlift. A special committee appointed by Admiral Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations, has made a study of fleet cargoes, showing that some 90 per cent of the tonnage includes food, clothing, fuel and general stores which it would be infeasible to ship by air. But the other 10 per cent of a fleet's needs tonnage-wise are technical items which actually outnumber the ordinary commodities by 9 to 1. These can be flown.

Among the items on my cargo plane, for example, are photographic equipment, polio vaccine and two drums of hydraulic oil. Had these items come by surface vessel, they would have been 45 days in the state - side warehouse, several days at sea and would then have piled up in the overseas warehouse until requisitioned for use. It's not inconceivable that the loss by wastage, obsolescence and needless surplus makes up for the expense of airlift. The items that leave the state - side warehouse by air are only those in actual demand. They are very seldom "emergency" items, but they are things needed at a certain spot, by a certain time. The special committee has figured that the airlift per month can economically supply each man with 1.99 pounds of goods, each ship in the Mediterranean with 381 pounds, each navy fighting plane with 1,050 pounds.

It goes without saying that the well - supplied, but not over - supplied sixth fleet is one that is battle - ready and extremely mobile. Plans are in the making to extend the FAST project into the Pacific, where the seventh fleet is separated from home by far greater distances and is facing, or so it seems at the present, a much more warlike situation across the Formosa Strait. But this very habit of regarding one place on the map as more sensitive and danger - fraught than another is the psychology which invites sneak-attacks. It is probably the best military argument for supplying our navy ships from the air. The difference in distance is minimized when a fleet in action can be sustained from the sky.

Pentagon Figures Joint Chiefs Of Staff Stacked In Favor Of Air Force

Pentagon figures the Joint Chiefs of Staff, who run the nation's armed forces, are now stacked in favor of the Air Force, with General Nathan Twining as chairman of JCS and General Curtis LeMay, as AF chief of staff. Aggressive LeMay built the Strategic Air Force network, which can go into action at an hour's notice. Prediction is he will be succeeded in that command by Lieut. General Emmett "Rosie" O'Donnell, former West Point football star and an outstanding flying officer in World War II.

Beck Can't Win — Dave Beck can't win reelection as Teamsters' Union president in September, according to union sources, who predict his successor will be Chicago's William Lee, rated by McClellan investigating committee as a "clean" labor leader. Beck has been an Eisenhower supporter but Lee is closely tied in with Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago and has been rated in polltical circles as one of best union workers for Democratic candidates.

Soapy Leads Leftists — Michigan's Gov. G. Mennen "Soapy" Williams has come forward as logical leader of Democrats left wing, following Wolverine sweep by his party in local elections. Controlling a big normally Republican state, he has moved ahead of Minnesota's Senator Hubert Humphrey in ratings, is expected to run for governor again next year. Prediction is he will be active candidate for presidential nomination in 1960, with strong labor support. Britain Waives Rules—The long time naval intelligence between U.S. and Britain will crumble when British mothball most of their fleet in slash of arms budget. Admiral Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations forsees that U.S. Navy, without British help, must work out defense against whole Russian submarine fleet, estimated at between 300 and 400 undersea craft, some built to fire guided missiles from close inshore. Prediction is that navy will stress submarine detection from planes, including some highly secret. Britain will expand their air branch of its navy.

Butz In Line — If Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson retires after Congress adjourns, probable successor predicted here is Earl L. Butz, former head of Purdue University (Ind.) agricultural college. Butz is favored because he has favorably impressed farm bloc senators and because President Eisehnower is expected to name man already tested in price support battles.

Foreign Aid Cuts—Fight over government spending cuts has reached point where only sweeping slashes in foreign aid will result in any substantial reduction, such as 2½ or 3 billion dollars, in Eisenhower budget. Prediction is that tussle over foreign aid, now budgeted at 4.4 billion will be hard fought, but that there will be no billion dollar cut, though half a billion is likely. This will mean appropriations within 1½ billion of total administration budget sent to Congress.

Editor,
Monroe Morning World:

Reference is made to your Editorial of Monday, April 8, 1957, entitled: "Postal Service Cuts Declared Unjustified."

In this editorial you refer to the "independent" decision of the Postmistress of Lake Providence to suspend postal service one day a week. Your editorial poses the question as to whether any postmasters may close their post offices on certain days of the week at their own discretion.

The editorial further says that these questions are based on the reported statement by the Lake Providence Postmaster (myself) that she decided on closing one extra day a week without instructions from the Postmaster General.

I am sure that you do not wish to incorrectly quote me or to cause the public to have an erroneous opinion of the services and practices which exist at this office.

It is obvious that the representative of your paper who called me by telephone did not correctly understand the information I furnished him as to the hours of service at the Lake Providence Post Office. I did inform him that window service had been discontinued on Thursday afternoons by direction of the District Operations Manager at New Orleans, La. This was not in any sense and quote an, "independent" decision of mine. This practice has long existed at some other second-class offices when business firms close on Thursday afternoons through the spring and summer months.

This action was taken only after general publicity had been given of the proposed change.

In all fairness to all concerned will you please make this correction?

Sincerely,
TOMMY G. BIGGS,

Along with many other citizens, taxpayers and good Americans of your district I would like for you to ask Mr. Summerfield this question. In connection with his proposed closing of our post offices and-or services connected with the post office, how much money is the Republican administration sending at the request of President Eisenhower and other Republican officials over to support the postal service of Great Britain, France, India and other claptrap countries.

Editor, Morning World:

Wil' you please permit me to state the deer's side of the often discussed story about them eating everything in Tensas Parish. There are several reasons why the deer have invaded these (few) farms for the past two years.

First place, one farm I know has about 2,000 acres in the tract of land. When it was bought about four years ago there was only about 300 acres in cultivation. Now there are only about 400 acres remaining in wood land. These deer are pushed back into what's called the Fisher-Heard woods. This is the condition these poor creatures are forced to.

This applies to all these large farms. These large farms have cleared almost all their land, planted beans for sow-crop a year or so, then the cotton acres are given to them. The small land owner gets the hatchet. Another reason why you see so many deer at some places the last two years is it has been very dry here this past fall and winter. Until near December there wasn't any water in the woods for them, so they were forced out to get water, which was at Bar C, Oceola, Marydale and all the rest that had water and beans, etc. Another thing, there was not any acorns, pecans, persimmons, red haws or palmetto berries the last two years in the woods for them. Where else can they go?

I will agree that they did lots of damage, but it looks bad to slaughter them as some have suggested.

Some have estimated the deer population at 15,000, but these estimates have only gone to these places where the large herds are.

I have been all through about one third of the woodland of this parish during the hunting season, and I am acquainted with conditions of which I speak.

I have many friends that have hunted the entire 30 days on Buck Horn Club that failed to see over one or two does, much less any buck.

There was one picture appearec' in the Franklin Sunday paper that was a humdinger. These deer were killed on what's known as Pecan Grove pasture. The place has been a kind of reserve. No hunting has been permitted until this time. Plenty of water and pasture grass—plenty of deer. Nothing to eat over the fence on Buck Horn — no deer.

I doubt very much if there's 5,000 deer in the entire parish with the east half of Franklin thrown in.

You don't see many deer now on these farms, as they now have food in the woods such as wild vetch, grasses and twigs.

If there are any acorns and pecans this fall and winter, these deer will not invade these bean fields so bad.

There is nothing that will arouse the sensitivity of true American patriots more easily than threats of disruption of our progress in building up the concepts of liberty and freedom, or the attributes (religion and education) essential to the advancement of civilization. Patriots are always on the alert: they well know the principles and dangers of adversity, and are ready at any time to render service adequate to the security of their country.

I note with much interest, a fine letter in the forum of the papers on April 7th, written by Mr. T. Y. Harp, in which he very accurately pictured the advancement of civilization; the result of religion and education: and the threat of disruption of our liberties and tranquility. For euphony I will quote part of his letter, "Until a short time ago, when someone with a mind that fulfills all the qualifications of the Devil's workshop, thought the time opportune to toss the monkey wrench of discord into our educational machinery."

I take if tor granted, that Mr. Harp, referred to the nefarious, Marxist inspired, NAACP, its successes in the courts, and it's founders who were no other than a set of hungry, money hunting Marxist Teachers, Preachers, Lawyers, and Priests; with more than fifty whites, and only six Negroes in the convention. This organization has been bleeding the ignorant Negroes and white trash for money for forty seven years; and it is alarming that many of them have made their way into our public offices. I have heard much comment about the Marxist advance, but I haven't heard any suggestions for a remedy.

The remedy can be found in a Governor's convention. If the Governors of the States would call a convention of Governors, and exercise the constitutional powers of the States; 36 thirty-six States can concur and Amend, Rewrite, or Abolish the constitution, and remodel the entire framework of the federal government as suits themselves, and there's nothing that anybody can do about it. Now is the time for the States to act, because if the Marxists ever through the NAACP, get control of the government; that is exactly what they will do.

Men Called 'Quacks' May Be Recognized As Healers

More and more the medical profession is returning to a realization of the importance of the "will to live."

Nobody can know how many physicians actually have saved lives merely by the confidence they exude.

Dr. George Boines of Wilmington, Del., says he has seen cripples healed with this combination of "faith, hope and medicine" even where the muscles had wasted from disease or injury.

He told the Academy of General Practice on March 25 that crippling "should never be regarded as incurable. You should never tell a patient he'll be lame for life."

I keep remembering they told that once to a badly burned boy namel Glenn Cunningham and he lived to run the mile faster than any other human ever had.

Dr. Boines can tell you of a 25-year-old woman who suffered a brain injury in 1954 and was sentenced to a wheel chair for life. Today with faith, hope and medicine she is up and about and teaching school.

And a man with a spastic gait who was told he would never walk . . . today can run.

I have stood at the foot of a loved one's bed and watched great specialists stand around shaking their neads and muttering, "Well, we've done all we can . . ."

But then I have seen one stubborn, determined doctor clench his teeth and say, "She will get well . . .!"

And say it with such profound confidence that his faith reached out and into the valley of the shadow and strengthened her . . .

No . . .

I am convinced . . . though Dr. Boines could not say this I can . . . I am satisfied that one day many the world presently calls "quacks" will be proved to be healers.

Not because there was any value to the sugar pills or the swamp water serum they used.

But because they were men of such confidence and conviction.

Because they so firmly "believed."

Because they were sincerely convinced they could heal.

That confidence was contagious . . . and they did.

Yearbook Conference Is Given High Praise

Since the recent annual yearbook conference for high schools at Northeast Louisiana State College numerous letters of praise and commendation have been received by the college from high school faculty members and sponsors.

These letters point out that the conference is extremely beneficial to faculty and student yearbook workers, giving them practical ideas for producing their own yearbooks and stimulating interest to a great degree in this activity.

The first yearbook conference at the college here was held in 1955. No meeting was held in 1956 because the amphitheater in which it had been planned to hold the conference had not yet been completed.

The 1957 conference, held recently, attracted an attendance of 196 students and faculty sponsors from 25 schools of north Louisiana. Practically all high schools from Shreveport to the Mississippi line and from the Arkansas line to Alexandria were represented. This large representation was gratifying to President Lewis Slater of the college, to Lady Stahl, college yearbook sponsor and director of publicity and to all other members of the college staff, as well as to the Twin Cities and Ouachita parish.

All of the attending high school students and their faculty sponsors were enthusiastic over the opportunity to attend the college-sponsored event, to view the many displays and to engage in the exchange of ideas on the production of attractive yearbooks.

From the standpoint of practicability, the conference was declared a complete success. Representatives of high class yearbook companies were present with the most up to date and attractive displays of yearbooks and photographs.

Staff organization, yearbook content, photography and general design and makeup were among the subjects discussed in group meetings.

The yearbook conference is one of the "extra" services which the college is able to render to the people and the schools throughout north Louisiana. A constant effort is being made by the college officials and staff members to increase the services rendered not only to the young students of this area but to the adults as well.

The college personnel is to be commended for its unceasing efforts to render new and better services to the people of this area.

Government Is Never Disciplined By Itself

The story is told of Will Rogers being shown the beautiful new state capitol building at Lincoln, Neb. They were standing in front of the building reading the inscription over the entrance, "The vigilance of the people is the salvation of the state."

Will Rogers read it, thought about it a moment, then scratched his head and said: "Why don't they put those things up there in language the people can understand?"

"Oh, something like this," replied Will: "You gotta watch them guys or they'll run away with the state capitol."

Actually, Will Rogers meant this as no reflection upon the State administration of Nebraska or upon the members of the Nebraska legislature as individual persons. He could have, and would have, made the same observation about any state in the nation or about the national government itself.

Will Rogers knew human nature, he knew politics and politicians, well enough to know that it is simply not in the nature of government to discipline itself—to "watch" itself.

This is true of government of any sort. It is generally recognized as true of a dictator government, of course, but it is not so generally recognized as true of government in a free nation. But it is—and the only way in which government can be limited is by the "vigilance," by the demand of the people.

We have seen this illustrated by the government in our own free nation for a number of years—and it has made no difference which political party was in power because, as we have said, that is simply the nature of government. We have seen bureaucracy feeding upon itself at an alarming rate—and unless people quit providing the money to support this bureaucracy, it will continue to do so.

One of the best illustrations we have of the fact that even our own government will not discipline itself, limit itself, control itself is evidenced by the fact that all the emergency measures instituted for the last two or three decades have been continued in one form or another on a permanent basis. This is nothing so temporary as the permanent wave in a woman's hair; and there is nothing so permanent as a temporary measure inaugurated by a bureaucratic government!

Price support for farm products was instituted as a temporary emergency war measure during the Second World War. By the time the emergency was over, this paternalism was liked by so many people for one reason or another that this "federal aid" was continued; now it is just about as permanent as anything we have in our economy. The farmers, once the most independent and self-reliant of all our population, are now "kept" people, they are told what to raise, how much to raise, how much they can get for it, and what to do with their land. Their lives are no longer their own. They had just as well live under a dictatorship.

The farm situation, of course, only applies to a portion of our people, but it affects all the people—and if extended to enough segments of our population, we would very quickly become a complete welfare state and be living under a completely socialist government.

And it has been extended to many other phases of our economy to a greater or lesser degree; and many other illustrations could be cited, for which we do not have space here, of temporary emergency measures that have come to be considered as permanent.

Nor is that all—new ones are being proposed. One of the most prominent right now is federal aid for school building construction. It is being argued that adequate schools are of the utmost importance. That is true, but that is not the question at all. Anyone who knows anything knows that the "temporary" aspect of this proposal is a sham and a delusion. Anyone should know that the federal government must get the money with which to build these schools from the states before it can give it back to the states. Anyone should know that the real question is whether we shall have centralized, federally controlled public education or whether we shall continue to leave our public education under the control of local communities who best know what they want and need.

Senators Study Rules And Prepare To Launch Civil Rights Filibuster

WASHINGTON, April 13 (CQ) — Senators may soon be doing more homework than usual in preparation for a filibuster over civil rights legislation.

Parliamentary rule books and precedents will be considered carefully both by opponents of civil rights legislation who would filibuster and the proponents of the measures who will be trying to break the filibuster — a tactic by which a minority opposed to legislation uses unlimited debate to delay action on a proposal.

Expert knowledge of parliamentary rules helps both the filibusterers and their opponents. Dilatory motions, roll - call votes, quorum calls and points of order may provide temporary relief for Marathon speakers, but the slightest parliamentary blunder could lose the battle for the minority engaged in the filibuster.

The majority, meanwhile, by using a number of generally ignored senate rules can keep a filibustering senator from so much as leaning on his desk, insist that business intervene between quorum calls and refuse to permit a senator to speak more than twice on the same subject in one day.

Stimulating what will be the first full - scale filibuster since 1954 is President Eisenhower's four-point civil rights program. Supporters of the bill expect it on the house and senate floors after the Easter recess.

Southern opponents of the legislation have served notice that the filibuster will be used to keep intact their record of not having any significant civil rights legislation enacted since 1875.

In the house, where debate is strictly controlled, parliamentary obstruction may delay but cannot prevent a vote. But virtually unlimited senate debate frequently has done just that.

Under senate rules, 64 senators (two - thirds of the entire membership) may vote to invoke cloture — that is, limit debate. Cloture never has been invoked under this rule. From 1917 to 1949, two - thirds of the senators present and voting could invoke cloture; that rule was successful only four times, most recently in 1927. All told, there have been 22 cloture votes since the rule first was adopted in 1917. Eight dealt with so - called civil rights issues, none successfully.

A senate subcommittee currently is considering various proposals to reduce the number of senators required to limit debate, but it is unlikely to make its recommendations until after the senate disposes of the civil rights bill.

Essentially the filibuster is an endurance contest; the filibusterer tries to wear down the opposition with talk, and his opponents usually try to exhaust him with continuous day - and - night sessions —the theory being that eventually he will render himself speechless and the senate majority can work its will. Frequently the theory does not work, especially if the number of participants in the filibuster is sufficiently large and well organized to continue indefinitely.

Sen. Wayne Morse (D Ore.) set a record during 1953 debate on the "tidelands" offshore oil bill by talking for 22 hours and 26 minutes, but the bill he opposed eventually was passed. On other occasions Morse has denounced the filibuster, and in 1953 and 1957 he supported efforts to ease the cloture rule.

Another sitting senator, Allen J. Ellender (D. La.), in 1938 spoke for 25 hours intermittently over six days during a filibuster against an anti - lynching bill. That filibuster achieved its purpose.

On One Subject

During a successful filibuster against President Woodrow Wilson's ship purchase bill in 1915, Sen. Reed Smoot (R Utah) spoke for 11 hours and 35 minutes without relief and without deviating from the subject. In so doing, he probably set another kind of record, since filibusterers generally are not noted for their relevancy.

Exasperated senators have, on occasion, enjoyed such varied entertainments as reading from the Bible and Aesop's Fables and mouth - watering descriptions — coutesy of the late "Kingfish" Huey Long (D La.) — of southern "pot likker," turnip greens and corn bread.

Sen. Robert M. LaFollette Sr. (R Mich.), during a 1908 filibuster on a currency bill, held the floor for 18 hours and 23 minutes, but he was interrupted by 29 quorum calls and three roll calls on questions or order. He maintained his strength with egg - nogs delivered from the senate restaurant. One glass, which he rejected as doped, reportedly later was found to contain a fatal dose of ptomaine.

Lone Civilian On Board Airplane Grows Stubble

AIRBORNE, Westbound — As the lone civilian aboard this military cargo plane plying between the American mainland and the shore of Africa, I have acquired a two - day stubble, a great yearning for a hot bath and some first-hand knowledge of the air logistics project called FAST.

As I write this, the brown shoulder of the Dark Continent comes into sight under the right wing of our C-121 Constellation. Near the end of my outstretched toes stands a strapped - down pay load of 17,000 pounds of technical items for the U. S. sixth fleet. This cargo was assembled at the Norfolk navy base, trucked to Charleston, S. C., and then loaded for Nouasseur, Morocco. There it will be off - loaded to smaller planes and finally delivered COD (carrier on deck) to the ships of the U. S. sixth fleet, somehwere in the Medlterranean.

Airlift is expensive and long a-building. Three separate crews of highly - trained personnel with many years of accumulated service on the Atlantic routes of MATS have manned this plane since we left. The dollars and skills involved would far overtop those necessary to bring this amount of freight the same distance by sea. But my flight was the tail-end of a six months navy experiment in putting speed and efficiency above cost-consciousness.

The argument is that airlift will pay off in the long run, and I believe it. The intangible benefits are in the building of airmanship which, in our air age, is of immeasurable value. The things which military aviation learns to-today, commercial aviation will have at its command tomorrow. If it could be said that one single factor made America the world's greatest power, that factor would be our air power — commercial, industrial and military.

But in warfare, it's still the "fustest with the mostest," and this is the true justificaton for navy airlift. But the other 10 per cent of a fleet's needs tonnage-wise are technical items which actually outnumber the ordinary commodities by 9 to 1. These can be flown.

Had these items come by surface vessel, they would have been 45 days in the state - side warehouse, several days at sea and would then have piled up in the overseas warehouse until requisitioned for use. It's not inconceivable that the loss by wastage, obsolescence and needless surplus makes up for the expense of airlift. The items that leave the state - side warehouse by air are only those in actual demand. They are very seldom "emergency" items, but they are things needed at a certain spot, by a certain time. The special committee has figured that the airlift per month can economically supply each man with 1.99 pounds of goods, each ship in the Mediterranean with 381 pounds, each navy fighting plane with 1,050 pounds.

It goes without saying that the well - supplied, but not over - supplied sixth fleet is one that is battle - ready and extremely mobile. Plans are in the making to extend the FAST project into the Pacific, where the seventh fleet is separated from home by far greater distances and is facing, or so it seems at the present, a much more warlike situation across the Formosa Strait. But this very habit of regarding one place on the map as more sensitive and danger - fraught than another is the psychology which invites sneak-attacks. It is probably the best military argument for supplying our navy ships from the air. The difference in distance is minimized when a fleet in action can be sustained from the sky.

House of Representatives
Washington, D. C.

Along with many other citizens, taxpayers and good Americans of your district I would like for you to ask Mr. Summerfield this question. In connection with his proposed closing of our post offices and-or services connected with the post office, how much money is the Republican administration sending at the request of President Eisenhower and other Republican officials over to support the postal service of Great Britain, France, India and other claptrap countries.

Editor, Morning World:

Will you please permit me to state the deer's side of the often discussed story about them eating everything in Tensas Parish. There are several reasons why the deer have invaded these (few) farms for the past two years.

First place, one farm I know has about 2,000 acres in the tract of land. When it was bought about four years ago there was only about 300 acres in cultivation. Now there are only about 400 acres remaining in wood land. These deer are pushed back into what's called the Fisher-Heard woods. This is the condition these poor creatures are forced to.

This applies to all these large farms. These large farms have cleared almost all their land, planted beans for sow-crop a year or so, then the cotton acres are given to them. The small land owner gets the hatchet. Another reason why you see so many deer at some places the last two years is it has been very dry here this past fall and winter. Until near December there wasn't any water in the woods for them, so they were forced out to get water, which was at Bar C, Oceola, Marydale and all the rest that had water and beans, etc. Another thing, there was not any acorns, pecans, persimmons, red haws or palmetto berries the last two years in the woods for them. Where else can they go?

I will agree that they did lots of damage, but it looks bad to slaughter them as some have suggested.

Some have estimated the deer population at 15,000, but these estimates have only gone to these places where the large herds are.

I have been all through about one third of the woodland of this parish during the hunting season, and I am acquainted with conditions of which I speak.

I have many friends that have hunted the entire 30 days on Buck Horn Club that failed to see over one or two does, much less any buck.

There was one picture appeared in the Franklin Sunday paper that was a humdinger. These deer were killed on what's known as Pecan Grove pasture. The place has been a kind of reserve. No hunting has been permitted until this time. Plenty of water and pasture grass—plenty of deer. Nothing to eat over the fence on Buck Horn — no deer.

I doubt very much if there's 5,000 deer in the entire parish with the east half of Franklin thrown in.

You don't see many deer now on these farms, as they now have food in the woods such as wild vetch, grasses and twigs.

If there are any acorns and pecans this fall and winter, these deer will not invade these bean fields so bad.

There is nothing that will arouse the sensitivity of true American patriots more easily than threats of disruption of our progress in building up the concepts of liberty and freedom, or the attributes (religion and education) essential to the advancement of civilization. Patriots are always on the alert: they well know the principles and dangers of adversity, and are ready at any time to render service adequate to the security of their country.

I note with much interest, a fine letter in the forum of the papers on April 7th, written by Mr. T. Y. Harp, in which he very accurately pictured the advancement of civilization; the result of religion and education: and the threat of disruption of our liberties and tranquility. For euphony I will quote part of his letter, "Until a short time ago, when someone with a mind that fulfills all the qualifications of the Devil's workshop, thought the time opportune to toss the monkey wrench of discord into our educational machinery."

I take if tor granted, that Mr. Harp, referred to the nefarious, Marxist inspired, NAACP, its successes in the courts, and it's founders who were no other than a set of hungry, money hunting Marxist Teachers, Preachers, Lawyers, and Priests; with more than fifty whites, and only six Negroes in the convention. This organization has been bleeding the ignorant Negroes and white trash for money for forty seven years; and it is alarming that many of them have made their way into our public offices. I have heard much comment about the Marxist advance, but I haven't heard any suggestions for a remedy.

The remedy can be found in a Governor's convention. If the Governors of the States would call a convention of Governors, and exercise the constitutional powers of the States; 36 thirty-six States can concur and Amend, Rewrite, or Abolish the constitution, and remodel the entire framework of the federal government as suits themselves, and there's nothing that anybody can do about it. Now is the time for the States to act, because if the Marxists ever through the NAACP, get control of the government; that is exactly what they will do.

Men Called 'Quacks' May Be Recognized As Healers

More and more the medical profession is returning to a realization of the importance of the "will to live."

Nobody can know how many physicians actually have saved lives merely by the confidence they exude.

Dr. George Boines of Wilmington, Del., says he has seen cripples healed with this combination of "faith, hope and medicine" even where the muscles had wasted from disease or injury.

He told the Academy of General Practice on March 25 that crippling "should never be regarded as incurable. You should never tell a patient he'll be lame for life."

I keep remembering they told that once to a badly burned boy namel Glenn Cunningham and he lived to run the mile faster than any other human ever had.

Dr. Boines can tell you of a 25-year-old woman who suffered a brain injury in 1954 and was sentenced to a wheel chair for life. Today with faith, hope and medicine she is up and about and teaching school.

And a man with a spastic gait who was told he would never walk . . . today can run.

I like this man's attitude.

I have stood at the foot of a loved one's bed and watched great specialists stand around shaking their neads and muttering, "Well, we've done all we can . . ."

But then I have seen one stubborn, determined doctor clench his teeth and say, "She will get well . . .!"

And say it with such profound confidence that his faith reached out and into the valley of the shadow and strengthened her . . .

No . . .

I am convinced . . . though Dr. Boines could not say this I can . . . I am satisfied that one day many the world presently calls "quacks" will be proved to be healers.

Not because there was any value to the sugar pills or the swamp water serum they used.

But because they were men of such confidence and conviction.

Because they so firmly "believed."

Because they were sincerely convinced they could heal.

That confidence was contagious . . . and they did.

Time For Stock-Taking On Record Of Congress

By RAYMOND LAHR
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 13 (UP)—The approach of Easter annually gives the signal for stock-taking on the record of Congress since the start of the year.

There is a widespread tendency each year to come up with the finding that Congress hasn't done much — and the record this year would not indicate that 1957 is different.

To this conclusion, however, the perennial and probably justified retort is that Congress at work in the winter is Congress at work in committee. The trickle of bills out of committees becomes a flood in late spring and early summer.

DOCTRINE GETS PASSAGE

As of March 31 only 12 bills had become law. But scores of others have emerged from committee and many have been passed by one of the two houses.

The most important act of Congress during the first three months was passage of the resolution asserting the Eisenhower Doctrine for resisting Communist aggression in the Middle East.

Other major bills passed were a 15-month extension of corporate income and excise tax rates, new lending authority for the Small Business Administration, and more authority for the government to buy up mortgages and free more private funds for home financing.

Otherwise, the House has passed five of the regular appropriation bills, none of which is yet off the assembly line in the Senate. The Senate has passed a $1,500,000,000 public works bill and a massive rewrite of federal banking laws—two bills which now await House action.

NO GREAT VOLUME

Tt this point, the atmosphere in Congress indicates that a great volume of legislation is not to be expected this year. It can be easily argued, however, that the record of a Congress cannot be measured in terms of the number of bills passed.

If Congress mirrors public opinion, the only effective public pressure on legislation this year is aimed at cutbacks in government spending. This situation alone can put a brake on measures — like President Eisenhower's school construction program—calling for new outlays of money.

Because the school segregation issue has become enmeshed in the school construction bill, passage of a civil rights bill has been viewed as a necessary preliminary to action on the school measure. Now school legislation must also survive the battle of the budget.

Burney Asks Program To Aid Health Of American Indians

WASHINGTON, April 13 (UP)—Surgeon General LeRoy E. Burney today proposed a long-range 60-million dollar-a-year program to raise health standards among American Indians and natives of Alaska.

There are about 472,000 Indians, 335,000 of them in areas now served by federal health programs. Alaskan natives also are being administered to.

Burney made his recommendations public with approval of the House Appropriations Committee, which had asked him to determine the health needs of the Indians and the cost of putting them on an acceptable standard.

He said health problems of greatest urgency are tuberculosis, pneumonia and other respiratory diseases, diarrhea and other enteric afflictions, eye, ear and dental defects and diseases, and mental illness.

He said there are four major impediments to general use of community health facilities by Indians:

Many reservations are too remote from hospitals and other health resources.

Community services in some areas are too limited.

Morrison Backs Funds Slash For Orleans Museum

NEW ORLEANS, April 13—UP—Mayor deLesseps Morrison has endorsed the city council's action to discontinue city funds for support of the Delgado art museum and its recommendation to give the museum's present employees a 30-day salary notice.

Funds for the museum board will be terminated "immediately", Morrison said, although sufficient funds will be released to provide salaries for the existing employes for the next 30 days, he said.

The city's council's action came after the Delgado board of directors refused to grant director Alonzo Lansford a hearing concerning his dismissal in March.

Arthur H. Feitel, president of the Delgado board, who announced this week he would assume the duties of the director of the museum on a part time basis, refused to comment on the move by the city council.

"The problem goes deeper than just the Delgado board," Morrison said. "It is a question of policy and principle in dealing with all independent boards. . .who are solely responsible for appropriating taxpayers' money."

The museum board will form a six member committee to meet with city officials in an effort to get city funds re-instated for the museum's operation.

Chessman Sets Record In Death Row; Sees 79 Condemned Men Go

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1 — (UP) — There's a constant change of faces on death row in San Quentin prison across the bay.

Some are timidly hopeful; some are stolid and resigned; some are vicious and defiant as they sit out their last few months before plodding trancelike to the one-way door of the gas chamber.

For the past eight years, nine months and 10 days, convict-author Caryl Chessman has outlasted them all as he has watched no less than 79 condemned men come and go.

But despite his unquestioned title as dean of California's death row, the Los Angeles kidnaper still has an even three months to go to break the record set more than 40 years ago by a small Pennsylvania housewife.

According to a United Press survey, the all-time champion for death row longevity appears to have been Mrs. Kate Edwards, of Berks county, Pa., who spent nine years and 10 days under a hanging sentence for the murder of her husband.

If it's any comfort to Chessman, Kate finally beat the rap. Sentenced to hang on Feb. 16, 1905, she was finally granted a pardon on Feb. 26, 1914.

Ancient City Found In India

NEW DELHI, April 1 (UP)—Indian archeologists have unearthed a 2,00-year-old city complete with dockyard and modern-style underground drainage.

Damage Costs In Mississippi Under Estimate

JACKSON, Miss., April 13 (AP)—The State Building Commission acted yesterday to repair fire and tornado damages at three institutions—the tuberculosis sanatorium, Mississippi State College for Women, and the University of Mississippi.

Lt. Gov. Carroll Gartin said the repairs at the sanatorium, struck last week by a tornado, probably will cost no more than about 75,000, much less than an earlier damage estimate of 20,000.

The commission estimated fire loss at MSCW, where an auditorium was damaged earlier this week, at from $150,000 to $175,000. The college board was authorized to advertise for bids and $4,000 was allocated for immediate clean-up work.

The commission asked University of Mississippi officials to prepare plans for needs resulting from a fire which destroyed the school's paint ship and maintenance building.

Move Is Started To Aid Milk Sales

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON, April 13 (AP) — A move has been started in Congress to make it easier for Midwestern dairymen to sell milk in the big Eastern markets.

Backers of the move contend that many of these markets — acting under demands of lal milk producers—have set up sanitary and other regulations which greatly restrict the sale of outside milk.

Rep. Johnson (D-Wis) has introduced a bill which would establish uniform sanitation standards for milk and milk products moving in interstate commerce. He is enlisting the aid of other lawmakers from Midwestern states which produce a surplus of milk.

The standards would be ones which have been proposed — and adopted by some local markets — by the U. S. Public Health Service.

Complaints against restrictive local regulations have been particularly sharp in the Midwest, where dairy men must depend heavily on the manufacture of butter, cheese, dry milk and other dairy products as outlets for their milk. These outlets pay less than dealers in fluid milk.

Backing the move to set up federal regulation is the National Creameries Assn. The National Grange, one of the major general farm organizations, has criticized the present setup. In a 1955 study of the milk marketing system, the Grange gave a number of examples of how local sanitary regulations had been used to develop what it called barriers against the free movement of quality milk.

But those who want to retain the present system argue that limitations must be mainained in local markets so as to provide an economic climate that will make it possible for nearby dairymen to produce an adequate supply of pure milk for those markets at all times.

They contend that elimination of such restrictions would tend to drive many local dairymen out of business, leaving consumers at the mercy of distant producers.

Backers of a federally enforced uniform sanitary code contend that their plan could come much nearer providing the whole country with an adequate supply of good milk than does the present one. They argue that present local restrictions often keep out supplies needed from surplus-producing areas. The latter — chiefly in the Midwest — may fall back on lower-priced manufacturing milk markets, they say.

Egyptian People Brace For New Round Of War

CAIRO, April 12 (AP)—The Egyptian people braced themselves this week for another round of trouble in the Middle East crisis. But no one could guess where the trouble would come from.

There was no sign of a military buildup by Egypt's enemies comparable to the situation last fall. But Egyptian leaders realize a new conflict might be touched off in any one of several places — Jordan, Aqaba, Gaza or the Suez Canal.

The government Wednesday announced widescale spring maneuvers, expected to be among the biggest ever held by the Egyptian army. This touched off a spate of military activity.

Practice air raid and blackouts have been staged in most Egyptian cities.

Schools have been advised to give preliminary spring examinations which could serve as final exams in case they have to close again. Schools were closed when Egypt was attacked last fall.

Nobody imagines that President Nasser himself would attack Israel on anyone else at present. He has too much to gain by maintaining peace.

At the same time there is no visible sign that Britain, France or Israel are planning to attack Egypt. The British and French have dismantled the military machine they built up on Cyprus last year. Reports from Israel say that the country is relaxed and in holiday mood at the approach of the Passover season. Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion and many other Israeli leaders are on vacation.

Despite tl this, Egyptian leaders are wary.

Jordan appeared the most dangerous spot. Pro - Western King Hussein had precipitated a crisis there by dismissing his pro-Egyptian premier, Suleiman Nabulsi. Syria was reported to have moved an armored regiment into north Jordan today. If Hussein is endangered by ensuing trouble, Iraqi troops may move across into Jordan to save the monarchy. Hussein and Iraq's King Faisal II are 21-year-old cousins.

Israeli might seize on this trouble as an excuse to occupy all the west bank of the Jordan and take over Arab Palestine. Egypt then would be committed by military treaty to move to Jordan's defense.

Israel's Foreign Minister Golda Meir declared in Tel Aviv today foreign interference in Jordan would affect Israel's security and "we will not look at it indifferently" if foreign troops moved in.

Tension over the Aqaba Gulf flared up last week end when the American tanker Hills passed through the Egyptian-claimed waters and unloaded 16,500 tons of Persian Gulf oil at the Israeli port of Eilat. Egypt and Saudi Arabia both protested to the U. S. government, saying the tanker should have asked permission before passing through the narrow Strait of Tiran. Other Arab States planned similar protests.

Improvement Of Waterworks Is Planned At Oak Grove

OAK GROVE, April 13 (Special) — Improvement of the waterworks facilities here for increasing emergency fire protection is to be undertaken by the Oak Grove Water Co., W. D. Durr, president, has announced.

The company, it was said, will soon begin installation of a 250,000 - gallon surface storage tank, increasing the company's water-storage capacity to a maximum of 350,000 gallons.

Additional auxiliary pumping equipment will also be installed, which will increase pressure, when needed, in additional eight-inch mains which are to be placed in the system.

Cost of the waterworks improvement program is estimated at approximately $50,000.

Midwest GOP Optimistic As Session Ends

OMAHA, Neb., April 13 (UP)— National Republican party leaders closed a Midwest strategy meeting on an optimistic note today and announced the scheduling of a giant campaign conference in Washington June 6-7.

National Chairman Meade Alcorn said all Republicans in Congress, the President's cabinet, and "every participant" of six regional "grassroots" meetings over the nation would be invited to join the GOP central committee at the June meeting.

"I confidently expect President Eisenhower to address the meeting on June 7," Alcorn said.

He said the meeting had been in the planning stage for several weeks, but that announcement of it had been held up until the first of the six regional conferences was completed here today.

Alcorn, flanked by the Senate and House GOP campaign leaders, Sen. Andrew Schoeppel of Kansas and Rep. Richard M. Simpson of Pennsylvania, said he felt "better about the Midwest now than when I got here" two days ago.

He and the congressional leaders expressed confidence that a campaign battle organized tightly from the local level on up would regain the strength lost by the GOP in midwestern states in 1956.

Specifically, Alcorn said, the conference had given him reason to expect the recapture of the first district congressional seat in South Dakota, the fifth district seat in Kansas and the sixth district seat in Iowa.

He said half a dozen other House seats now held by Democrats in the eight-state area represented here may be captured, and "we have every reason to expect to hold the three senate seats" in the area to be filled in 1958.

Powell's Next Aim–Indians

NEW YORK, April 13 (UP) — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell Jr. said today the Negro soon will reach full equality with whites and that the nation now should concentrate on "the emancipation of the American Indian."

The New York Democrat said in a speech to the Indian League of the Americas that the movement for "full equality" for Negroes "has reached such proportions there is no power that can stop it."

"Within our generation, if not by the centennial of the emancipation proclamation—1963 — full equality will be obtained by the overwhelming majority of Negroes, even in the deepest sections of the South behind the color curtain," he said.

Powell, one of three Negro members of the House, said Americans "should devote their full attention to the emancipation" of the Indian, whom he called "America's forgotten man."

Second Negro Won't Attend Va. Banquet

RICHMOND, Va., April 13 (AP) — The second of two prominent Negroes inadvertently invited to a dinner here "for distinguished Virginians" today said she would not attend.

"I feel the state of Virginia is embarrassed by its attitude and I would not want to go and be embarrassed as an individual," said Ella Phillips Stewart, a retired pharmacist, at her home in Toledo, Ohio.

The Virginia State Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the Richmond dinner May 17 as part of the celebration of the 350th anniversary of the first permanent English settlement at Jamestown, said it regretted the mistakes in the invitation list. It withdrew the invitations to the Negroes.

The names of Ella Phillips Stewart and Dr. Clilan B. Powell, a New York physician who publishes the Negro Amsterdam News in Harlem, slipped through what the state chamber tried to make a careful screening of names. Powell is a native of Newport News, Va. the Stewart woman was born in Berryville.

Dr. Powell said earlier he would be in Richmond for the dinner unless Gov. Thomas B. Stanley personally cancelled the invitation. Stanley, thus far, has declined comment. The invitations went out over the names of the governor and Frank A. Ernst, president of the state chamber. Ernst wrote to Powell withdrawing the invitation and a member of the chamber's staff phoned Mrs. Stewart.

$90,000 Libel Suit Filed By Rep. Deshotel

OPELOUSAS, La., April 13 (UP) —Editor John R. Thistlethwaite of the Opelousas Daily World today faced a $90,000 libel suit brought by state Rep. Kenneth Deshotel of Washington, La.

Deshotel, a practicing St. Landry parish attorney, filed suit against Thistlethwaite, the paper and the World News Inc., owner of the paper.

Deshotel said that the editor made false, malicious, slanderous remarks about him on a television show in Lake Charles last July. The attorney claimed the editor printed the remarks in the paper in an attempt to injure his good name, reputation and character.

Deshotel's petition, which asked for a jury trial, was filed in St. Landry parish district court.

At the time of the supposedly defamatory statements Deshotel was candidate for U.S. Representative in a Democratic primary. He lost the election.

The petition said Thistlethwaite charged Deshotel with stripping himself of his naval aviator's wings and refusing to fly" when recalled to active duty in the Korean war.

Deshotel also claimed the editor ridiculed him by referring to him by his given name, "Cheophas."

Neville School Hall Of Fame Being Planned

Preliminary plans are being formulated to create a Neville "Hall of Fame" for the purpose of honoring the more outstanding individuals at the high school. The Sizzler, student newspaper, will be in charge of the project.

The institution will be divided into three sections: Athletic division, leadership division, and faculty division so that a comprehensive honoring system will exist. As far as is known, this is the first attempt at such an organization in any school in the country, a spokesman said.

NEW YORK, April 13 (UP)— Marilyn Monroe had a medical checkup at Doctors hospital and new speculation arose today as to whether the actress is pregnant.

Laurel, Miss., Area Accidents Take Two Lives

LAUREL, Miss., April 13 (AP) — Traffic accidents claimed two lives today in the Laurel area, one of them that of a leading businessman who died in his burning truck within sight of a lake where he had planned to fish.

Mrs. Ona Bush, 66, Richton, mother of Coach Troy Bush of Jones Junior College at Ellisville, died at 2 a.m. in Jones County General Hospital of injuries suffered in a Friday afternoon collision.

Deputy Sheriff George Ellzey said manslaughter charges were filed today against Billy Ray Herring, 19, Ellisville, whose car the officer said skidded 80 feet past a stop sign to crash into the car in which Mrs. Bush was riding. The car was driven by Mrs. Bush's daughter, Mrs. Sally A. Collum, 30, Richton, who was treated for cuts and bruises.

Carlos, who had been in business here more than 20 years, was probably killed by the impact of his truck's collision with the abutment but could not have escaped anyway from the explosion of the gas tank, officers said. Two high school boys fishing at the lake heard the noise of the crash and called police but efforts to free Carlos from the blazing vehicle were futile.

The Virginia State Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the Richmond dinner May 17 as part of the celebration of the 350th anniversary of the first permanent English settlement at Jamestown, said it regretted the mistakes in the invitation list. It withdrew the invitations to the Negroes.

The names of Ella Phillips Stewart and Dr. Clilan B. Powell, a New York physician who publishes the Negro Amsterdam News in Harlem, slipped through what the state chamber tried to make a careful screening of names. Powell is a native of Newport News, Va. the Stewart woman was born in Berryville.

Dr. Powell said earlier he would be in Richmond for the dinner unless Gov. Thomas B. Stanley personally cancelled the invitation. Stanley, thus far, has declined comment. The invitations went out over the names of the governor and Frank A. Ernst, president of the state chamber. Ernst wrote to Powell withdrawing the invitation and a member of the chamber's staff phoned Mrs. Stewart.

$90,000 Libel Suit Filed By Rep. Deshotel

OPELOUSAS, La., April 13 (UP) —Editor John R. Thistlethwaite of the Opelousas Daily World today faced a $90,000 libel suit brought by state Rep. Kenneth Deshotel of Washington, La.

Deshotel, a practicing St. Landry parish attorney, filed suit against Thistlethwaite, the paper and the World News Inc., owner of the paper.

Deshotel said that the editor made false, malicious, slanderous remarks about him on a television show in Lake Charles last July. The attorney claimed the editor printed the remarks in the paper in an attempt to injure his good name, reputation and character.

Deshotel's petition, which asked for a jury trial, was filed in St. Landry parish district court.

At the time of the supposedly defamatory statements Deshotel was candidate for U.S. Representative in a Democratic primary. He lost the election.

The petition said Thistlethwaite charged Deshotel with stripping himself of his naval aviator's wings and refusing to fly" when recalled to active duty in the Korean war.

Deshotel also claimed the editor ridiculed him by referring to him by his given name, "Cheophas."

Neville School Hall Of Fame Being Planned

Preliminary plans are being formulated to create a Neville "Hall of Fame" for the purpose of honoring the more outstanding individuals at the high school. The Sizzler, student newspaper, will be in charge of the project.

The institution will be divided into three sections: Athletic division, leadership division, and faculty division so that a comprehensive honoring system will exist. As far as is known, this is the first attempt at such an organization in any school in the country, a spokesman said.

NEW YORK, April 13 (UP)— Marilyn Monroe had a medical checkup at Doctors hospital and new speculation arose today as to whether the actress is pregnant.

Laurel, Miss., Area Accidents Take Two Lives

LAUREL, Miss., April 13 (AP) — Traffic accidents claimed two lives today in the Laurel area, one of them that of a leading businessman who died in his burning truck within sight of a lake where he had planned to fish.

Mrs. Ona Bush, 66, Richton, mother of Coach Troy Bush of Jones Junior College at Ellisville, died at 2 a.m. in Jones County General Hospital of injuries suffered in a Friday afternoon collision.

Deputy Sheriff George Ellzey said manslaughter charges were filed today against Billy Ray Herring, 19, Ellisville, whose car the officer said skidded 80 feet past a stop sign to crash into the car in which Mrs. Bush was riding. The car was driven by Mrs. Bush's daughter, Mrs. Sally A. Collum, 30, Richton, who was treated for cuts and bruises.

Carlos, who had been in business here more than 20 years, was probably killed by the impact of his truck's collision with the abutment but could not have escaped anyway from the explosion of the gas tank, officers said. Two high school boys fishing at the lake heard the noise of the crash and called police but efforts to free Carlos from the blazing vehicle were futile.

Director Percival Brundage who violated the anti - deficiency law by incorrectly apportioning funds to the Post Office Department during the current fiscal year.

Brundage admitted earlier that he did this because of a misunderstanding on his part of federal bookkeeping laws.

Campbell added, however, that the Post Office Department failed to follow "the spirit and purpose" of the anti - deficiency law, even though it did not technically violate it.

But he said the penal provisions do not apply to the post fund mixup in either instances.

Summerfield ordered the Saturday shutdown and other service curtailments to keep his department from overspending its remaining funds.

MAIL BUILDING UP

The shutdown began to create a heavy backlog of mail in the post offices of larger cities. This resulted because even though post office windows were closed the lobbies remained open for depositing letters and collecting mail in drop boxes.

If the backlog is heavy enough, mail that normally would be delivered on Saturday will be delayed in reaching its destination in some cases for perhaps up to several days.

The Saturday shutdown came at a time when an extra volume of mail is dumped on post offices anyway— federal income tax returns mailed at the last minute in order to meet the midnight-Monday deadline for filing.

NO TROUBLES

Taxpayers will be in no trouble provided their returns are postmarked Monday. It won't matter if the returns are late being delivered to the tax collector.

The shutdown affected most of the nation's 33,000 post offices. The only ones remaining open were the fourth class, largely rural offices which usually are run by storekeepers.

Post office windows will be kept open only 6 1-2 hours a day, Monday through Friday. Each local postmaster will determine his window schedule to accommodate his community's needs.

Mail deliveries in downtown business areas will be cut to two a day.

Miss Arkansas Hurt In Wreck; Two Are Killed

MARION, Ark., April 13 (AP) — A car and a station wagon collided at an intersection near here today, killing two persons and injuring Miss Arkansas of 1956.

The dead were identified as Mrs. Inez Plant Herron, 62 a Bald Knob, Ark., beautician, and her sister, Mrs. J. H. Heathcott, about 55, of Swifton, Ark.

Of the three injured, James Higgenbotham, a retired railroad brakeman who lives near Norwood, Mo., was the most seriously hurt.

Miss Arkansas, 19-year-old Barbara Banks of Conway, suffered minor facial cuts and a broken tooth. Her companion, H. G. McCamant, 25, of Memphis, received a broken leg.

Time has dealt kindly with this man and he is quite active for one who has lived an entire century. Only one geat disadvantage has shut him off from a more normal life. For 22 years now he has been blind, but he does not allow this defeat to cloud his career. He is cheerful and happy.

The Salvation Army all over the world is ever on the job. This is well shown in a report presented by Capt Louis Mockabee, director of the local group.

He calls attention to the fact that 1,000 in Louisville, Ky., which included 350 from the churches, joined the Salvation Army to render aid to flood sufferers in Virginia and West Virginia.

The state fair grounds in Louisville was made headquarters and boxes of supplies with foodstuffs and clothing were made ready for shipment to the scene of the trouble.

Thirty-seven lives were lost in a West Virginia mine explosion and the national guard aided the Salvation Army on the scene. Eighty gallons of coffee and 1,000 sandwiches were made quickly available.

Also in Gans, Oklahoma, when a tornado struck, the Salvation Army was quickly on the scene.

There can never be too much praise accorded to this great, loyal group that administers both material and spiritual aid to all who are called to suffer tremendous disasters.

The kindly disposed stork, with evidently a feeling of the Easter season in his bones, has seen to it that six little goslings are placed at this time in a little enclosure at the Bernstein park zoo. It is the first time that little goslings have been available for the park and at the Easter time, it is especially suitable that they be displayed. Parents will be pleased to take their children to watch the little fellows disport themselves.

Now in on the secret! The old stork had an assistant, for Mrs. Alice David, president of the Home Gardener club, some weeks ago, obtained a pair of prospective parents of goslings and made a place for them temporarily in her yard. A few days ago they hatched out and these are the little ones, with their parents, that she has just placed in the park for all to observe.

Nice little deed at this Easter time! Let the kiddies take a trip of observation to the park!

AFTER PROBE

Sen. Kerr Sees Sharp Revisions In Fiscal Policy

WASHINGTON, April 13 (UP)—Sen. Robert S. Kerr (D-Okla.), second-ranking Democrat on the Senate Finance Committee, today predicted the public will demand a sharp revision of the administration fiscal policy as a result of the finance committee's forthcoming investigation.

Kerr said the broad investigation, to begin shortly after Easter, will document "the damaging effect of high interest rates, hard money and tight credit on the farm population, small business, home building, local improvement programs, by state, county and school district agencies."

The Oklahoma senator said the study would be "one of the most far-reaching investigations into the fiscal affairs and financial policies of government in the history of our government."

"No economic issue is more important to all the people of Oklahoma than this one," he said.

"The combined squeeze of high interest rates, hard money and tight credit, must bear primary responsibility for increasing inflation as well as a new all-time high in bankruptcy," Kerr said. "Based on the rates to date, the national total of bankruptcies is soaring to a record high of 72,000 this fiscal year.

"Unfortunately, Oklahoma is suffering the same trend. Bankruptcies filed in the federal courts in Oklahoma for the fiscal year ending June 30 have been climbing disastrously since 1953. The estimate of 860 for this fiscal year in Oklahoma is approaching the all-time high of 906 in 1932."

He said reports show 375 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1953, compared with 748 in 1956.

One of the hardest hit industries has been home construction, he said. Home building continued its slump last month, dropping to an eight-year low, according to the labor department.

He said the National Association of Homebuilders has criticized the downward trend, listing "the same complaints I have received from so many Oklahomans." He quoted Goodyear as saying the Federal Reserve Board tight money policies "have kept the homebuilding industry tottering on the brink of disaster."

Kerr pointed out that he has long been complaining about the light of the vanishing family farm, small businesses and the rising costs of public and private debt resulting from the administration's hard fiscal policies.

Red Propaganda Guns Turn On U.S., Austria

LONDON, April 13 (UP)—Russia's world-wide propaganda machine centered its attention on the United States and Austria today. It charged U. S. leaders are on "the path to unleashing a new war."

Radio Moscow denounced neutral Austria as a "transit base for Fascist pogrom-makers" because it provided a haven for refugees fleeing Soviet terror in Hungary.

In Moscow itself, Norwegian Ambassador E. Brodland delivered a note to Soviet Premier N. A. Bulganin advising him in "friendly but firm terms" that Norway's defense arrangements are none of Russia's business.

The note, Norwegian Premier Einar Gerhardsen's reply to Soviet threats to "annihilate" his country with H-bombs in any new war, notified Bulganin that Norway cannot be frightened out of the Atlantic pact.

Gerhardsen's reply was the first formal reaction there has been to Russia's attempts to intimidate America's European allies. Denmark is drafting a similar note, but it will not be sent until sometime next week.

The United States countered the Soviet campaign by announcing yesterday that it will equip its heads under U. S. control for instant use in case of war.

It apparently was this announcement that inspired Russia's anti-American propaganda blast, although the ostensible occasion was the 12th anniversary yesterday of President Roosevelt's death.

The Red radio had high praise for Roosevelt and made one of its rare acknowledgements that America had something to do with the defeat of Nazi Germany. But it addded:

"Today, when Washington policy makers treat ex-Nazi generals as long-lost friends, when the USA places atomic weapons in the hands of yesterday's war criminals, the disturbing question arises: On whose side are you Americans? Whom do you support and whom are you against?" the broadcast said.

Mrs. Meir said the government of Premier David Ben-Gurion was following with grave concern the developments in neighboring Jordan.

deadly enemy. But research costs money. And that is the reason for the second part of our slogan. We hope all our citizens will be generous when they fill out those checks," they added.

"At every home visited, workers will leave life-saving literature. This material accents hope and assurance in the cancer fight. It points out the great importance of periodic health examinations as a safeguard against that disease, and tells of cancer's seven danger signals. Clearly our volunteers are doing much more than raising funds for the American Cancer Society's national programs. They are doing a great job in life-saving in our own community."

The local unit of ACS has its office at 408 Hudson Lane, Monroe. "If a worker fails to find you at home you may mail your contribution to that address," the officials reminded.

Loophole Over Junkets Slated For 'Closing'

WASHINGTON, April 13 (UP)— Rep. William A. Dawson (R-Utah) served notice today he will try to close a loophole which allows Congress to hide its spending for junkets and investigations from the public.

The loophole also provides that executive agencies which are investigated by Congress can in some instances be billed for the costs of the inquiries.

Dawson told the United Press he will seek to correct the situation Monday by offering a rider to a deficiency appropriation bill due for a House vote. The measure includes the emergency 41-million dollar appropriation for the Post Office Department which curtailed some operations today because it is without money.

Dawson noted that the House has a special subcommittee which is "raising particular cain" with executive agencies which try to keep information from the public.

"Yet Congress itself has permitted this legislation to stand as a screen behind which investigative expenses can be hidden from the eyes not only of the public and the press but of other members of the House and Senate themselves," he said.

CHEAPER BY DOZENS

LONDON, April 13 (UP)—Shopkeeper Sid Lockyer, 57, estimated he has 23 children, give or take a few, during a hearing at bankruptcy court yesterday. He said there were so many he just could not remember exactly.

His second wife came to his rescue. She said he had 12 children by his marriage to her and 11 by a previous marriage.

Lockyer hastened to assure the court: "It's not the kids who have been my undoing, bless 'em, it's the booze—four or five bottles of scotch a week."

GREAT LAKES FREEZE

Record-Breaking Cold Spreads East

By UNITED PRESS

A record-breaking spring cold wave spread over the Eastern Seaboard Saturday while temperatures moderated over the central and northern plains.

A team of four icebreakers freed five of nine ice-bound freighters in Whitefish Bay near Sault Ste. Marie. The Coast Guard said the other stranded ships must be broken loose before Great Lakes shipping can be resumed.

In addition, 22 more freighters were waiting in lower St. Mary's River to move through the Soo locks into Lake Superior where another 13 freighters were standing by to move through a narrow shipping lane cut in ice three feet thick to the locks.

Temperatures dropped to freezing and below over the eastern third of the nation as the arctic air from Canada moved toward the coast. Only exceptions were Florida, and parts of Georgia and South Carolina which the chilly air skirted.

Meanwhile, patches of rain and drizzle combined with below freezing temperatures from northern Texas through the Texas plains to Eastern New Mexico to spread a treacherous coat of ice across the area. A high pressure system over the midwest, however, broke up the icing conditions.

The cold snap which penetrated the nation's mid-section also deposited a four-inch cover of snow over northern Arkansas and southern Missouri. A four-inch blanket at Springfield, Mo., was the city's heaviest April snowfall in 26 years.

Meanwhile, hopes rose along the Little Wabash River at Carmi, Ill., in the wake of the worst flood in seven years. Observers felt the flood, which left 50 persons homeless, was about over with the river crest expected Sunday at 35 feet.

TALKING MAIL BOX

NEW YORK, April 13 (UP)— This city's "talking mail box," touted as a know-it-all on postal problems, gulped mail as usual today but declined comment on when it might be delivered.

The box, ordinarily garrulous and known on some occasions to deliver itself of witticisms, was completely mute despite a big sign that read: "This talking mailbox is in operation from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily except Sunday."

The conventionally shaped red and blue box, located in front of the post office's Grand Central annex, has a two-way microphone and loudspeaker system connected with a desk inside the post office. It was regarded as an expert on postal service.

Only four of the 21 coastal states require state licenses for salt water fishing.

It is the first time that little goslings have been available for the park and at the Easter time, it is especially suitable that they be displayed. Parents will be pleased to take their children to watch the little fellows disport themselves.

Now in on the secret! The old stork had an assistant, for Mrs. Alice David, president of the Home Gardener club, some weeks ago, obtained a pair of prospective parents of goslings and made a place for them temporarily in her yard. A few days ago they hatched out and these are the little ones, with their parents, that she has just placed in the park for all to observe.

Nice little deed at this Easter time! Let the kiddies take a trip of observation to the park!

AFTER PROBE

Sen. Kerr Sees Sharp Revisions In Fiscal Policy

WASHINGTON, April 13 (UP)—Sen. Robert S. Kerr (D-Okla.), second-ranking Democrat on the Senate Finance Committee, today predicted the public will demand a sharp revision of the administration fiscal policy as a result of the finance committee's forthcoming investigation.

Kerr said the broad investigation, to begin shortly after Easter, will document "the damaging effect of high interest rates, hard money and tight credit on the farm population, small business, home building, local improvement programs, by state, county and school district agencies."

The Oklahoma senator said the study would be "one of the most far-reaching investigations into the fiscal affairs and financial policies of government in the history of our government."

"No economic issue is more important to all the people of Oklahoma than this one," he said.

"The combined squeeze of high interest rates, hard money and tight credit, must bear primary responsibility for increasing inflation as well as a new all-time high in bankruptcy," Kerr said. "Based on the rates to date, the national total of bankruptcies is soaring to a record high of 72,000 this fiscal year.

"Unfortunately, Oklahoma is suffering the same trend. Bankruptcies filed in the federal courts in Oklahoma for the fiscal year ending June 30 have been climbing disastrously since 1953. The estimate of 860 for this fiscal year in Oklahoma is approaching the all-time high of 906 in 1932."

He said reports show 375 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1953, compared with 748 in 1956.

One of the hardest hit industries has been home construction, he said. Home building continued its slump last month, dropping to an eight-year low, according to the labor department.

He said the National Association of Homebuilders has criticized the downward trend, listing "the same complaints I have received from so many Oklahomans." He quoted Goodyear as saying the Federal Reserve Board tight money policies "have kept the homebuilding industry tottering on the brink of disaster."

Kerr pointed out that he has long been complaining about the light of the vanishing family farm, small businesses and the rising costs of public and private debt resulting from the administration's hard fiscal policies.

Red Propaganda Guns Turn On U.S., Austria

LONDON, April 13 (UP)—Russia's world-wide propaganda machine centered its attention on the United States and Austria today. It charged U. S. leaders are on "the path to unleashing a new war."

Radio Moscow denounced neutral Austria as a "transit base for Fascist pogrom-makers" because it provided a haven for refugees fleeing Soviet terror in Hungary.

In Moscow itself, Norwegian Ambassador E. Brodland delivered a note to Soviet Premier N. A. Bulganin advising him in "friendly but firm terms" that Norway's defense arrangements are none of Russia's business.

The note, Norwegian Premier Einar Gerhardsen's reply to Soviet threats to "annihilate" his country with H-bombs in any new war, notified Bulganin that Norway cannot be frightened out of the Atlantic pact.

Gerhardsen's reply was the first formal reaction there has been to Russia's attempts to intimidate America's European allies. Denmark is drafting a similar note, but it will not be sent until sometime next week.

The United States countered the Soviet campaign by announcing yesterday that it will equip its heads under U. S. control for instant use in case of war.

It apparently was this announcement that inspired Russia's anti-American propaganda blast, although the ostensible occasion was the 12th anniversary yesterday of President Roosevelt's death.

The Red radio had high praise for Roosevelt and made one of its rare acknowledgements that America had something to do with the defeat of Nazi Germany. But it addded:

"Today, when Washington policy makers treat ex-Nazi generals as long-lost friends, when the USA places atomic weapons in the hands of yesterday's war criminals, the disturbing question arises: On whose side are you Americans? Whom do you support and whom are you against?" the broadcast said.

"At every home visited, workers will leave life-saving literature. This material accents hope and assurance in the cancer fight. It points out the great importance of periodic health examinations as a safeguard against that disease, and tells of cancer's seven danger signals. Clearly our volunteers are doing much more than raising funds for the American Cancer Society's national programs. They are doing a great job in life-saving in our own community."

The local unit of ACS has its office at 408 Hudson Lane, Monroe. "If a worker fails to find you at home you may mail your contribution to that address," the officials reminded.

Loophole Over Junkets Slated For 'Closing'

WASHINGTON, April 13 (UP)—Rep. William A. Dawson (R-Utah) served notice today he will try to close a loophole which allows Congress to hide its spending for junkets and investigations from the public.

The loophole also provides that executive agencies which are investigated by Congress can in some instances be billed for the costs of the inquiries.

Dawson told the United Press he will seek to correct the situation Monday by offering a rider to a deficiency appropriation bill due for a House vote. The measure includes the emergency 41-million dollar appropriation for the Post Office Department which curtailed some operations today because it is without money.

Dawson noted that the House has a special subcommittee which is "raising particular cain" with executive agencies which try to keep information from the public.

"Yet Congress itself has permitted this legislation to stand as a screen behind which investigative expenses can be hidden from the eyes not only of the public and the press but of other members of the House and Senate themselves," he said.

CHEAPER BY DOZENS

LONDON, April 13 (UP)—Shopkeeper Sid Lockyer, 57, estimated he has 23 children, give or take a few, during a hearing at bankruptcy court yesterday. He said there were so many he just could not remember exactly.

His second wife came to his rescue. She said he had 12 children by his marriage to her and 11 by a previous marriage.

Lockyer hastened to assure the court: "It's not the kids who have been my undoing, bless 'em, it's the booze—four or five bottles of scotch a week."

GREAT LAKES FREEZE

Record-Breaking Cold Spreads East

By UNITED PRESS

A record-breaking spring cold wave spread over the Eastern Seaboard Saturday while temperatures moderated over the central and northern plains.

A team of four icebreakers freed five of nine ice-bound freighters in Whitefish Bay near Sault Ste. Marie. The Coast Guard said the other stranded ships must be broken loose before Great Lakes shipping can be resumed.

In addition, 22 more freighters were waiting in lower St. Mary's River to move through the Soo locks into Lake Superior where another 13 freighters were standing by to move through a narrow shipping lane cut in ice three feet thick to the locks.

Temperatures dropped to freezing and below over the eastern third of the nation as the arctic air from Canada moved toward the coast. Only exceptions were Florida, and parts of Georgia and South Carolina which the chilly air skirted.

Meanwhile, patches of rain and drizzle combined with below freezing temperatures from northern Texas through the Texas plains to Eastern New Mexico to spread a treacherous coat of ice across the area. A high pressure system over the midwest, however, broke up the icing conditions.

The cold snap which penetrated the nation's mid-section also deposited a four-inch cover of snow over northern Arkansas and southern Missouri. A four-inch blanket at Springfield, Mo., was the city's heaviest April snowfall in 26 years.

Meanwhile, hopes rose along the Little Wabash River at Carmi, Ill., in the wake of the worst flood in seven years. Observers felt the flood, which left 50 persons homeless, was about over with the river crest expected Sunday at 35 feet.

TALKING MAIL BOX

NEW YORK, April 13 (UP)—This city's "talking mail box," touted as a know-it-all on postal problems, gulped mail as usual today but declined comment on when it might be delivered.

The box, ordinarily garrulous and known on some occasions to deliver itself of witticisms, was completely mute despite a big sign that read: "This talking mailbox is in operation from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily except Sunday."

The conventionally shaped red and blue box, located in front of the post office's Grand Central annex, has a two-way microphone and loudspeaker system connected with a desk inside the post office. It was regarded as an expert on postal service.

Only four of the 21 coastal states require state licenses for salt water fishing.

Dollar Diplomacy Assigned Blame For Internal Upheaval In Jordan

AMMAN, Jordan, April 13 (AP)—The culprits that sparked Jordan's government crisis are American dollars and a gimmick.

The United States stands ready to give American dollar aid to Jordan—an overpopulated desert kingdom without oil, agriculture or the other resources of her richer Arab neighbors. Jordan cannot survive without outside subsidies.

The gimmick is American insistence that dollar aid go only to those fighting the spread of international communism in their countries.

That was enough to split the kingdom wide open, set off the worst government crisis in its history and threaten more serious trouble.

Premier Suleiman Nabulsi got the thing started when he said:

"If the United States handed me 100 million dollars and said 'it is yours if you fight communism,' I would reject it. I will not fight communism for the United States."

King Hussein then fired him. With Nabulsi went his Cabinet, including one Communist and two pro-Communist members.

There are other important reasons for the crisis. One is an internal struggle for real power that bears close watching.

But it really was a clash between anti-Americans and pro-Americans that ignited the bitter struggle which has torn Jordan apart for four days.

Meanwhile, time is running out for Jordan to qualify for American economic aid. The mission of James P. Richards has nearly finished. He is in the Middle East to explain the Eisenhower doctrine and find out which countries will go along with it. Those that do will get a slice of the 200 million dollars voted by Congress for the Middle East. Richards has not yet received a hard invitation to visit Jordan. This is confirmed by the U. S. Embassy.

Nabulsi once said rather offhandedly that if Richards showed up in Jordan, "we will listen to what the man has to say."

That is not good enough for Richards or the U. S. government. An embassy official said, "we must decide soon whether to recommend that Richards come or stay away."

Some Jordanians fear their country may lose not only Eisenhower doctrine aid but also U. S. Point 4 aid. The latter averages eight or nine million dollars yearly—a lot to this little kingdom.

The chief figures in this power struggle are Nabulsi and his National Socialist party, which has 13 seats in Jordan's 40-man Parliament. They have the support of the pro-Communist national front, the anti-American Baathists and some independents—enough for a large majority.

Oddly enough, Nabulsi is no Communist. He is a moderate in most things except Arab nationalism. In that he is an extremist of the first water. From that stems his anti-American activities. He believes the United States sides with the hated imperialists, Britain and France, and even more hated Israel. Nabulsi is a Palestine refugee.

Special Day Draws Large Attendance

Over 1,000 high school seniors throughout this area of the state were guests of Northeast State at the spring annual High School Senior Day, E. J. Foster, chairman of the faculty committee announced. Heading the committee with Foster were Dr. Merritt Melberg and John Luffey, both of the faculty.

The event opened with registration and tours of the campus and closed with the baseball game between Northeast State and Louisiana Tech.

It was a full day, with interests ranging from a variety of departmental exhibits to a tea dance in the Social Center. Among the specialties was the presentation of Miss Bobbi Chachere, of Baton Rouge, who wears the Miss Louisiana crown, and Miss Annette Tisdale, of Hattiesburg, who carries the Miss Mississippi title. Miss Chachere did an acrobatic ballet and Miss Tisdale gave the popular reading, "The Creation," by James Weldon Johnson.

The special numbers were presented at an assembly in Brown Auditorium where the visiting seniors and class sponsors were welcomed by President Lewis C. Slater and Dean William M. Smith, who were introduced by Bobby Joe Oden, student body president.

Other entertainment in the auditorium included a band concert which received generous applause, and a style show in which high school seniors and home economics students of Northeast modeled fashions for all occasions and various budgets. A dance exhibit, sponsored by the Health and Physical Education of tap, folk, modern, square and social dancing. Also included in the program was a one-act play, given by students of the speech section.

Luencheon at the stadium was followed by a military review of the Northeast State Reserve Officers Training Corps in honor of graduating high school seniors of 1956-57. Serving as a reviewing committee were presidents of the senior classes.

Marilyn Monroe, Agent In Rift Over Contract Status

NEW YORK, April 12 (AP)—Marilyn Monroe and Milton H. Greene, the photographer who became vice president of Marilyn Monroe Productions, Inc., are feuding.

In a statement yesterday, Miss Monroe accused Greene of mismanaging the company, of which she is the sole asset. The actress disclosed the rift in answer to Greene's announcement he had retained counsel to represent him in a disagreement with her over the terms of her contract with him.

Miss Monroe and Greene teamed up two years ago after she left 20th Century-Fox. Greene claims he has a seven-year contract as vice president and is entitled to receive 49.6 per cent of Miss Monroe's earnings.

Greene said yesterday:

"It seems Marilyn doesn't want to go ahead with the program we planned. I'm getting lawyers to represent me . . . I don't want to do anything to hurt her career. . . But I did devote about a year and a half exclusively to her. I practically gave up photography."

Said Miss Monroe:

"He knows perfectly well that we have been at odds for a year and a half and he knows why. My company has been completely mismanaged by Mr. Greene. He has made secret commitments for the company without informing me. He has misinformed me of what certain contracts contained.

"As president of the corporation and its only source of income, I was never informed that he had elected himself to the position of executive producer of 'The Prince and the Showgirl' and secretly signed contracts to that effect."

"The Prince and the Showgirl" was filmed in England starring Miss Monroe and Sir Laurence Olivier.

"The company was not set up merely to parcel out 49.6 per cent of all my earnings to Mr. Greene for seven years. My company was formed because I wanted to make better pictures, improve my work, secure my income and help others to make good pictures. Instead, I have had to defend my aims, my interests and conditions of work against the demands of Mr. Greene himself."

REV. DUSCHINSKY

Religious Emphasis Week Opens

Religious Emphasis week at Northeast State will open Monday for a three-day program, with morning services at 9:45 a.m. in Brown Auditorium.

The Newman Club, which is in charge of this year's event, is presenting the Rev. Vitus Duschinsky, pastor of St. Paschal's Church, West Monroe, as guest speaker. Ministers of other faiths will also participate in the daily services, which are open to the public.

Theme of the programs will be "Life and Religion." Father Duschinsky will speak Monday on "Religion in the Individual Life." Tuesday's sermon will pertain to "Religion in the Family Life," and Wednesday's discussion will underscore "Religion in the Social Life."

The speaker, a Franciscian priest of the Order of Friars Minor, has been pastor of St. Paschal's Church since August 1954. He also serves the Catholic congregations of Calhoun and Farmerville.

A native of Chicago, Father Duschinsky received his high school and junior college education at St. Joseph's Seminary Westmont, Ill., then he studied philosophy for three years at Our Lady of the Angels Seminary in Cleveland, Ohio. This phase of his education was followed by four years of study in theology at St. Jospeh's Seminary, Teutopolis, Ill.

He was ordained a priest in June 1942, then began serving as assistant pastor for over eight years at St. Joseph's in Cleveland. Later he held the pastorate there for three years. He also served as chaplain of the police department in that city.

Following his pstorate in Cleveland, Father Duschinsky accepted a similar position at St. Paschal's.

Teamsters Brass Set Meeting For Monday In Texas

GALVESTON, Tex., April 13 (AP)—The bigwigs of the Teamsters' Union, headed by Dave Beck, gather here Monday for a closed-door strategy conference to map a course for the investigation-buffeted labor giant.

Reported main purpose of the session of the 13-member Executive Committee is to determine whether the union will answer an AFL-CIC summons for a "corruption" charge hearing. It faces possible ouster if it ignores the hearing.

The meeting is also seen as a test of strength of Beck's position within the union.

The fiery 62-year-old Beck, who invoked the Fifth Amendment 117 times before a Senate investigation committee probing his activities, reportedly is urging that the union snub the AFL-CIO hearing May 6 regardless of the consequences.

Union membership opinion was divided after the Senate probers charged Beck with using at least $320,000 of the union's funds for his own personal purposes. Some locals hung him in effigy, others pledged unswerving loyalty.

Within the 13-member Executive Committee, it is reported that some are urging that the Teamsters' Union, whose 1,350,000 membership makes it one of the largest in the nation, defend itself before the AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee hearing in Washington.

over the union's relationship with the AFL - CIO could further strengthen what seems to be growing opposition to Beck's reelection next September.

Behind the closed doors of Parlor C of the Galvez Hotel in this seashore resort Beck will be facing men who have as much if not more strength than he has within the union.

The Executive Committee includes James R. (Jimmy) Hoffa, who from his Detroit office rules the Teamsters of the Midwest as firmly as Beck has ruled the Northwest at Seattle. Some observers say Hoffa is even more influential within the union than is Beck.

Like Beck, Hoffa has had his troubles with investigations. He is resently under indictment charged with bribing a member of the Senate Rackets Investigation Committee staff to find out what evidence it was turning up.

Two other executive committee members are also under indictment for contempt of Congress. They are Frank W. Brewster, West Coast union chief, and Einar president in charge of the union's plush 5½-million-dollar Washington headquarters.

U. S. DECISION

More Hungarians To Win Admission

United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 13 (UP)—The State Department announced today it will continue to admit "limited numbers" of Hungarian refugees during the next few months and also will help resettle still more in other countries.

DESPONDENCY

Reports that this country was shutting its doors was reported to have caused despondency among refugees in camps in Austria.

A. Roland Elliott, immigration director of Church World Service, told the United Press before today's announcement that there are "a few thousand" more refugees "who clearly should be brought into the United States."

The State Department said those selected for admission as "parolees" from Austria and other countries where they are awaiting asylum will be chosen on two major bases:

1. "Hardship cases such as those involving broken families."

2. "Special interest cases such as scientists, engineers, etc., whose skills will enable them to be integrated readily into the American economy."

TO CUT NUMBER

The department said the number accepted "will, of course, be on a diminishing basis in the future because of the lessening of the emergency. It did not indicate how many more will be admitted.

It said this country already has accepted more than 31,000, or nearly 20 per cent of all who fled their country in the wake of the Hungarian freedom revolt.

The department also said the United States has helped to resettle more than 100,000 Hungarians in other countries and will continue this assistance.

Dollar Diplomacy Assigned Blame For Internal Upheaval In Jordan

AMMAN, Jordan, April 13 (AP)—The culprits that sparked Jordan's government crisis are American dollars and a gimmick.

The United States stands ready to give American dollar aid to Jordan—an overpopulated desert kingdom without oil, agriculture or the other resources of her richer Arab neighbors. Jordan cannot survive without outside subsidies.

The gimmick is American insistence that dollar aid go only to those fighting the spread of international communism in their countries.

That was enough to split the kingdom wide open, set off the worst government crisis in its history and threaten more serious trouble.

Premier Suleiman Nabulsi got the thing started when he said:

"If the United States handed me 100 million dollars and said 'it is yours if you fight communism,' I would reject it. I will not fight communism for the United States."

King Hussein then fired him. With Nabulsi went his Cabinet, including one Communist and two pro-Communist members.

There are other important reasons for the crisis. One is an internal struggle for real power that bears close watching.

But it really was a clash between anti-Americans and pro-Americans that ignited the bitter struggle which has torn Jordan apart for four days.

Meanwhile, time is running out for Jordan to qualify for American economic aid. The mission of James P. Richards has nearly finished. He is in the Middle East to explain the Eisenhower doctrine and find out which countries will go along with it. Those that do will get a slice of the 200 million dollars voted by Congress for the Middle East. Richards has not yet received a hard invitation to visit Jordan. This is confirmed by the U. S. Embassy.

Nabulsi once said rather offhandedly that if Richards showed up in Jordan, "we will listen to what the man has to say."

That is not good enough for Richards or the U. S. government. An embassy official said, "we must decide soon whether to recommend that Richards come or stay away."

Some Jordanians fear their country may lose not only Eisenhower doctrine aid but also U. S. Point 4 aid. The latter averages eight or nine million dollars yearly—a lot to this little kingdom.

The chief figures in this power struggle are Nabulsi and his National Socialist party, which has 13 seats in Jordan's 40-man Parliament. They have the support of the pro-Communist national front, the anti-American Baathists and some independents—enough for a large majority.

Oddly enough, Nabulsi is no Communist. He is a moderate in most things except Arab nationalism. In that he is an extremist of the first water. From that stems his anti-American activities. He believes the United States sides with the hated imperialists, Britain and France, and even more hated Israel. Nabulsi is a Palestine refugee.

Special Day Draws Large Attendance

Over 1,000 high school seniors throughout this area of the state were guests of Northeast State at the spring annual High School Senior Day, E. J. Foster, chairman of the faculty committee announced. Heading the committee with Foster were Dr. Merritt Melberg and John Luffey, both of the faculty.

The event opened with registration and tours of the campus and closed with the baseball game between Northeast State and Louisiana Tech.

It was a full day, with interests ranging from a variety of departmental exhibits to a tea dance in the Social Center. Among the specialties was the presentation of Miss Bobbi Chachere, of Baton Rouge, who wears the Miss Louisiana crown, and Miss Annette Tisdale, of Hattiesburg, who carries the Miss Mississippi title. Miss Chachere did an acrobatic ballet and Miss Tisdale gave the popular reading, "The Creation," by James Weldon Johnson.

The special numbers were presented at an assembly in Brown Auditorium where the visiting seniors and class sponsors were welcomed by President Lewis C. Slater and Dean William M. Smith, who were introduced by Bobby Joe Oden, student body president.

Other entertainment in the auditorium included a band concert which received generous applause, and a style show in which high school seniors and home economics students of Northeast modeled fashions for all occasions and various budgets. A dance exhibit, sponsored by the Health and Physical Education of tap, folk, modern, square and social dancing. Also included in the program was a one-act play, given by students of the speech section.

Lucncheon at the stadium was followed by a military review of the Northeast State Reserve Officers Training Corps in honor of graduating high school seniors of 1956-57. Serving as a reviewing committee were presidents of the senior classes.

Marilyn Monroe, Agent In Rift Over Contract Status

NEW YORK, April 12 (AP) —Marilyn Monroe and Milton H. Greene, the photographer who became vice president of Marilyn Monroe Productions, Inc., are feuding.

In a statement yesterday, Miss Monroe accused Greene of mismanaging the company, of which she is the sole asset. The actress disclosed the rift in answer to Greene's announcement he had retained counsel to represent him in a disagreement with her over the terms of her contract with him.

Miss Monroe and Greene teamed up two years ago after she left 20th Century-Fox. Greene claims he has a seven-year contract as vice president and is entitled to receive 49.6 per cent of Miss Monroe's earnings.

Greene said yesterday:

"It seems Marilyn doesn't want to go ahead with the program we planned. I'm getting lawyers to represent me . . . I don't want to do anything to hurt her career. . . But I did devote about a year and a half exclusively to her. I practically gave up photography."

Said Miss Monroe:

"He knows perfectly well that we have been at odds for a year and a half and he knows why. My company has been completely mismanaged by Mr. Greene. He has made secret commitments for the company without informing me. He has misinformed me of what certain contracts contained.

"As president of the corporation and its only source of income, I was never informed that he had elected himself to the position of executive producer of 'The Prince and the Showgirl' and secretly signed contracts to that effect."

"The Prince and the Showgirl" was filmed in England starring Miss Monroe and Sir Laurence Olivier.

"The company was not set up merely to parcel out 49.6 per cent of all my earnings to Mr. Greene for seven years. My company was formed because I wanted to make better pictures, improve my work, secure my income and help others to make good pictures. Instead, I have had to defend my aims, my interests and conditions of work against the demands of Mr. Greene himself."

Rail Engineer Stops Train To Save Boatman

OKAWVILLE, Ill., April 13 (AP)—A railroad engineer chanced to glance down from a trestle near here today and saw a man bobbing in the flood-swollen Kaskaskia River.

The unidentified engineer stopped his Louisville & Nashville freight, jumped off and ran several blocks to a roadside tavern to call for help.

There he found the tavern owner, Herbert Mellein, and Ewald Steinkamp, an Illinois conservation agent.

The two piled into a boat and rowed a quarter of a mile downstream to the man who was lying on top of his motor boat and clinging to a tree in a flooded area.

Raymond Clayton, about 55, of East St. Louis, Ill., said his craft had capsized and he had been in the water about an hour.

U. S. DECISION

More Hungarians To Win Admission

United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 13 (UP)—The State Department announced today it will continue to admit "limited numbers" of Hungarian refugees during the next few months and also will help resettle still more in other countries.

DESPONDENCY

Reports that this country was shutting its doors was reported to have caused despondency among refugees in camps in Austria.

A. Roland Elliott, immigration director of Church World Service, told the United Press before today's announcement that there are "a few thousand" more refugees "who clearly should be brought into the United States."

The State Department said those selected for admission as "parolees" from Austria and other countries where they are awaiting asylum will be chosen on two major bases:

1. "Hardship cases such as those involving broken families."

2. "Special interest cases such as scientists, engineers, etc., whose skills will enable them to be integrated readily into the American economy."

TO CUT NUMBER

The department said the number accepted "will, of course, be on a diminishing basis in the future because of the lessening of the emergency. It did not indicate how many more will be admitted.

It said this country already has accepted more than 31,000, or nearly 20 per cent of all who fled their country in the wake of the Hungarian freedom revolt.

The department also said the United States has helped to resettle more than 100,000 Hungarians in other countries and will continue this assistance.

Teamsters Brass Set Meeting For Monday In Texas

GALVESTON, Tex., April 13 (AP) —The bigwigs of the Teamsters' Union, headed by Dave Beck, gather here Monday for a closed-door strategy conference to map a course for the investigation-buffeted labor giant.

Reported main purpose of the session of the 13-member Executive Committee is to determine whether the union will answer an AFL-CIC summons for a "corruption" charge hearing. It faces possible ouster if it ignores the hearing.

The meeting is also seen as a test of strength of Beck's position within the union.

The fiery 62-year-old Beck, who invoked the Fifth Amendment 117 times before a Senate investigation committee probing his activities, reportedly is urging that the union snub the AFL-CIO hearing May 6 regardless of the consequences.

Union membership opinion was divided after the Senate probers charged Beck with using at least $320,000 of the union's funds for his own personal purposes. Some locals hung him in effigy, others pledged unswerving loyalty.

Within the 13-member Executive Committee, it is reported that some are urging that the Teamsters' Union, whose 1,350,000 membership makes it one of the largest in the nation, defend itself before the AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee hearing in Washington.

over the union's relationship with the AFL - CIO could further strengthen what seems to be growing opposition to Beck's reelection next September.

Behind the closed doors of Parlor C of the Galvez Hotel in this seashore resort Beck will be facing men who have as much if not more strength than he has within the union.

The Executive Committee includes James R. (Jimmy) Hoffa, who from his Detroit office rules the Teamsters of the Midwest as firmly as Beck has ruled the Northwest at Seattle. Some observers say Hoffa is even more influential within the union than is Beck.

Like Beck, Hoffa has had his troubles with investigations. He is resently under indictment charged with bribing a member of the Senate Rackets Investigation Committee staff to find out what evidence it was turning up.

Two other executive committee members are also under indictment for contempt of Congress. They are Frank W. Brewster, West Coast union chief, and Einar president in charge of the union's plush 5½-million-dollar Washington headquarters.

Jet Succeeds In Vertical Flight

WASHINGTON, April 13 (UP) — The Air Force yesterday announced the first "complete flight" by a jet airplane which took off and landed vertically without benefit of a runway.

The historic operation, described as a "new technical breakthrough in aeronautical science," took place at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

The plane was the X-13 Vertijet which was developed by Ryan Aeronautical Co. under an Air Force contract announced in January, 1955.

Ryan test pilot Peter F. Girard was at the controls when the little Vertijet, standing on its tail, arose from the desert airbase, tilted into horiontal position, made a normal flight and then "sat down" on its tail again.

To perform such a feat, the jet airplane must produce thrust equal to its weight so that it can counteract gravity without benefit of a running takeoff.

The only previous vertical takeoff and landing aircraft, as distinct from helicopters and various versions of helicopters, were the Navy's turboprop planes built by Convair Division of General Dynamics Corporation and Lockheed Aircraft Corp.

The present number of dairy cows on farms in the U. S. is the smallest in two decades, but milk production is at an all time high.

CAA ACTIVITIES ARE CENTRALIZED IN AIRPORT BUILDING

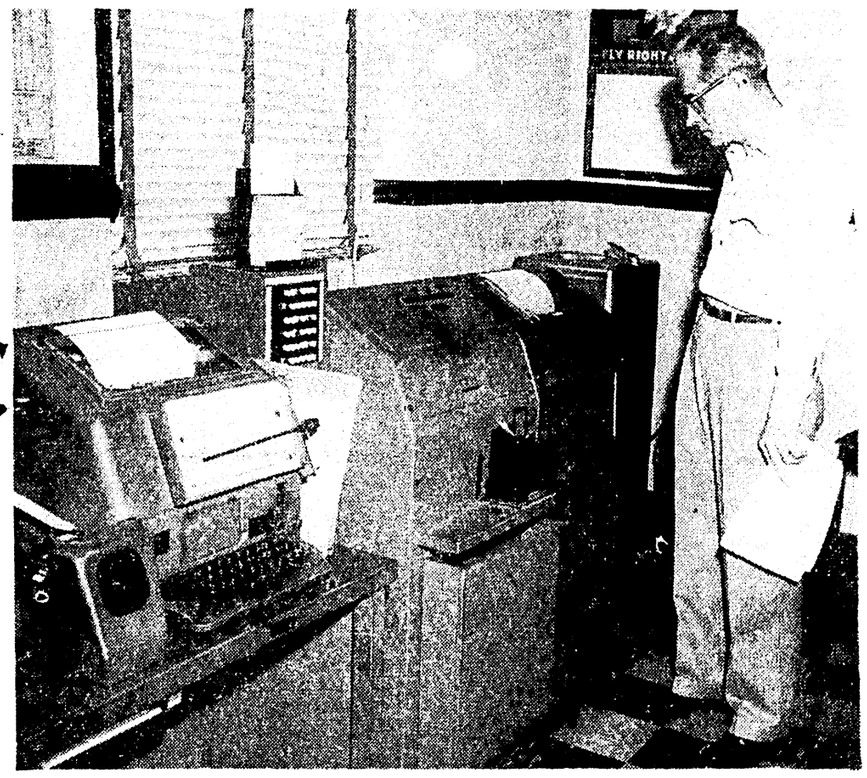
CAA Performs Many Important Tasks



TWO TELETYPE CIRCUITS FOR AIRPLANES, WEATHER

Operations Specialist Cole awaits signal from master control station in Atlanta to send the weather report from Monroe. Atlanta types out the code letter for each station on its circuit, and that station then places a "punched-out tape" in the sender, turns the switch and the tape, with the weather typed on it in code, is typed out onto the "B" teletype circuit at the rate of 75 words a minute. Information on movement of planes is sent out on the "A" circuit. (Staff photo by John I. Fogleman.)

Pilots Beamed Helpful Data From Station

By Mary Anne Corpin
Staff Writer

"This is Air Force 48485 over Monroe at 5,600 feet . . ." the ultra high frequency omni-range transmitter grated out a military aircraft's report to the Civil Aeronautics Administration at Selman Field.

The plane gave its position, and the time and altitude over Monroe, as a regular report, and a CAA operations specialist recorded the information as one of his many duties on his eight-hour shift in the Air Traffic Communications Station at the airfield just outside the city of Monroe.

The station at Selman Field is one of the 400 ATC stations placed throughout the United States. Although many think of the CAA as merely a weather station, the Monroe office contacts more than 100 air craft flying over the city each day, guides planes in during cloudy, or "instrument" landing weather, has direct landline telephone circuits with other stations in the U. S. It is part of a teletype circuit which is able to communicate, by relays with any point in the nation, and handles distribution of weather reports for exchange between ATC stations so that an aircraft pilot flying over each station may have fore-knowledge of the weather conditions ahead of his flight.

NINE-MAN STAFF

The CAA offices occupy the second floor of the light tan brick Municipal Airport building, and nine men are on the staff — Robert E. Griffith is supervisory electronics maintenance technician, with Robert Warner and Jerry Strater as the other two electronics maintenance technicians. Jack Hover is supervisory airways operation specialist, and five airways operations specialists compose his staff: Benjamin F. Bryan, Marcus B. Cole, Sydney T. Grafton, Noel R. Henderson and Harold V. Odom.

These men use two types of radio facilities to guide aircraft to the Monroe station when visibility is not clear. The older 'beam type' navigation instruments send out : horiontal beam as far as 50 miles, and use very high frequency radio ranges to guide the pilot in to the runway he will use on the instrument landing. Glide path instruments coinciding with those in his plane give him the proper glide angle for coming down at the end of the landing runway.

The newer radio facility, called omni range, works on very high frequency type navigation facilities, and permit pilots in aircraft equipped with the proper receiving equipment to steer their course to this station from any desired position by following the radio frequency.

MEASURING DEVICE

These instruments include a distance measuring device, which gives the pilot the exact distance from his flight position to the station.

Aircraft making instrument landings to Selman Field are controlled by the Monroe radio transmitters, in connection with the Memphis Air Traffic Control center and when more than one plane is attempting to land, the Monroe station by voice communication instructs the pilot on the proper altitude separation-places each plane on a different altitude above the ground, to keep circling to avoid collisions until landing is OK'd—and also gives the approach time when each plane may land.

A few weeks ago, 26 C-119's connected with Army King Cole Maneuvers came in at Selman Field, all on the same day, one after the other, using this landing procedure. CAA men aided them in landing, and since it was a cloudy day, they came in on instruments, each with separate clearance, at thte rate of one every 15 minutes.

To direct the C-119's in to a landing, the planes first reported their positions, and then Memphis relayed appropriate instructions to Monroe, to keep the aircraft from colliding while they were waiting for landing approval.

STRATEGIC CENTERS

Monroe has instant communications with Ft. Worth, Tex., and Memphis, Tenn. by interphone circuits. Memphis, an Air Traffic Control Station, is one of 26 strategic centers located in the United States, with facilities to tell the position of any radio-equipped aircraft in its section.

The CAA has 10 transmitting voice channels and eight receiving channels. The very high and ultra high frequencies work much the same way as separate radio stations, but those used for aircraft are limited to "line of sight" communication — they go only to designated airplanes in the path, and do not intertere with communications with other planes or ground stations.

The CAA at Selman Field has two teletype circuits, one called the B circuit to handle airplane movement messages pertaining to the flight of the planes from the point of departure to their destination, and for CAA administrative messages.

HOURLY REPORT

The A circuit is used for sending weather information. Selman Field, along with all other CAA units, makes a weather report every hour, on the half-hour, and these reports are transmitted by the A teletype circuit for exchange between all area stations from Texas to the east coast.

The CAA man on duty makes the weather observations primarily for aviation purposes. He checks on the sky conditions, and if he doesn't know the height of the clouds, he sends up a helium balloon. The helium gas in it makes it rise at a fixed rate of speed so the observer can tell how high the clouds are by the amount of time taken before it enters the clouds.

At night, he checks on the cloud height via a spotlight which hits the clouds at a certain angle, and by sighting the place on the clouds with a special weather instrument, which looks like a toy party horn made of steel, he can adjust the instrument to tell him exactly how high the "ceiling" (or clouds) is.

Pilots must know the ceiling height, the amount of cloud coverage - if the sky is clear or overcast - the visibility (distance which is clear for sight), any obstructions such as fog, haze or smoke, the weather, if there is rain, snow or hail, the temperature reading, and the dewpoint reading, which tells the pilot the amount of moisture in the air. By knowledge of the temperature and the dewpoint the pilot can determine whether any fog will occur. The CAA operations specialist also checks on the atmospheric pressure which the pilot needs to check for correct altitude.

SPECIAL MACHINE

The CAA man types out the weather report on a special machine which punches the information in code on tape. The perforated tape is then placed in the teletype, and as the Monroe code signal MLU is typed onto the machine by the master control station in Atlanta, the CAA operator flicks a switch in Monroe and the weather conditions here are sent out to be relayed from the offices in Atlanta and Ft. Worth to any point in the U. S.

The CAA at Selman Field doesn't, as many area residents believe, make the weather forecast for the general public. The United States Weather Bureau sends out these forecasts on press association teletypes to newspapers.

Temperature readings are made from two thermometers placed in a small box - like structure outside the Airport building. The "dry" bulb thermometer gives the regular temperature, and the "wet" bulb thermometer is contantly immersed in water to give the lowest possible temperature while it is in water. From this the moisture content of the air is determined.

DEWPOINT

The CAA official takes the difference between the dry and wet readings and uses a calculator to determine the dewpoint. Near the "thermometer box" is a gauge which records the amount of rainfall. Each instrument is checked hourly day and night.

Maintainance of the CAA equipment is an extremely responsible job, and each instrument must be in proper operation 24 hours a day. All machines have another exactly like them, so if one fails, another immediately takes its place by automatic transfer. If the automatic system fails, the CAA specialists can place the "twin" machines in operation through dialing a proper sequence of numbers on a control machine.

Maintenance men also keep a close check on the "omni" very high and ultra high frequency range, which is located in a small shelter near the Louisiana Training Institute, and on the 'ow frequency range in a building five miles from town on the Winnsboro road.

The men who work the night shift, from 4 p.m. to midnight, and from midnight to 8 a.m., also control the airport lightipg, including the runway lights, obstruction lights and the airport beacon.

That's a brief rundown on the work of CAA workers — they're not just "weather men."

Foreign Aid To Be With Us Long Time

By RELMAN MORIN

WASHINGTON April 13, (UP) — How long will the United States have to go on helping other nations with its foreign aid programs?

These programs, over 10 years, have cost an estimated 56 billion dollars. That's about $330 to every American man, woman and child.

What's the outlook? More of the same?

"Impossible," others retort. "This is a long-haul contest with the Russians and it may go on for another 50 years."

"Make the setup more efficient," one view urges, "so that you get better results for less money."

"Encourage American private enterprise to take over as many of the economic development phases as possible," runs another argument.

Congress itself is divided over the next step. Never before has the foreign aid program been under such a hot white searchlight.

Official figures indicate that military aid takes by far the biggest chunk of the money Congress appropriates each year. A long study prepared for the Senate concludes that these costs are not likely to go down in the immediate future. It says:

"For the years immediately ahead . . . the military aid program should be regarded as an integral part of the defense program of the United States . . . It has served materially to stabilize the free world and discourage aggression," the study report said.

But what of economic aid? Point Four? The industrial plants built for other countries? The roads? The American technicians sent overseas to work at the expense of the American taxpayer?

Here, thunderous controversy rages.

Sen. Ellender (D-La), a fierce critic of economic aid, says, "If we continue our policies, those countries will never try to help themselves. Why should they?"

But Sen. Case (R-NJ) calls for consideration of a "comprehensive, systematic and adequate program of economic assistance for underdeveloped nations."

Another Senate report says the United States might resolve the cold war in "two or three decades" by fostering "self-sustaining growth in underdeveloped countries."

As if in reply, Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) said recently, "We should not attempt to remake the world in our economic or political image. It is time for them (other countries) to start living within their means and for us to do likewise."

But John B. Hollister, director of the International Cooperation Administration, which handles the foreign aid programs, said, "As long as the foreign policy of the United States stays unchanged, and as long as the world situation remains as it is, I don't see how you can greatly modify our program."

Nuclear Ban For Weapons Asked By U.S.

LONDON, April 13 (UP) —The United States called on Russia and the other major atomic powers yesterday to stop production of nuclear material for weapons and channel it instead into peacetime uses under a control system to be devised by scientists.

The Soviets agreed to study the proposal, an extension of the American atoms-for-peace plan.

U. S. Delegate Harold Stassen presented the details to representatives of Russia, Britain, France and Canada at the five-power disarmament subcommittee here.

CONFERENCE

The United States plan would establish a conference of atomic scientists from the five powers next Sept. 1 to work out an international control system for putting all nuclear production to peacetime uses. Sources said the deadline for achieving the system was next spring.

The sources said the Soviet delegate, Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin, raised no objections to the plan when he addressed the meeting after Stassen had finished.

A Tribute - - To Our Ministers!

Each Sunday and ofttimes throughout the week, the minister of your church lifts his head in prayer and envisions the heaven of your faith. He is a patient man. He is an understanding man. He's there, your loyal friend, in sickness, sorrow. He officiates at weddings and visits the homes of his parishioners. Yet with all his biblical knowledge and his interest in his sermons, he is a man. A fine man. And he should be treated as a friend and companion, not merely as a cleric. Your minister and his church deserve all the support you can give them. Attend services regularly and be generous with your contributions.

CAA ACTIVITIES ARE CENTRALIZED IN AIRPORT BUILDING

TWO TELETYPE CIRCUITS FOR AIRPLANES, WEATHER

Operations Specialist Cole awaits signal from master control station in Atlanta to send the weather report from Monroe. Atlanta types out the code letter for each station on its circuit, and that station then places a "punched-out tape" in the sender, turns the switch and the tape, with the weather typed on it in code, is typed out onto the "B" teletype circuit at the rate of 75 words a minute. Information on movement of planes is sent out on the "A" circuit. (Staff photo by John I. Fogleman.)

Pilots Beamed Helpful Data From Station

By Mary Anne Corpin
Staff Writer

"This is Air Force 48485 over Monroe at 5,600 feet . . ." the ultra high frequency omni-range transmitter grated out a military aircraft's report to the Civil Aeronautics Administration at Selman Field.

The plane gave its position, and the time and altitude over Monroe, as a regular report, and a CAA operations specialist recorded the information as one of his many duties on his eight-hour shift in the Air Traffic Communications Station at the airfield just outside the city of Monroe.

The station at Selman Field is one of the 400 ATC stations placed throughout the United States. Although many think of the CAA as merely a weather station, the Monroe office contacts more than 100 air craft flying over the city each day, guides planes in during cloudy, or "instrument" landing weather, has direct landline telephone circuits with other stations in the U. S. It is part of a teletype circuit which is able to communicate, by relays with any point in the nation, and handles distribution of weather reports for exchange between ATC stations so that an aircraft pilot flying over each station may have fore-knowledge of the weather conditions ahead of his flight.

NINE-MAN STAFF

The CAA offices occupy the second floor of the light tan brick Municipal Airport building, and nine men are on the staff — Robert E. Griffith is supervisory electronics maintenance technician, with Robert Warner and Jerry Strater as the other two electronics maintenance technicians. Jack Hover is supervisory airways operation specialist, and five airways operations specialists compose his staff: Benjamin F. Bryan, Marcus B. Cole, Sydney T. Grafton, Noel R. Henderson and Harold V. Odom.

These men use two types of radio facilities to guide aircraft to the Monroe station when visibility is not clear. The older 'beam type' navigation instruments send out a horiontal beam as far as 50 miles, and use very high frequency radio ranges to guide the pilot in to the runway he will use on the instrument landing. Glide path instruments coinciding with those in his plane give him the proper glide angle for coming down at the end of the landing runway.

The newer radio facility, called omni range, works on very high frequency type navigation facilities, and permit pilots in aircraft equipped with the proper receiving equipment to steer their course to this station from any desired position by following the radio frequency.

MEASURING DEVICE

These instruments include a distance measuring device, which gives the pilot the exact distance from his flight position to the station.

Aircraft making instrument landings to Selman Field are controlled by the Monroe radio transmitters, in connection with the Memphis Air Traffic Control center and when more than one plane is attempting to land, the Monroe station by voice communication instructs the pilot on the proper altitude separation-places each plane on a different altitude above the ground, to keep circling to avoid collisions until landing is OK'd—and also gives the approach time when each plane may land.

A few weeks ago, 26 C-119's connected with Army King Cole Maneuvers came in at Selman Field, all on the same day, one after the other, using this landing procedure. CAA men aided them in landing, and since it was a cloudy day, they came in on instruments, each with separate clearance, at thte rate of one every 15 minutes.

To direct the C-119's in to a landing, the planes first reported their positions, and then Memphis relayed appropriate instructions to Monroe, to keep the aircraft from colliding while they were waiting for landing approval.

STRATEGIC CENTERS

Monroe has instant communications with Ft. Worth, Tex., and Memphis, Tenn. by interphone circuits. Memphis, an Air Traffic Control Station, is one of 26 strategic centers located in the United States, with facilities to tell the position of any radio-equipped aircraft in its section.

The CAA has 10 transmitting voice channels and eight receiving channels. The very high and ultra high frequencies work much the same way as separate radio stations, but those used for aircraft are limited to "line of sight" communication — they go only to designated airplanes in the path, and do not interfere with communications with other planes or ground stations.

The CAA at Selman Field has two teletype circuits, one called the B circuit to handle airplane movement messages pertaining to the flight of the planes from the point of departure to their destination, and for CAA administrative messages.

HOURLY REPORT

The A circuit is used for sending weather information. Selman Field, along with all other CAA units, makes a weather report every hour, on the half-hour, and these reports are transmitted by the A teletype circuit for exchange between all area stations from Texas to the east coast.

The CAA man on duty makes the weather observations primarily for aviation purposes. He checks on the sky conditions, and if he doesn't know the height of the clouds, he sends up a helium balloon. The helium gas in it makes it rise at a fixed rate of speed so the observer can tell how high the clouds are by the amount of time taken before it enters the clouds.

At night, he checks on the cloud height via a spotlight which hits the clouds at a certain angle, and by sighting the place on the clouds with a special weather instrument, which looks like a toy party horn made of steel, he can adjust the instrument to tell him exactly how high the "ceiling" (or clouds) is.

Pilots must know the ceiling height, the amount of cloud coverage - if the sky is clear or overcast - the visibility (distance which is clear for sight), any obstructions such as fog, haze or smoke, the weather, if there is rain, snow or hail, the temperature reading, and the dewpoint reading, which tells the pilot the amount of moisture in the air. By knowledge of the temperature and the dewpoint the pilot can determine whether any fog will occur. The CAA operations specialist also checks on the atmospheric pressure which the pilot needs to check for correct altitude.

SPECIAL MACHINE

The CAA man types out the weather report on a special machine which punches the information in code on tape. The perforated tape is then placed in the teletype, and as the Monroe code signal MLU is typed onto the machine by the master control station in Atlanta, the CAA operator flicks a switch in Monroe and the weather conditions here are sent out to be relayed from the offices in Atlanta and Ft. Worth to any point in the U. S.

The CAA at Selman Field doesn't, as many area residents believe, make the weather forecast for the general public. The United States Weather Bureau sends out these forecasts on press association teletypes to newspapers.

Temperature readings are made from two thermometers placed in a small box - like structure outside the Airport building. The "dry" bulb thermometer gives the regular temperature, and the "wet" bulb thermometer is contantly immersed in water to give the lowest possible temperature while it is in water. From this the moisture content of the air is determined.

The men who work the night shift, from 4 p.m. to midnight, and from midnight to 8 a.m., also control the airport lighting, including the runway lights, obstruction lights and the airport beacon.

DR. F. R. MOSELEY

Dr. Moseley To Preach In College Place

Dr. Fred R. Moseley, associate executive secretary of the Louisiana Baptist convention with headquarters in Alexandria, will preach both services at the College Place Baptist Church Sunday, April 14.

Dr. Moseley is well known throughout the state of Louisiana and throughout the Southern Baptist Convention. Before coming to his present position with the Louisiana Baptist Convention, he was pastor of the First Baptist Church of Bogalusa, Louisiana.

Many Monroe friends will remember Dr. Moseley as a former pastor of the College Place Baptist Church in the spring of 1955. The pastor, Rev. T. Ford Hall, is in revival services with the Franklin Avenue Baptist Church of New Orleans.

The public is cordially invited to all the services at this church Sunday.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: I do not believe that anyone should force upon the youth of America such fantastic beliefs as that of hell, as you are doing. I. R.

ANSWER: I am surprised to know that I am not the only one who believes in the Christian doctrine of hell. Its teaching is found in the words and the hymns of all leading evangelical churches including the Catholic. But I am frank to say that it is the most perverted truth in the world. Because Christ Himself taught it. He said: "Fear not them which kill the body, but are not able to kill the soul: but rather fear him which is able to destroy both body and soul in hell." Matt. 10:28. Again He said: "Whosoever shall say, Thou fool, shall be in danger of hell fire." Matt. 5:22. In the parable of the rich man He said: "And the rich man died and was buried; and in hell he lifted up his eyes, being in torments." Luke 16:22.

I don't know all about it, my friend. I don't know much about it. But I do know that Christ, the Son of God considered it important enough to mention over and over again. It is possible to read into the Scriptures only what we want to believe, and shut our eyes to that which is unpleasant to our thinking. God considered it real enough to send His only Son to the world to save men from it, and I, for one, refuse to live as though hell is an ancient myth. "Let God be true and every man a liar."

E. C. MCKENIZE

E. C. M'Kenzie Becomes Head Of Church

The past week the Jackson Street Church of Christ has a newcomer for Monroe as its minister who is known as Evangelist E. C. McKenzie, whose last charge for more than six years was the Catoma Street Church of Christ, Montgomery, Ala.

Immediately prior to his work in the Alabama city, he was for six years minister of the Downtown Church of Christ, Chicago, Ills.

He has done evangelistic work in 28 states and has been affiliated with several of the largest congregations of his faith. He was born in Texas and educated at Throp Spring Christian College and he taught in Texas public schools for five years.

He served as editor - in - chief of the Bible helps that now appear in the Standard Reference Indexed Bible which is published by the John A. Hertel Co., Chicago.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: I do not believe that anyone should force upon the youth of America such fantastic beliefs as that of hell, as you are doing. I. R.

ANSWER: It may interest you to know that I am not the only one who believes in the Christian doctrine of hell. Its teaching is found in the creeds and catechisms of all leading churches, including the Catholic. But I am frank to say that if no one believed in it, I would, because Christ Himself taught it. He said, "Fear not them which kill the body, but are not able to kill the soul: but rather fear him which is able to destroy both body and soul in hell." (Matt. 10:28) Again He said: "Whosoever shall say, Thou, fool, shall be in danger of hell fire." (Matt. 5:22) In the parable of the rich man He said, "And the rich man died and was buried, and in hell he lifted up his eyes, being in torments." (Luke 1:22.)

I don't know all about it; in fact, I don't know much about it. But I do know that Christ, the Son of God considered it important enough to mention over and over again. It is possible to read into the Scriptures only what we want to believe, and shut our eyes to that which is unpleasant to our thinking. God considered it real enough to send His only Son to the world to save men from it, and I, for one, refuse to live as though hell is an ancient myth. "Let God be true and every man a liar."

M'Clendon Will Have Revival; Starts Sunday

The regular spring revival will be held in McClendon Baptist Church, old Natchitoches road, West Monroe starting with the morining service Sunday April 14. The final services will be on Sunday April 21. The pastor the Rev. E. A. Burgess extends a hearty welcome to all to attend.

Muzzin's Call To Washington Moslems Is A New Attraction

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON, April 13 (UP) — The wailing sound of a Muzzin's voice calling Washington Moslems to prayer is the newest tourist attraction in this city of famous sights.

The sing-song sound over a loudspeaker in the minaret of a mosque is issued five times a day. It goes like this: "La ilah illa allah, muhammed rasulu allah" (There is no God but Allah, and Mohammed is his prophet).

The prayer calls were heard for the first time this month, at the start of the Moslem holy season of Ramadan. They will continue year-round in the future, as a regular part of worship at the Islamic center now nearing completion on fashionable Massachusetts Avenue.

Emphasizes Fact

Construction of this beautiful white mosque in the heart of the U.S. capital has brought home to American christians a fact which their missionaries in Asia have been reporting, with mounting concern, for the past several years.

The major Asian religions, after centuries of decline and decadence, are showing vigorous signs of life.

The strong spirit of nationalistic pride sweeping Asia has sparked a resurgence of loyalty to "native" faiths, such as Mohammedanism, Buddhism and Hinduism. And it has raised formidable new barriers to the further spread of Christianity, which many Asians associate with "western colonialism."

Asian Missionaries

Dr. Tracey K. Jones Jr., executive secretary of the Methodist Board of Missions, told a recent conference of Christian leaders that the Asian religions have now begun to "look upon the United States itself as a fertile ground for their missionary efforts."

"They are gaining converts and building temples in this country," he said.

A United Press survey, prompted by Dr. Jones' remarks, indicates that this "reverse missionary" effort is still on an extremely limited scale in America.

100,000 Moslems in U.S.

A spokesman for the Islamic center said there are about 100,000 Moslems in the United States, of whom the vast majority are immigrants from Arab countries or the children of immigrants. The biggest Moslem communities are in New York, Detroit and Toledo, Ohio. The Washington mosque serves about 500 local Moslems, nearly all of whom are assigned to embassies of Arab nations here.

"We have gained some converts amont native-born Americans, especially those of the colored races," said the Moslem spokesman. "We have no precise figures on these, but the total probably doesn't exceed 3,000. Most of them are in Brooklyn, Philadelphia and Chicago."

The attraction of the Moslem faith to some American Negroes may be due in part to its emphasis on elimination of any distinctions of race or color within the "brotherhood of Islam."

Warns Against Stampede Toward Tax Reduction

By RYAMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON, April 13 (UP) — Some old-timers in Congress are cautioning against a stampede toward tax reduction on the basis of "paper cuts" in the budget.

These warnings are coming from men like Sens. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.) and Styles Bridges (R-N.H.) and Rep. Daniel A. Reed (R-N.Y.), all charter members of the economy bloc.

They are not talking against tax reduction. They are just being more cautious than the House Democratic leadership, which sees a good chance tor passage of a tax reduction bill effective next Jan. 1 if two conditions are met. The conditions are that there must be no sign of a downturn in federal revenue, and that Congress must take a substantial slice off President Eisenhower's 72 billion dollar budget.

Any difference on how to approach tax reduction is largely a difference in degree. But there is a fear on the part of the more cautious members of Congress that a politically-attractive tax cut may be based on cuts in appropriations bills that will not stand up.

Thus Reed, House GOP spokesman on tax legislation, said it was premature to talk about tax cuts on the basis of "paper cut" in appropriations which may be offset later by supplemental appropriations.

Byrd and Bridges said Congress must know how cuts in appropriations will affect federal spending in the coming fiscal year, starting July 1, before acting on tax reduction. In the maze of government bookkeeping, Congress is never sure when a cut in an appropriation will show up as a cut in spending.

But Bridges thinks Congress can take action this year to trim $2,500,000,000 from the 72 billion dollar spending total for fiscal 1958, the government year that starts July 1. Then, he said, some of the saving could be applied to the federal debt and some to tax relief.

Found Guilty In 8 Deaths

CINCINNATI, April 13 (AP) — Arthur Lee Redmon, 29, was convicted of first-degree manslaughter last night for starting a fire in which eight persons—seven of them children—died.

A criminal court jury of six men and six women deliberated more than five hours before deciding that Redmon had started the apartment house fire, but had no intent to kill.

The conviction carries a penalty of 1-20 years in prison.

Redmon's attorneys said the defense is pleased with the verdict.

County Prosecutor C. Watson Hover said disposition of two more murder indictments against Redmon "will require a lot of sonsideration, particularly in view of the defection of one witness."

Hover referred to Mrs. Johnetta Clark, 20, mother of two of the fire victims and the woman whom the prosecution contended Redmon was trying to scare when he started the fire last Nov. 12.

Victims of the fire were Mrs. Clark's children, Terry Jane 5, and Larry Dell, 12 months; Mrs. Edna Dyas, 25, Mrs. Clark's sister, and her five children, John, 10, Beverly, 8, Jocelyn 3, Arlene, 6, and James Moore, 5.

Skin Specialist Shows How To Rinse Away Blackheads

Reveals Valuable Complexion Secret

RICHARD ESTRIN of Queen Helene

"Now no woman need despair of getting rid of ugly blackheads that mar an otherwise fine and lovely complexion. For here is a wonderfully simple treatment that gives dramatic proof of what it will do for you the first time you try it. In thousands of beauty salons across the country, thousands of women have paid from $5 to $10 for single Queen Helene Treatments. However, I have arranged for this store to bring you the very same treatment at a cost of less than 15c each . . . to use at your home."

We back our guarantee: you will be delighted with results. If you are not, your money will be cheerfully refunded.

"Thrilled and delighted," says Miss Jeanne Rains (left) after demonstration. "Could hardly believe my eyes!" said Miss Gilda D'Ambrosi (center). "It's true! I can't believe it! Where did the blackheads all go?" exclaimed Miss Shirley Stremus (right).

Fast, Easy Treatment now available for home use

by CLAIRE HOFFMAN

NEW YORK, N. Y.—I was one of an audience of truly surprised men, women and teen-agers yesterday, when a leading New York skin specialist demonstrated a new rapid way of removing blackheads. Each demonstration took only 15 minutes—and the results were frankly amazing! Ugly blackheads actually rinsed away and many could be seen on the white cleansing tissues that finished each treatment.

But this wasn't all! The treatment also helped reduce enlarged pores and made rough, muddy complexions look cleaner, clearer and smoother.

Here's what I saw . . .

Five women and two men were each given three products and told how to use them. The specialist himself did nothing but direct them—it was so easy!

First, he had them cleanse their faces thoroughly. Not with any cream that takes off only surface dirt, but with a scientific laboratory-developed pore cleanser that softens and loosens even the grime that has been caked and cemented into the pores for weeks. It is called Queen Helene's Whipped Cleansing Cream. As it is applied, it liquefies and floats out much of the pore "filler" with its rapid emollient action.

I was amused at the look of amazement on one woman's face as she tissued off the cream. The tissue was literally gray with dirt—and she confided to me that she had washed her face before taking part in the demonstration!

I'm convinced that any woman who sees, with her own eyes, the dirt this cream floats out of her skin—will begin to understand why it is so important to use a cleanser that really works.

"Suction Action"

The second step in this skin specialist's treatment was an application of Queen Helene's Masque, a delightfully mint-medicated cream. He had them smooth it on with their finger tips, applying it very generously on "trouble spots" such as around the nose and mouth.

Any woman will really enjoy this part of the treatment! For within two or three minutes your skin begins to feel a marvelous stimulation, as though being "massaged" by the action of the medicated ingredients in the masque. Next your face feels alternately "hot" and "cold"—followed in a few minutes by a delightful sensation of utter relaxation. Then your skin feels tighter . . . and tighter . . . and tighter!

It was explained this way

A special absorbing agent called Argilla dries and turns the cream into a plastic-like masque. As this firms and hardens, its suction action draws on the waste matter in the pores . . . This, he informed us, was the most important part of the treatment.

TRY THIS TEST! Wash face thoroughly, then apply treatment; rinse off . . . Now you can see . . . tiny specks of black on your washcloth that were once ugly blackheads and imbedded pore dirt.

READ WHAT BEAUTY EDITORS SAY:

"A royal blessing for those who've been bothered and blighted by blackheads." Ruth Mugglebee, Women's Editor. BOSTON DAILY RECORD

"When a skin specialist is responsible for a cosmetic line from his private formulas you have something." - Antoinette Donnelly. NEW YORK DAILY NEWS

"Thanks to a doctor's remarkable discovery comes a scientific three-way skin and beauty treatment that takes only 10 minutes but produces startling results." BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

Rinses away with water

After about 10 minutes, the masques were rinsed away with water. Hot or cold make no difference—the hardened cream dissolves in seconds. You simply wipe your face and—to your amazement—you see blackheads and other pore "filler" actually come off on your washcloth or tissue! Your skin feels clean—really clean—and refreshed and smooth, like velvet!

Pore-sponging and closing

The third and final step in the treatment was a quick dousing with Queen Helene's Penetrating Astringent. I found out that this was a very special astringent that sinks deep into your pores and performs the final necessary dissolving, soaking-up action—after which it helps tighten the pore openings and leaves an invisible film that helps protect your skin for hours against dirt and infection.

What will happen when you use this 3-step treatment?

You'll find the answer when you look in your mirror. Even after a single treatment, you are bound to see a marked improvement in your complexion. The chances are you'll find it hard to believe your eyes.

For example, some of the blackheads and whiteheads should be gone—either completely or partially—while others will be softened and made ready to be drawn out in another treatment or two. You will also see that many of your most prominent pores appear to be smaller—that your skin looks smoother—and feels fresher and more alive!

In short, after a single treatment taking less than fifteen minutes, you can expect to see results that normally you would not dare hope for even after many weeks of treatment . . . but don't expect everything to once, just the same! The damage done by years of neglect and improper care cannot be undone in a single day. But—with 3 or 4 treatments a week, taking less than 15 minutes each—you may confidently look forward to startling complexion improvements within the next 30 days. From then on, a single treatment a week—or every second week—will probably be all that your skin will need to be kept beautiful and healthy-looking.

Important Discovery for Normal Complexions too!

Even if you are not plagued by blackheads, whiteheads, or other tell-tale signs of skin blemishes, you will find this 3-Way Treatment a remarkable aid to a smooth, glowing young-looking complexion.

By proper cleansing and flexing your skin regularly—just as you flex your muscles—this 3-Way Treatment helps keep your complexion looking and feeling firm, youthful and alive!

If you should be over 35, and beginning to look it, you will see minor lines flatten out, feel tired facial muscles tighten, and enjoy the look and feel of youth for hours . . . Countless women use Queen Helene's 3-Way Skin and Beauty Treatment as a quick, beauty "pick-me-up" just before a party—or important date!

Clinical demonstrations of this treatment have been so startling that we know the results you'll see in your mirror will delight you. This is why we invite you to try Queen Helene's 3-Way Skin and Beauty Treatment without risking a penny. This treatment, developed by a leading New York Skin Specialist for home use, will not only enable you to rinse away troublesome blackheads, but it will also help smooth and beautify your complexion so that you yourself will see the difference—or the treatment won't cost you a cent! All you need to do is return what you haven't used, and your purchase price will be refunded. It's as simple as that. You have complexion loveliness to gain—and nothing to lose!

No matter what your skin may be like now—if it is anything less than perfect—Queen Helene promises you results you can see in your first 15-minute home treatment and dramatic improvements within 14 days. After the first two weeks, you will discover whether you need to keep on using the treatment several times a week, or less often, depending on how fast your complexion clears. But act now! So right now, while you are determined to help yourself, send in the coupon or phone today!

Complete Queen Helene Scientific 3-Way Skin & Beauty Treatment

Professional size (66 treatments) $5.95 (Plus Federal Tax)

Rinses away with water

After about 10 minutes, the masques were rinsed away with water. Hot or cold makes no difference—the hardened cream dissolves in seconds. You simply wipe your face and—to your amazement—you see blackheads and other pore "filler" actually come off on your washcloth or tissue! Your skin feels clean—really clean—and refreshed and smooth, like velvet!

Pore sponging and closing

The third and final step in the treatment was a quick dousing with Queen Helene's Penetrating Astringent. I found out that this was a very special astringent that sinks deep into your pores and performs the final necessary dissolving, soaking-up action—after which it helps tighten the pore openings and leaves an invisible film that helps protect your skin for hours against dirt and reinfection.

What will happen when you use this 3-step treatment?

You'll find the answer when you look in your mirror. Even after a single treatment, you are bound to see a marked improvement in your complexion. The chances are you'll find it hard to believe your eyes.

For example, some of the blackheads and whiteheads should be gone—either completely or partially—while others will be softened and made ready to be drawn out in another treatment or two. You will also see that many of your most prominent pores appear to be smaller—that your skin looks smoother—and feels fresher and more alive!

In short, after a single treatment taking less than fifteen minutes, you can expect to see results that normally you would not dare hope for even after many weeks of treatment . . . but don't expect everything to once, just the same! The damage done by years of neglect and improper care cannot be undone in a single day. But—with 3 or 4 treatments a week, taking less than 15 minutes each—you may confidently look forward to startling complexion improvements within the next 30 days. From then on, a single treatment a week—or every second week—will probably be all that your skin will need to be kept beautiful and healthy-looking.

Important Discovery for Normal Complexions too!

Even if you are not plagued by blackheads, whiteheads, or other tell-tale signs of skin blemishes, you will find this 3-Way Treatment a remarkable aid to a smooth, glowing young-looking complexion.

By proper cleansing and flexing your skin regularly—just as you flex your muscles—this 3-Way Treatment helps keep your complexion looking and feeling firm, youthful and alive!

If you should be over 35, and beginning to look it, you will see minor lines flatten out, feel tired facial muscles tighten, and enjoy the look and feel of youth for hours . . . Countless women use Queen Helene's 3-Way Skin and Beauty Treatment as a quick beauty "pick-me-up" just before a party—or important date!

Clinical demonstrations of this treatment have been so startling that we know the results you'll see in your mirror will delight you. This is why we invite you to try Queen Helene's 3-Way Skin and Beauty Treatment without risking a penny. This treatment, developed by a leading New York Skin Specialist for home use, will not only enable you to rinse away troublesome blackheads, but it will also help smooth and beautify your complexion so that you yourself will see the difference—or the treatment won't cost you a cent! All you need to do is return what you haven't used, and your purchase price will be refunded. It's as simple as that. You have complexion loveliness to gain—and nothing to lose!

No matter what your skin may be like now—if it is anything less than perfect—Queen Helene promises you results you can see in your first 15-minute home treatment and dramatic improvements within 14 days. After the first two weeks, you will discover whether you need to keep on using the treatment several times a week, or less often, depending on how fast your complexion clears. But act now! So right now, while you are determined to help yourself, send in the coupon or phone today!

K. Hepburn, Lancaster Star In 'The Rainmaker'

Katherine Hepburn is her old self again in "The Rainmaker," first giving a dramatic performance then switching to the role of a comedian, when she portrays a spinster being courted by two men. And that's two more men than she has had -- prior to the real plot of the picture.

"The Rainmaker," costarring Miss Hepburn and Burt Lancaster, opens today at the Jim Theatre. It is produced by Hal Wallis.

This dramatic force stems equally from inspired performances and an uninhibited, unusual story, which revolves around the Curry family of Three Point, somewhere out West: the town's bachelor deputy sheriff; and Starbuck, a footloose pitchman who wanders into their lives and turns them inside down. Lancaster, as Starbuck, a kind of pied piper with a calculating gift of gab, lures them all out of the rut of bleak, everyday life into a world where adventurous dreams are real -- meanwhile relieving them of $100 by promising to bring rain to their drought-stricken farms.

He jingles into town driving a wagon stocked with weird gadgets, and before he has quit Three Point, Miss Hepburn's Liz Curry has two suitors -- two more than she has ever had; Sheriff Wendell Corey has not only defied the law but broken his bachelor's oath, older brother Lloyd Bridges has learned there's more to life than sour logic; kid brother Earl Holliman, hitherto held down, has snuck off to court the girl of his choice and received a hilarious baptism of fire in the war between the sexes; and father Cameron Prud'homme has finally become a successful parent.

As for Starbuck, there's a special miracle reserved for him, but you won't get us to reveal that. You'll roar with laughter, and probably shed a tear or two when that happens, as you will watching Katie beautifully burlesque the wiles gals use to catch a man, and young Holliman, a terrific acting find, in some of the craziest teenage love scenes you've ever sat in on. Cute and shapely newcomer Yvonne Lime as Holliman's saucy girl friend and Wallace Ford as a whimsical sheriff match the high performance level.

Director Joseph Anthony, who also directed the hit Broadway play on which the picture is based, proves himself a master in this, his debut film, by drawing forth perfect acting in every role. N. Richard Nash, who wrote the play, has provided a screenplay that is at times earthy and violent, at times pure hilarity. With the same wizardry as in his "Come Back, Little Sheba" and "The Rose Tattoo," producer Hal Wallis has given us another film to rank with the best the screen has ever offered.

ABBE LANE

Actress Moans American Men 'Disappointing'

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK, April 13 (AP)—Abbe Lane is unhappy with American men.

"After living in Europe I've found so many American men disappointing," she said the other day. "They aren't like Cugie."

Cugie is her husband -- bandleader Xavier Cugat, with whom she currently is appearing twice a week on NBC-TV.

"When a European man goes out with a woman," said Miss Lane, "he makes her feel like the only woman in the world. I don't see many American men acting that way. They act—indifferent. They don't seem to care what a woman wears or how she looks. They look around at other women.

"Cugie isn't that way. He's interested in the clothes I wear and even the lipstick I have on. We like to make dates together. That's what more American men should be to their wives -- pay friends. Almost always, when we go some place, Cugie will say, 'You're the most beautiful woman in the room.'"

Born in New York of American parents 25 years ago, she was a Broadway actress before she discovered she could sing. When Cugat discovered she could sing, he signed her to his band -- and married her too.

Is she interested in a career in American movies?

"I would be," she said, "if they didn't cast me as a sex bomb. I'd like to play something like Marjorie Morningstar, something that would be a departure from the American concept of Abbe Lane."

One thing that baffles her is why so many American women are making such a fetish of being thin and "trying to look like little boys."

"If girls ever come back into fashion," she said, "I'm going to be a big hit. The plight of my life is trying to be a sweet-looking little girl.

"One trouble with me is that even when I wear a peter pan collar I look sexy. I can't help it."

First Horowitz Recording In Long Time Out

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK, April 13 (UP) -- The first Vladimir Horowitz recording in a very long time is of his playing of Beethoven's "Moonlight" and "Waldstein" sonatas, and nothing in the Beethoven repertoire fits his temperament and technique quite as well as do those two.

The "Moonlight" with Horowitz stops dripping before it gets sticky, yet the sentiment is there —the "mood," as it is called — as it should be. The "Waldstein" dazzles under Horowitz's flying and accurate fingers, as it dazzles for few pianists (RCA Victor-LM-2009). Jose Iturbi, who used to record for RCA Victor, now records for Angel, and one of his first records for his new label is of the things he does superbly —the less consequential yet not inconsequential things of masters —here pieces of Mozart, Debussy, Schubert, Chopin, Granados and Filip Lazar. The record is called "Iturbi Treasures" (Angel-35347.)

According to the album notes, Byron Janis got the privilege of playing Chopin's own piano in the very castle where Chopin once lived with Georg Sand, and the experience was so memorable it "inspired" him to record an all-Chopin record.

Some Religious Music

After all! What credulity is required of record - buyers these days? It is quite enough to say that Janis plays Chopin quite well, with sincerity and faith, with no suggestion of condescension. The side of his record is of the B flat minor sonata, the other of an impromptu, a nocturne, annetude.

Wall Street Sizes Up Economy, Finds It Good

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK, April 13 (AP)—How's business?

It all depended on where you sat.

Heads of companies making steel, chemicals, food products and shoes told their stockholders: business is just fine, and picking up. Some of this optimism spread to the stock market. Share prices, as measured by The Associated Press 60-stock average, scored their biggest weekly increase of the year.

On Main Street, merchants who had gambled billions on a record Easter shopping season glanced nervously at the skies. Easter business in many areas had been blitzed by tornadoes, floods and snow. For many stores, only a heavy surge of buying in the last pre-Easter week could offset earlier losses.

Main Street had other worries. In Baltimore, appliance dealers and departmtnt stores locked horns in a savage price war. The result: fantastic bargains for the consumer (you could snatch up a $525 refrigerator-freezer combination for $249.88) but for the competing merchants, red ink. At the manufacturing end, General Motors' Grigidaire Division said it would lay off 550 workers next week because of lagging appliance sales at retail.

Along automobile row, the prevailing attitude this week was one of optimism mixed with caution. New car sales had picked up slightly since the third week of March but the big spring upturn dealers had been hoping for was still conspicuously absent. Detroit reported that new car production for the week was about 126,000. That compares with 130,000 cars produced the previous week and 136,000 in the like week last year. Biggest factor in the downturn: labor difficulties at Chrysler Corp.

With total construction booming as never before, its vital home building segment was at its lowest ebb since early 1949. But while home builders complained bitterly of inadequate financing and dropping sales, contractors in the heavy construction field had more business than they could handle. Lion's share of this business was in tax-supported projects: Americans in the first three months this year spent more money on new schools, new roads, new sewers and new water works than in any other comparable period on record.

Prices showed erratic trends down.

Monroe's Retail Price Levels Up

BATON ROUGE, April 13 (Special) — The retail price level of living essentials purchased by moderate - income families in Monroe during March, 1957, registered an increase of 1.7 per cent over September, 1956, and 3.3 per cent from the level of a year ago, according to the Consumer Price Index compiled by the division of research of the college of commerce at Louisiana State University. The index now stands at 112.8 (1947-49 prices equals 100).

All major groups showed increases. The food index, up 0.7 per cent over September, 1956 registered a gain of 3.3 per cent for the year, with the meats, poultry, and fish sub-group leading the advance. Higher flour and cereal prices moved the cereals and bakery products sub-index 1.5 per cent above the level of September, 1956 and 2.9 per cent above the level of a year ago.

The meats, poultry, and fish sub-index rose 2.5 per cent above the September, 1956, mark and 5.7 per cent above the level of March, 1956, due mainly to higher beef and pork prices. The dairy products sub-index, up 2.1 per cent from the September, 1956, level, registered an increase of 5.5 per cent above the level of a year ago as prices of milk, butter, and cheese rose.

The fruits and vegetables sub-group, down 1.4 per cent from the level of six months ago, registered a slight increase (0.5 per cent) for the year. The other foods at home sub-index, 0.7 per cent below the September, 1956, level, was 2.4 per cent above the March, 1956, mark.

The housing group, led by household operations, continued its upward movement, registering gains of 2.8 per cent over September, 1956, and 4.2 per cent for the year. The rent sub-index, up 1.0 per cent from the September, 1956, mark, is 0.9 per cent above the level of a year ago. Gas and electricity increased slightly (0.2 per cent) for the year. House - furnishings advanced 0.9 per cent over the level of September, 1956, and 5.2 per cent above the level of a year ago.

Costs of household operations rose .2 per cent from September, 195, and 7.2 per cent for the year, due mainly to higher laundry, dry cleaning, and domestic service rates. Apparel registered increases of 0.3 per cent and 1.9 per cent over the levels of September and March, 1956, respectively.

Higher costs of gasoline, oil, and used cars moved the costs of transportation 3.4 per cent above the level of September, 1956, and 5.1 per cent above a year ago. Medical care advanced 0.4 per cent for the six - month period and 1.3 per cent for the year.

Personal care rose 0.3 per cent and 0.8 per cent above the levels of September, 1956, and March, 1956, respectively, as a result of price increases for razor blades, cleaning tissue and other personal items. Reading and recreation advanced 0.8 per cent for both periods. Other goods and services rose 0.5 per cent from the September, 1956, mark and 1.1 per cent for the year.

Bad Weather Retarding U. S. Sale Of Gasoline

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex., April 13 (AP)—Bad weather in many areas of the nation has caused a slow start for the heavy gasoline consumption season.

Gasoline being held in storage declined only 179,000 barrels the first week of the new spring-summer season, compared to 837,000 barrls last year and 2,097,000 the first week of the 1955 season.

Storage for the April-September season normally reaches its peak at the end of March and declines until mid-October. While gasoline stocks are on the decline, refiners concentrate during the summer on rebuilding light heating fuel storage in preparation for winter demand.

Despite recent cutbacks in refinery operations, the current April-September season began with a record level of gasoline in storage — 203 million barrels.

An all-time record high of 205 million barrels was established the week of March 8 but a cutback to 203 million by March 29 still left stocks at a record level at the start of the heavy consumption season.

The industry last year ended the heavy demand period with more gasoline on hand—171 million barrels on Oct. 26—than at the start of the April-September season in 1953—162 million barrels. The decline in stocks during last year's heavy demand period was only 26 million barrels, compared to a year earlier 34 million, 29 million in 1954 and 20 million in 1953.

Compared to only 179,000 barrels this year, gasoline storage dropped the first week of the 1953 season some 629,000 barrels and dropped 710,000 barrels in 1954.

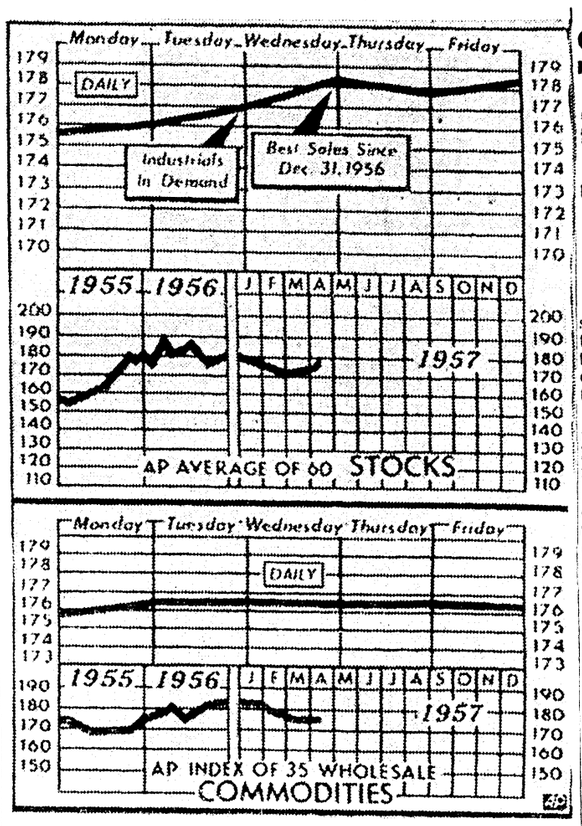
The high-low figures for light heating fuel oil normally are the reverse of those for gasoline, reaching a low in early April and building up to a peak level in early November.

The winter decline in heating fuel stocks continued through last week. Through April 5 winter customers had knocked 85 million barrels off the storage figures. The total drop during the 1955-56 winter season was 91 million barrels.

Heating fuel stocks reached a record level of 160 million barrels last Nov. 16. The 1955 winter season began with 151 million barrels in storage, compared to 137 million in 1954 and 135 million in 1953.

Like light fuel oils, kerosene stocks normally reach their peak in the fall and their low point in late March or early April. Kerosene storage last year reached a late peak of 36 million barrels on Nov. 23. The 1955 peak of 37 million was reached Oct. 19 and a high of 38 million in 1954 came on Oct. 22.

Kerosene stocks declined 20 million barrels during each of the past three heavy consumption sasons. Since the peak of 36 million last November they have decline 17 million so far during the season now ending.



STOCKS CONTINUE CLIMB

Associated Press average of 60 stocks continued its climb closing at 178.3 from 175.7 in the preceding period. The Commodity Index advanced to 176.2 from 175.9 with the livestock component leading the advance. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

VOLUME EXPANDS

Stocks Register Best 1957 Gains

NEW YORK, April 13 (AP)—The stock market snapped out of the doldrums this week, making the best weekly gain of 1957 on the highest volume of the year.

It was the biggest turnover since the week ended last May 12. The Associated Press average rose $2.60 to $178.30.

Based on the average, the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock exchange rose $3,170,000,000.

After more than a month and a half of extrement sluggish markets, the performance brought great good cheer to Wall Street.

What caused the advance? steels were undoubtedly the heroes.

Higher earnings and a boosted extra dividend touched-off high-flying Lukens Steel. Bethlehem, the world's second biggest steelmaker, surged ahead when its president said it was operating at 102 per cent of capacity and that its order backlog was excellent. This stimulated the entire steel group.

The market was also aided by the formal reopening of the Suez Canal to ships of 20,000 tons.

The week began with heavy selling of shares of Western railroads because of a Supreme Court decision barring Union Pacific from drilling for oil along its right of way. The week ended on a cheering note as the Senate Finance Committee voted a probe of the nation's financial condition, including interest rates, whose stiffness has depressed the market outlook for some time.

The five most active issues were Bethlehem Steel up 1⅝ at 44½; Lukens Steel, up 8⅝ at 77⅛; Studebaker, up ⅞ at 7⅞; General Dynamics, up 5½ at 67⅞; and General Motors, up 1⅜ at 41¼.

Corporate bonds closed lower on average this week on expanded volume. U. S. Treasury bonds drifted downward in a thin, stagnant bond market.

Cotton Futures Irregular In Week's Trading

NEW YORK, April 13 (AP) —Cotton futures prices followed an irregular course last week but closed the period with net gains. Active futures contracts on the the New York Cotton Exchange scored advances ranging from 5 cents to $1.05 a bale.

Several of the more distant months made new life-of-contract highs.

Trade buying and short covering provided a firm floor under the nearer positions. The new crop months moved upward on buying influenced by rains in the cotton belt, soil bank considerations, a bullish interpretation of heavy export sales, and possibility of a 1957 loan rate higher than the guaranteed minimum.

It was noted in the trade that while loan repossessions dropped sharply in the week ended April 5, they continued to exceed entries. Gross entries were placed at 13,755 bales vs. 17,280 a week ago while repossessions totaled 26,202 bales as compared to 45,373. Net entries through April 5 totaled 4,739,469 bales, it was pointed out.

Sale Of New Cars Moving To Upside

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Editor

DETROIT, April 13 (AP)—New car sales are moving upward, but there is a difference of opinion as to whether the increase is sufficient to warrant the statement that a boom is under way.

There always is an increase in retail deliveries in March which has more selling days than February.

Several companies have reported an increase in their March retail deliveries. Some have given unit figures; others have merely reported sharp percentage advances.

The figures on over-all retail deliveries for March have not been compiled and probably will not become public for another three or four weeks.

During the first two months of the current year the industry registered 876,045 new cars. This compared with 879,190 cars registered in the like 1956 period. Unofficial estimates put the March total this year at more than 500,000 units. The over-all total for the quarter may come to 1,400,000. That still would be slightly below the volume for the January-March period of last year. During that period the retailing division delivered 1,424,424 cars.

Probably it should be pointed out that the car makers began their sales pressure somewhat earlier last year. Confronted with the biggest dealer inventory in history they started the campaign early in March. Thus March retail sales came to more than 545,000 units.

Despite the improved March showing last year the car makers and retailers generally agreed there was no spring boom in 1956.

Some industry publications have said that without a substantial spring boom in retail sales the industry cannot hope to sell even six million cars this year. At the start of the current model year predictions in high industry quarters were that the market would absorb at least 10 per cent more than the 5,900,000 unit deliveries of 1956.

Automotive News reported this week that "one of the biggest advertising campaigns ever launched is reported in the making to stimulate the spring car sales market." It added that General Motors reportedly would have a large part in the drive "to recapture some of the ground lost by GM divisions in auto market penetration."

New car registration figures for the first two months of this year showed Ford still leading Chevrolet, but with a smaller margin in February than it recorded in January. Following this, spokesmen for Chevrolet said a substantial increase in its retail deliveries was reported in the second and final 10 day periods of March.

Meanwhile more than a dozen sales contests are under way among as many different companies. They are aimed at the salesmen, the consumers and the industry's field personnel. There are bonuses for salesmen and prizes for jingle contest winners. The prizes range up to a new car for as many as 100 entrants in the contest of one maker.

It is reasonably safe to say that if the industry maintains its present retail sales rate through the second quarter and registers a normal third quarter volume, it still has a chance of marketing more than six million cars this year. A big chunk of that total will come in the final quarter which will find several wholly new cars on the market.

New Orleans' Port Tonnage Up 23 Per Cent

NEW ORLEANS, April 13 (UP)—The New Orleans Port director announced today cargo tonnage increased 23 per cent at the public wharves during the first quarter of 1957 as compared with the same period last year.

Director Robert W. French said the total tonnage of cargo that moved from January through March was 1,474,201 tons.

French said if increases hold up for the rest of the year, 1957 will be the largest year in the history of the Port of New Orleans.

Some 1,065 ship arrivals through March represent an 11 per cent increase over the same period in 1956. Freight car arrivals have also shown a marked increase over last year.

The Port has averaged some 9,000 cars per month for January and February, as compared to 7,953 carloads per month in 1956, he said. Grain elevator receipts are up some 35 per cent.

Tourism First

AYR, Scotland, April 13 (UP) —Whisky must take a back seat to tourism as Britain's biggest dollar earner, Col. G. Malcolm said yesterday.

Malcolm told the Scottish Unionist conference, "this will come as a profound shock to many."

He said Board of Trade figures showed that tourism earned Britain $42 million last year, while whisky earned $23 million.

CAB To Reject Trans-Atlantic Air Rate Hikes

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) said yesterday it intends to reject a proposed 5 per cent increase in airline fares across the north Atlantic.

The airlines had proposed to put such an increase into effect May 1. The board gave the airlines 15 days in which to submit comments, and said it would defer action during that period "with a view toward eventual disapproval."

The increase was proposed in an agreement adopted by mail vote of the world's internationally operated scheduled airlines which are members of the International Air Transport Assn.

Noting that the proposal had originated with the association staff, rather than with one or more of the airlines as is the usual practice, the CAB said this appeared to be "a type price-fixing procedure which the board considers objectionable."

Abernathy Says Oil Future Good

PALM SPRINGS, Calif., April 13 (Special) — A five-point program for economy in oil well drilling operations was outlined by drilling contractor Jack H. Abernathy at the 22nd annual meeting of the Petroleum Equipment Suppliers Association in Palm Springs, Calif.

Abernathy, who is president of the American Association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors, pointed out that contract footage prices for drilling have actually decreased, even though equipment annd labor costs are twice 1941 levels. He warned that "the contractor is caught on a treadmill. He finds that his most diligent efforts are no longer adequate to keep a spread or cash gain between constantly increasing costs and lowered returns from rig operations."

An index to this trend, the drilling spokesman noted, is the lagging sales of new drilling rigs. Instead of the 450 new rigs per year needed to prevent the industry's tools from becoming obsolete, he estimated 1956 sales at only 280, due to inadequate funds for replacement of equipment.

A solution to the tight economic problem lies in the supplier-contractor relationship, Abernathy said. He suggested that five steps toward improved drilling efficiency are: (1) research to improve drilling equipment; (2) retirement of obsolete tools traded in on new equipment; (3) reduction of suppliers' rig servicing expenses, such as daily rig calls by salesmen; (4) re-evaluation of oil field supply credit policies, with a view to the financial responsibility of the debtor; and (5) where needed, suppliers' assistance to certain contractors in business administration problems such as cost accounting.

Abernathy concluded by observing that in view of the increasing demand for petroleum, the "long range market potential for crude oil, for the dilling contractor and for the supplier is bright, although the short range — five years or less — will require close, careful operations."

U. S. Falls Heir To Oil Millions Along Rail Lines

WASHINGTON, April 13 (UP)—The government fell heir to potential oil millions this week when the supreme court ruled it owns the mineral rights in all government-grant railroad land.

The decision was against the Union Pacific which wanted to drill for oil on its 400 foot wide government-granted right of way in Wyoming. But it applies to all railroads whose rights of way are land grants under a law enacted in 1862. This means thousands of acres.

Department of Interior lawyers told the United Press the Bureau of Land Management is free to lease the lands for mineral exploration but before any attempted leasing they will draft ground rules for Secretary Fred A. Seaton.

They said the decision poses many problems. High on the list is the fact that the railroads retain surface rights which they can use to deny access to their lands even though the government leases the mineral rights.

But this does not preclude the government from leasing public lands adjoining the right of way and authorizing the lessees to "slant drill" into the right of way for oil, natural gas, or other minerals. Off-set drilling also is now legal.

On the same premise a private land-owner could lease his land for slant or off-set drilling if the driller also held the government's mineral rights. And carrying it further, the railroads themselves could drill if they acquired the mineral rights or they could lease their lands for that purpose.

"We will study the full significance of the decision before making any recommendations," one of the interior lawyers said. "One thing is certain, however. We now have full authority to lease the mineral rights in any government-grant right of way."

Best guess is that the lawyers will recommend a policy under which the railroads and the government might cooperate for their mutual profit.

Airlines Plan $3 Penalty For Unused Tickets

NEW ORLEANS, April 13 (AP) — The scheduled airlines decided yesterday to impose a $3 penalty on each passenger who fails to bake use of—or to cancel in advance—his airline ticket.

If the Civil Aeronautics Board approves, the penalty will go into effect Sept. 15.

The penalty was decided upon by airline representatives to the Air Traffic Conference (ATC), an agency within the Air Transport Assn.

Rex Brack of Dallas, ATC president and vice president of Braniff International Airways, said the new penalty is part of a program to cope with the serious "no show" problem of the airlines.

The widespread failure of passengers to show up for their trips, after buying tickets for them, results in airliners departing with empty seats while potential passengers who want the seats are unable to buy them.

German Labor Corps Abolished

Gas Now Being Stored Underground In Caverns Dug Inside Salt Domes

The wonders are the great salt domes that bulge up like mushrooms to within a few hundred feet of the surface.

The solid domes, found over the years by oil drillers, were of only geological interest until recently.

Then someone hit on the idea of digging into the salt to create a cheaply built reservoir.

The best way to do this was to allow water to dig.

So shafts were sunk into the domes, water introduced to dissolve the salt, the water then pumped out.

Fifteen miles west of here, Freestone Underground Storage Corp. had six million gallons of liquefied petroleum tucked away in man-made cavities in the top of Butler salt dome when the winter fuel rush began. Liquesfied petroleum is also known as bottled gas. It is used for home heating systems in areas unserviced by gas utilities.

Freestone Underground Storage Corp. has drilled three wells into the Butler dome, the last completed last year.

The third well was washed with fresh water for two months and has a storage capacity of 200,000 gallons. After the winter rush for fuel, the cavity will be washed again and made larger.

Salt is not dissolved by liquefied petroleum and gas liquids do not seep into the salt beyond recovery range.

"The only losses we have had," Newman said, "are losses that go with any ordinary handling operation. We can get back almost every drop we put into the holes."

The underground storage facility was developed for less than one fifth the amount that a ground level steel storage tank would have cost, Newman said.

Wall Street Sizes Up Economy, Finds It Good

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK, April 13 (AP)—How's business?

It all depended on where you sat.

Heads of companies making steel, chemicals, food products and shoes told their stockholders: business is just fine, and picking up. Some of this optimism spread to the stock market. Share prices, as measured by The Associated Press 60-stock average, scored their biggest weekly increase of the year.

On Main Street, merchants who had gambled billions on a record Easter shopping season glanced nervously at the skies. Easter business in many areas had been blitzed by tornadoes, floods and snow. For many stores, only a heavy surge of buying in the last pre-Easter week could offset earlier losses.

Main Street had other worries. In Baltimore, appliance dealers and departmtnt stores locked horns in a savage price war. The result: fantastic bargains for the consumer (you could snatch up a $525 refrigerator-freezer combination for $249.88) but for the competing merchants, red ink. At the manufacturing end, General Motors' Grigidaire Division said it would lay off 550 workers next week because of lagging appliance sales at retail.

Along automobile row, the prevailing attitude this week was one of optimism mixed with caution. New car sales had picked up slightly since the third week of March but the big spring upturn dealers had been hoping for was still conspicuously absent. Detroit reported that new car production for the week was about 126,000. That compares with 130,000 cars produced the previous week and 136,000 in the like week last year. Biggest factor in the downturn: labor difficulties at Chrysler Corp.

With total construction booming as never before, its vital home building segment was at its lowest ebb since early 1949. But while home builders complained bitterly of inadequate financing and drooping sales, contractors in the heavy construction field had more business than they could handle. Lion's share of this business was in tax-supported projects: Americans in the first three months this year spent more money on new schools, new roads, new sewers and new water works than in any other comparable period on record.

Prices showed erratic trends down.

Monroe's Retail Price Levels Up

BATON ROUGE, April 13 (Special) — The retail price level of living essentials purchased by moderate - income families in Monroe during March, 1957, registered an increase of 1.7 per cent over September, 1956, and 3.3 per cent from the level of a year ago, according to the Consumer Price Index compiled by the division of research of the college of commerce at Louisiana State University. The index now stands at 112.8 (1947-49 prices equals 100).

All major groups showed increases. The food index, up 0.7 per cent over September, 1956 registered a gain of 3.3 per cent for the year, with the meats, poultry, and fish sub-group leading the advance. Higher flour and cereal prices moved the cereals and bakery products sub-index 1.5 per cent above the level of September, 1956 and 2.9 per cent above the level of a year ago.

The meats, poultry, and fish sub-index rose 2.5 per cent above the September, 1956, mark and 5.7 per cent above the level of March, 1956, due mainly to higher beef and pork prices. The dairy products sub-index, up 2.1 per cent from the September, 1956, level, registered an increase of 5.5 per cent above the level of a year ago as prices of milk, butter, and cheese rose.

The fruits and vegetables - subgroup, down 1.4 per cent from the level of six months ago, registered a slight increase (0.5 per cent) for the year. The other foods at home sub-index, 0.7 per cent below the September, 1956, level, was 2.4 per cent above the March, 1956, mark.

The housing group, led by household operations, continued its upward movement, registering gains of 2.8 per cent over September, 1956, and 4.2 per cent for the year. The rent sub-index, up 1.0 per cent from the September, 1956, mark, is 0.9 per cent above the level of a year ago. Gas and electricity increased slightly (0.2 per cent) for the year. House - furnishings advanced 0.9 per cent over the level of September, 1956, and 5.2 per cent above the level of a year ago.

Costs of household operations rose .2 per cent from September, 195, and 7.2 per cent for the year, due mainly to higher laundry, dry cleaning, and domestic service rates. Apparel registered increases of 0.3 per cent and 1.9 per cent over the levels of September and March, 1956, respectively.

Higher costs of gasoline, oil, and used cars moved the costs of transportation 3.4 per cent above the level of September, 1956, and 5.1 per cent above a year ago. Medical care advanced 0.4 per cent for the six - month period and 1.3 per cent for the year.

Personal care rose 0.3 per cent and 0.8 per cent above the levels of September, 1956, and March, 1956, respectively, as a result of price increases for razor blades, cleaning tissue and other personal items. Reading and recreation advanced 0.8 per cent for both periods. Other goods and services rose 0.5 per cent from the September, 1956, mark and 1.1 per cent for the year.

Bad Weather Retarding U. S. Sale Of Gasoline

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex., April 13 (AP)—Bad weather in many areas of the nation has caused a slow start for the heavy gasoline consumption season.

Gasoline being held in storage declined only 179,000 barrels the first week of the new spring-summer season, compared to 887,000 barrls last year and 2,097,000 the first week of the 1955 season.

Storage for the April-September season normally reaches its peak at the end of March and declines until mid-October. While gasoline stocks are on the decline, refiners concentrate during the summer on rebuilding light heating fuel storage in preparation for winter demand.

Despite recent cutbacks in refinery operations, the current April-September season began with a record level of gasoline in storage — 203 million barrels.

An all-time record high of 205 million barrels was established the week of March 8 but a cutback to 203 million by March 29 still left stocks at a record level at the start of the heavy consumption season.

The industry last year ended the heavy demand period with more gasoline on hand—171 million barrels on Oct. 26—than at the start of the April-September season in 1953—162 million barrels. The decline in stocks during last year's heavy demand period was only 26 million barrels, compared to a year earlier 34 million, 29 million in 1954 and 20 million in 1953.

Compared to only 179,000 barrels this year, gasoline storage dropped the first week of the 1953 season some 629,000 barrels and dropped 710,000 barrels in 1954.

The high-low figures for light heating fuel oil normally are the reverse of those for gasoline, reaching a low in early April and building up to a peak level in early November.

The winter decline in heating fuel stocks continued through last week. Through April 5 winter customers had knocked 85 million barrels off the storage figures. The total drop during the 1955-56 winter season was 91 million barrels.

Heating fuel stocks reached a record level of 160 million barrels last Nov. 16. The 1955 winter season began with 151 million barrels in storage, compared to 137 million in 1954 and 135 million in 1953.

Like light fuel oils, kerosene stocks normally reach their peak in the fall and their low point in late March or early April. Kerosene storage last year reached a late peak of 36 million barrels on Nov. 23. The 1955 peak of 37 million was reached Oct. 19 and a high of 38 million in 1954 came on Oct. 22.

Kerosene stocks declined 20 million barrels during each of the past three heavy consumption seasons. Since the peak of 36 million last November they have decline 17 million so far during the season now ending.

Cotton Futures Irregular In Week's Trading

NEW YORK, April 13 (AP) —Cotton futures prices followed an irregular course last week but closed the period with net gains. Active futures contracts on the the New York Cotton Exchange scored advances ranging from 5 cents to $1.05 a bale.

Several of the more distant months made new life-of-contract highs.

Trade buying and short covering provided a firm floor under the nearer positions. The new crop months moved upward on buying influenced by rains in the cotton belt, soil bank considerations, a bullish interpretation of heavy export sales, and possibility of a 1957 loan rate higher than the guaranteed minimum.

It was noted in the trade that while loan repossessions dropped sharply in the week ended April 5, they continued to exceed entries. Gross entries were placed at 13,755 bales vs. 17,280 a week ago while repossessions totaled 26,202 bales as compared to 45,373. Net entries through April 5 totaled 4,739,469 bales, it was pointed out.

STOCKS CONTINUE CLIMB

VOLUME EXPANDS

Stocks Register Best 1957 Gains

NEW YORK, April 13 (AP)—The stock market snapped out of the doldrums this week, making the best weekly gain of 1957 on the highest volume of the year.

It was the biggest turnover since the week ended last May 12. The Associated Press average rose $2.60 to $178.30.

Based on the average, the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock exchange rose $3,170,000,000.

After more than a month and a half of extrement sluggish markets, the performance brought great good cheer to Wall Street.

What caused the advance? steels were undoubtedly the heroes.

Higher earnings and a boosted extra dividend touched-off high-flying Lukens Steel. Bethlehem, the world's second biggest steelmaker, surged ahead when its president said it was operating at 102 per cent of capacity and that its order backlog was excellent. This stimulated the entire steel group.

The market was also aided by the formal reopening of the Suez Canal to ships of 20,000 tons.

The week began with heavy selling of shares of Western railroads because of a Supreme Court decision barring Union Pacific from drilling for oil along its right of way. The week ended on a cheering note as the Senate Finance Committee voted a probe of the nation's financial condition, including interest rates, whose stiffness has depressed the market outlook for some time.

The five most active issues were Bethlehem Steel up1⅜ at 44½; Lukens Steel, up 8⅝ at 77⅛; Studebaker, up ⅞ at 7⅞; General Dynamics, up 5½ at 67⅞; and General Motors, up 1¾ at 41¼.

Corporate bonds closed lower on average this week on expanded volume. U. S. Treasury bonds drifted downward in a thin, stagnant bond market.

CAB To Reject Trans-Atlantic Air Rate Hikes

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) said yesterday it intends to reject a proposed 5 per cent increase in airline fares across the north Atlantic.

The airlines had proposed to put such an increase into effect May 1. The board gave the airlines 15 days in which to submit comments, and said it would defer action during that period "with a view toward eventual disapproval."

The increase was proposed in an agreement adopted by mail vote of the world's internationally operated scheduled airlines which are members of the International Air Transport Assn.

Noting that the proposal had originated with the association staff, rather than with one or more of the airlines as is the usual practice, the CAB said this appeared to be "a type price-fixing procedure which the board considers objectionable."

Sale Of New Cars Moving To Upside

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Editor

DETROIT, April 13 (AP)—New car sales are moving upward, but there is a difference of opinion as to whether the increase is sufficient to warrant the statement that a boom is under way.

There always is an increase in retail deliveries in March which has more selling days than February.

Several companies have reported an increase in their March retail deliveries. Some have given unit figures; others have merely reported sharp percentage advances.

The figures on over-all retail deliveries for March have not been compiled and probably will not become public for another three or four weeks.

During the first two months of the current year the industry registered 876,045 new cars. This compared with 879,190 cars registered in the like 1956 period. Unofficial estimates put the March total this year at more than 500,000 units. The over-all total for the quarter may come to 1,400,000. That still would be slightly below the volume for the January-March period of last year. During that period the retailing division delivered 1,424,424 cars.

Probably it should be pointed out that the car makers began their sales pressure somewhat earlier last year. Confronted with the biggest dealer inventory in history they started the campaign early in March. Thus March retail sales came to more than 545,000 units.

Despite the improved March showing last year the car makers and retailers generally agreed there was no spring boom in 1956.

Some industry publications have said that without a substantial spring boom in retail sales the industry cannot hope to sell even six million cars this year. At the start of the current model year predictions in high industry quarters were that the market would absorb at least 10 per cent more than the 5,900,000 unit deliveries of 1956.

Automotive News reported this week that "one of the biggest advertising campaigns ever launched is reported in the making to stimulate the spring car sales market." It added that General Motors reportedly would have a large part in the drive "to recapture some of the ground lost by GM divisions in auto market penetration."

New car registration figures for the first two months of this year showed Ford still leading Chevrolet, but with a smaller margin in February than it recorded in January. Following this, spokesmen for Chevrolet said a substantial increase in its retail deliveries was reported in the second and final 10 day periods of March.

Meanwhile more than a dozen sales contests are under way among as many different companies. They are aimed at the salesmen, the consumers and the industry's field personnel. There are bonuses for salesmen and prizes for jingle contest winners. The prizes range up to a new car for as many as 100 entrants in the contest of one maker.

It is reasonably safe to say that if the industry maintains its present retail sales rate through the second quarter and registers a normal third quarter volume, it still has a chance of marketing more than six million cars this year. A big chunk of that total will come in the final quarter which will find several wholly new cars on the market.

New Orleans' Port Tonnage Up 23 Per Cent

NEW ORLEANS, April 13 (UP)—The New Orleans Port director announced today cargo tonnage increased 23 per cent at the public wharves during the first quarter of 1957 as compared with the same period last year.

Director Robert W. French said the total tonnage of cargo that moved from January through March was 1,474,201 tons.

French said if increases hold up for the rest of the year, 1957 will be the largest year in the history of the Port of New Orleans.

Some 1,065 ship arrivals through March represent an 11 per cent increase over the same period in 1956. Freight car arrivals have also shown a marked increase over last year.

The Port has averaged some 9,000 cars per month for January and February, as compared to 7,953 carloads per month in 1956, he said. Grain elevator receipts are up some 35 per cent.

Tourism First

AYR, Scotland, April 13 (UP) —Whisky must take a back seat to tourism as Britain's biggest dollar earner, Col. G. Malcolm said yesterday.

Malcolm told the Scottish Unionist conference, "this will come as a profound shock to many."

He said Board of Trade figures showed that tourism earned Britain $42 million last year, while whisky earned $23 million.

Abernathy Says Oil Future Good

PALM SPRINGS, Calif., April 13 (Special) — A five-point program for economy in oil well drilling operations was outlined by drilling contractor Jack H. Abernathy at the 22nd annual meeting of the Petroleum Equipment Suppliers Association in Palm Springs, Calif.

Abernathy, who is president of the American Association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors, pointed out that contract footage prices for drilling have actually decreased, even though equipment annd labor costs are twice 1941 levels. He warned that 'the contractor is caught on a treadmill. He finds that his most diligent efforts are no longer adequate to keep a spread or cash gain between constantly increasing costs and lowered returns from rig operations."

An index to this trend, the drilling spokesman noted, is the lagging sales of new drilling rigs. Instead of the 450 new rigs per year needed to prevent the industry's tools from becoming obsolete, he estimated 1956 sales at only 280, due to inadequate funds for replacement of equipment.

A solution to the tight economic problem lies in the supplier-contractor relationship, Abernathy said. He suggested that five steps toward improved drilling efficiency are: (1) research to improve drilling equipment; (2) retirement of obsolete tools traded in on new equipment; () reduction of suppliers' rig servicing expenses, such as daily rig calls by salesmen; (4) re-evaluation of oil field supply credit policies, with a view to the financial responsibility of the debtor; and (5) where needed, suppliers' assistance to certain contractors in business administration problems such as cost accounting.

Abernathy concluded by observing that in view of the increasing demand for petroleum, the "long range market potential for crude oil, for the dilling contractor and for the supplier is bright, although the short range — five years or less — will require close, careful operations."

Airlines Plan $3 Penalty For Unused Tickets

NEW ORLEANS, April 13 (AP) — The scheduled airlines decided yesterday to impose a $3 penalty on each passenger who fails to bake use of—or to cancel in advance—his airline ticket.

If the Civil Aeronautics Board approves, the penalty will go into effect Sept. 15.

The penalty was decided upon by airline representatives to the Air Traffic Conference (ATC), an agency within the Air Transport Assn.

Rex Brack of Dallas, ATC president and vice president of Braniff International Airways, said the new penalty is part of a program to cope with the serious "no show" problem of the airlines.

The widespread failure of passengers to show up for their trips, after buying tickets for them, results in airliners departing with empty seats while potential passengers who want the seats are unable to buy them.

U. S. Falls Heir To Oil Millions Along Rail Lines

WASHINGTON, April 13 (UP)—The government fell heir to potential oil millions this week when the supreme court ruled it owns the mineral rights in all government-grant railroad land.

The decision was against the Union Pacific which wanted to drill for oil on its 400 foot wide government-granted right of way in Wyoming. But it applies to all railroads whose rights of way are land grants under a law enacted in 1862. This means thousands of acres.

Department of Interior lawyers told the United Press the Bureau of Land Management is free to lease the lands for mineral exploration but before any attempted leasing they will draft ground rules for Secretary Fred A. Seaton.

They said the decision poses many problems. High on the list is the fact that the railroads retain surface rights which they can use to deny access to their lands even though the government leases the mineral rights.

But this does not preclude the government from leasing public lands adjoining the right of way and authorizing the lessees to "slant drill" into the right of way for oil, natural gas, or other minerals. Off-set drilling also is now legal.

On the same premise a private land-owner could lease his land for slant or off-set drilling if the driller also held the government's mineral rights. And carrying it further, the railroads themselves could drill if they acquired the mineral rights or they could lease their lands for that purpose.

"We will study the full significance of the decision before making any recommendations," one of the interior lawyers said. "One thing is certain, however. We now have full authority to lease the mineral rights in any government-grant right of way."

Best guess is that the lawyers will recommend a policy under which the railroads and the government might cooperate for their mutual profit.

German Labor Corps Abolished

Gas Now Being Stored Underground In Caverns Dug Inside Salt Domes

The wonders are the great salt domes that bulge up like mushrooms to within a few hundred feet of the surface.

The solid domes, found over the years by oil drillers, were of only geological interest until recently.

Then someone hit on the idea of digging into the salt to create a cheaply built reservoir.

The best way to do this was to allow water to dig.

So shafts were sunk into the domes, water introduced to dissolve the salt, the water then pumped out.

Fifteen miles west of here, Freestone Underground Storage Corp. had six million gallons of liquefied petroleum tucked away in man-made cavities in the top of Butler salt dome when the winter fuel rush began. Liquesfied petroleum is also known as bottled gas. It is used for home heating systems in areas unserviced by gas utilities.

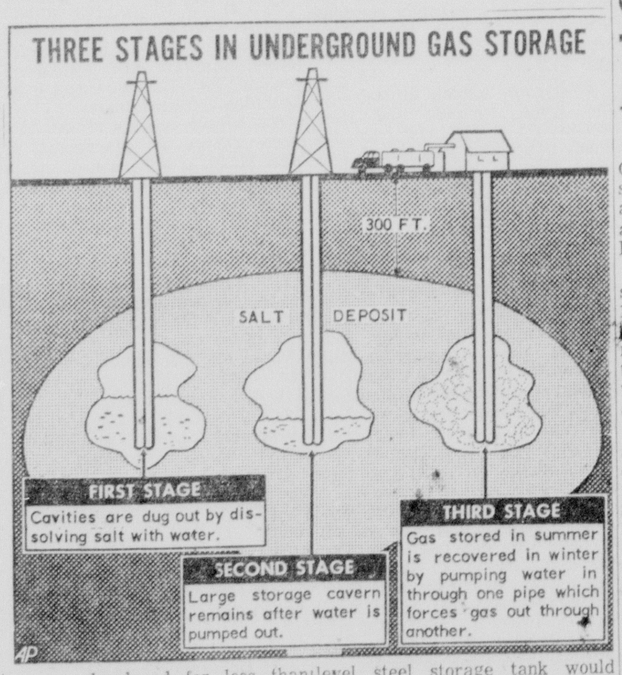
Freestone Underground Storage Corp. has drilled three wells into the Butler dome, the last completed last year.

The third well was washed with fresh water for two months and has a storage capacity of 200,000 gallons. After the winter rush for fuel, the cavity will be washed again and made larger.

Salt is not dissolved by liquefied petroleum and gas liquids do not seep into the salt beyond recovery range.

"The only losses we have had," Newman said, "are losses that go with any ordinary handling operation. We can get back almost every drop we put into the holes."

The underground storage facility was developed for less than one fifth the amount that a ground level steel storage tank would have cost, Newman said.



Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

The Silver Cup Championships, an event for outboard motorboat enthusiasts, was organized a year ago for an inaugural run on the Ouachita river here, meeting with immediate success, but the second annual races next June 30 already promise to be bigger and better—as good as any of the district championship races and possibly overshadowed only by the National Championships.

We wondered for a time how it could be possible for the young Silver Cup event to begin claiming such distinction, but all you have to do is listen to Howard Griffin for a few minutes to be convinced.

If anybody in this section of the country knows the motorboating fraternity it is Howard, quite a racer himself who finished high in the Greenville-to-Vicksburg race on the Mississippi river last summer. Griffin has made all the big races, knows the requirements for good shows, is acquainted with all the leading speedboaters, and has secured recognition of the National Outboard Association in listing the Monroe race as a district meet in which winners will qualify for the National.

It was thus almost mandatory that Griffin be included on Chairman J. H. "Slim" Scogins' sports committee of the Chamber of Commerce, race sponsor with cooperating Twin Cities business houses.

As Griffin explained at a committee meeting the past week, the fact that the Silver Cup is now officially recognized as a district qualifying event, all the racers throughout this section of the country can be counted on to compete here. "The district races qualify for the National, and racers can clinch places in the big championship races by winning in the district events," he said. Racers would much rather win their place in the National at the district events than run the risk of failing to qualify in pre-National trials for those who have not automatically qualified at the districts."

The Silver Cup sponsors are very elated over the outlook of this year's races. Improved facilities will accomodate more racers and much is being done to make more conveniences for visiting contenders and the spectators. The only burr under the saddle at the moment is the river itself. Rains have the river at a high stage and predictions are that it will climb more. There's still two months for the water to recede, but it's not impossible for the level to still be high in June, say enough to keep the river bank improvements (currently submerged) unusable. But this is looking at the dark side. A lot of water can go under the bridges in two months, and the Ouachita can be serene in within its summer banks by June 30 just waiting to be churned by racing motors.

Ford Catches Boros

Doug's Eagle On 18th Hole Fashions Tie

By DON MARTIN

GREENSBORO, N.C., April 13 (UP)—Masters Champ Doug Ford of Mahopac, N.Y., curled in a 12-foot eagle putt on the 18th green today to tie halt - way leader Julius Boros of Mid-Pines, N.C., at the three-quarter mark of the $15,000 Greater Greensboro Golf Open.

Ford laced par by three strokes for a 67 to catch the Big Moose, who banged a four - iron out of bounds over the 11th green, costing him his five-shot lead going into today's play. Each had 206, four under par.

Stan Leonard of Lacinte, Quebec, and youngster Gary Player of Johannesburg, South Africa, both broke par to tie for third at 207. Leonard had a 67 and Player fired a 68.

Barrel-shaped Mike Souchak of Grossinger's N.Y., broke par for the first time today with a 69 in a 209 total. Trevor Wilkes, Bobby Locke's protege from Johannesburg slipped to a two-over 72 today for a 211.

Ford birdied the third hole when he hit a six-iron 10 feet from the pin for a deuce, and he parred the rest of the way out to make the turn in 34, one under regulation over drawn-out Sedgefield Resort country club.

The winter circuit's leading money winner shot regulation par all the way coming home except on the 18th, when he smashed a three-iron 12 feet from the pin on the long par five.

Boros went over on the fourth hole, but he picked up birdie threes on the eighth and ninth to make the curve one-under. He parred the 10th and then came the fatal four iron on the 11th. The Big Moose hit the ball out of a heavy grass lie, and it hit the green, only to pop over into a ditch out of bounds.

Visibly shaken by the two-stroke penalty, Boros missed a six footer for a par on 14, but birdied 15 with an eight-footer, only to bogey the 16th when he knocked his tee shot over the green. He birdied the 13th for a 71 and a tie with Ford.

Leonard made the turn two under, picking up birdies on five and six. He birdied the 10th, bogeyed the 11th, then added another birdie on 18 for a 67.

Player, whose stumpy swing is reminiscent of Bobby Locke, sank an 18-foot putt for a birdie on two, and a five-footer on five for another birdie to make the turn two-under. He bogeyed the 15th when he "feathered" a four-iron over the green.

Marty Furgol of Lemont, Ill., bunched with eight at 139 Friday, blew to a 176 today, including two penalty strokes when he hit the wrong ball on a second shot on 18.

Furgol hit the ball of Jim Ferree of Winston-Salem, N. C., which called for an automatic two-stroke penalty. Furgol stomped off the green, complaining bitterly about Ferree's caddy.

BIG LEAGUES' ROOKIE PILOTS

3 ARE 'ROOKIES'

Four New Managers Face Slim Hopes Of Pennants

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN

NEW YORK, April 13 (AP)—Four new managers—three of them major league rookies—start aiming Tuesday for baseball's most improbably 15-1 shot.

Each of the quartet will be shooting for a pennant in his first year with a club, a feat of managing skill engineered 20 times since 1901, the first year the American and National leagues operated as majors. During the 56-year-span, 307 managers have handled major league teams for the first time.

Of the new managers, Jack Tighe of the Detroit Tigers, Kerby Farrell of the Cleveland Indians and Al Lopez of the Chicago White Sox each will direct a club considered a contender to the world champion New York Yankees in the American League. Most experts believe the clubs' chances are slim, however.

But none of their chances are considered as slim as the Chicago Cubs, the 1956 National League tailenders. Bob Scheffing will make his debut as Chicago manager with only one direction before him—up.

No manager in major league history has ever taken a last place club and turned it into a pennant winner within a year. Connie Mack had the dubious distinction of watching his 1914 Philadelphia Athletics, American League champions, drop to last place in 1915.

But Scheffing, who says he "expects no miracles," has mused:

"Baseball is a funny game and you never know what it has in store for you . . . ."

Only Farrell of the four managers has managed to keep from talking pennant for print. But he has indicated frequently this spring his big worry was "only" the Yankees.

Lopez has said, "Watch out for the White Sox. We're not shooting for second. I think we can win it." The Sox were third last year.

Tighe says of his Tigers "we hope to be right on or close to the top in 1957." Detroit was fifth in 1956.

Lopez is the only new manager with previous major league experience. He led the Indians to a pennant and five second places in the past six years.

Hugh Jennings, an old Baltimore Oriole, was the first manager to win a pennant his first year with a club. Helped by Ty Cobb's first full .300 season, Jennings led the Tigers to first place in 1907. The club had been sixth in 1906. He also won pennants in 1908-09.

He was the first American League manager to win three straight pennants. Among his lesser achievements, Hugh (known for his ee-ya cry from the coaching lines) once dived confidently into a swimming pool he didn't know was empty.

Bucky Harris pulled the trick twice, in his first year as "Boy Wonder" of the Washington Senators in 1924 and with the Yankees in 1947.

Pat Moran took a sixth-place Philadelphia Phillies' team to a pennant in 1915, his first year with the club. He took over a third place Cincinnati Club in 1919 and won another National League flag. In the 1919 World Series, Moran's Redlegs toppled the Chicago White Sox, which Bill Gleason had guided to a pennant in his first season. The previous year, the Sox finished sixth. Out of the series erupted the Black Sox scandals.

Quiet Burt Shotton won the pennant with the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1947 when he was called suddenly to replace Leo Durocher who had been banished from baseball for a year by Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler.

Joe Cronin, now Boston Red Sox general manager, took Harris' lead when he became playing manager of the Senators in 1933 and won a pennant. The next year his Senators finished seventh. The young manager turned philosopher and said:

A manager's career is an unpredictable lot.

Marty Marion in his first season led a fifth place St. Louis Cardinal team to third in 1951. He was replaced by Eddie Stanky. Stanky brought Marion's third-place outfit right back to third place in 1952 and was named manager of the year.

The following season, he was managing Rochester in the minors. Seems he had lost the World Series in four games to the Yankees.

LATE-LATE SHOW

Majors See Gold In California TV

NEW YORK, April 13 (AP) — The er bosses who looked upon night baseball as the savior of dying grandmothers might yet be in for trouble.

The possible culprit: Walter O'Malley, a fellow executive in his capacity as president of the Brooklyn Dodgers of the National League.

His possible cronies: The television networks.

As the majors and minors took to the night air more and more during the past two decades, springtime absentee lists dwindled in factories and offices throughout most of the country.

Now here comes Mr. O'Malley with a threat to move the Dodgers to Los Angeles if the Brooklyn city fathers don't chip in and help build a new ballyard for his Dodgers.

So they won't play night ball in L. A.?

You bet they will, and therein lies the rub.

From the Rockies to Atlantic City, office boys who formerly pleaded for grandma and thousands of workers who caught the springtime sniffles might be showing up bleary - eyed many a working morning.

Here's the pitch, and it could be a fat one dollarwise, for the taking.

If the Dodgers trek to California, games would be starting around 8:30 p.m. on the coast—three hours later than in the TV-saturated east and two and one hours later, respectively, in the Rocky Mountain and central time zones.

Television networks could pick up the Dodger games on a nationwide basis and might knock the ratings of the late movies and variety shows. And most of all the telecast time wouldn't interfere with the established network shows with all - round family appeal. Of course, regional daylight saving time differentials and problems concerning repeating of kinescoped and taped shows in some areas would have to be considered, but these are not new hurdles for the networks.

That network baseball is a goldmine is unquestionable. CBS has been televising a "game-of-the-week" on Saturday afternoons for five years, and this season NBC is matching it head-on with a 26-week series of its own.

One flaw might be that viewers would tire of a steady diet of the Dodgers, but the feeling among baseball men is that if one club goes to the coast another would have to join it to make traveling practicable. Hence, even more than one network could cut the pie.

Incidentally, the opening of the baseball season this week will mean the start of a combined program of 833 - game telecasts, 23 more than in 1956. Advertisers are paying $31,800,000 for the rights. That's $5,600,000 higher than last year.

Texas League Due To Start Season Today

By UNITED PRESS

Defending champion Houston opens its bid for a third pennant in four years tomorrow against Shreveport, a consistent contender as the Texas League's annual flag race gets under way.

Buff manager Harry Walker has picked Ted Wieand, a fast-balling right-hander who won 16 last year to face Shreveport's Dave Newkirk, another rightie with a 12-7 mark last season.

General manager Art Routzong expects the gate may push the 10,000 mark for game time at 2:30 p.m. in Busch Stadium.

Elsewhere in the League, Fort Worth will open at Dallas, Tulsa at Oklahoma City, and Austin goes against San Antonio at San Antonio. The Fort Worth-Dallas game is set for 2:30 p.m., the others at 3 p.m.

Starting assignments include southpaw Memo Luna for San Antonio against righthander Bill Toshefl for Austin; Tommy Bowers, a rightie with 17-7 for Dallas against righthander Gene Fodge for Fort Worth, and Walt Kellner will start for Oklahoma City, Facing the righthander will be Tulsa's Dale Matthewson (10-4).

Walter Shannon, St. Louis Cardinals farm director, and Dick Butler Texas League president, will attend pre-game festivities in Houston.

Butler will present the Buffs with the Jakie Atz trophy, emblematic of the Texas League championship, and also will present the Dixie Series and league pennants.

Both will be raised on the Busch Stadium flagpole by a color guard.

Red Sox List Mel Parnell For Disabled

BOSTON, April 13 (UP)—Pitcher Mel Parnell, throwing at only half speed since an operation on his arm last January, will be placed on the disabled list next Wednesday, the Boston Red Sox announced today.

The 34-year-old slender veteran from New Orleans, La., last summer became the first Red Sox pitcher in 33 years to pitch a no-hit game when he blanked the Chicago White Sox.

The Red Sox said it would decide on Parnell's future after his name remains on the disabled list for at least 30 days. His new status will leave the Red Sox with maximum allowed.

Parnell's pitching arm was operated on last January after being bothered for the past few seasons with arm and shoulder troubles. He won 25 games in 1949 and 21 in 1953. But in 1954 and 1955 he won a total of only five games. He had a 6-7 record last season.

WEATHER HAZARD

Women's Tourney Delayed 2nd Day

By ED FITE

DALLAS, April 13 (UP) — The second round of the $7,500 Dallas Women's Open Golf Tournament became the victim of capricious Texas weather for the second straight day today.

Tournament officials called off the already delayed second round about noon when a light rain began falling in 36-degree temperature, then had reason to regret their decision when the rain stopped and the mercury started a slow climb.

Today's decision, however, did not touch off a rhubarb such as the one which greeted the sponsors yesterday when they canceled play with the entire field already past the turn and a few players in the clubhouse with their 18-hole scores on the board.

The revised tournament schedule now calls for a single, 18-hole round Sunday afternoon and the final 3 holes being crammed into Monday. And the weatherman has promised at least slightly improved conditions for both days.

Today's temperatures were even lower than Friday, but the bitter penetrating wind which numbed the golfers and the few hardy galleryites was missing.

When the twice-delayed tournament resumes tomorrow, a pair of the lesser lights among the lady pros will be in the lead.

Rookie Ruthie Jessen of Seattle, Wash., and Bonnie Randolph of Naples, Fla., fired two under-par-69s at the field in bright sunshine Thursday and got big breaks when Friday's play was called off.

Both were having difficulty in the frigid weather and their scores had soared well over par when the round was wiped out. Miss Jessen had skidded five strokes on the first nine holes and Miss Randolph was four over at the turn when play was canceled.

Only one stroke behind them were Wiffi Smith of St. Clair, Mich., and Louise Suggs of Sea Island, Ga.

Miss Suggs, incidentally, will not be able to complete the tournament because of a previous Monday commitment in Houston.

Marlene Bauer Hagge, who has been runnerup twice and victorious once in the last three tournaments on the tour was only two strokes back with even par 71.

Defending champion Patty Berg of St. Andrews, Ill., was among seven players bunched at 72. The others included Bev Handson of Indio, Calif., Joyce Ziske of Waterford, Wis., Fay Crocker of Montevideo, Uruguay; Kathy Cornelius of Dayton, O., and amateur Clifford Ann Creed of Opelousas, La.

Tough Battle Of Champions Set For Start

LAS VEGAS, Nev. April 13 (AP) — The $38,500 Tournament of Champions offers a lucrative week for professional golfers, but cracking the invitation list takes a bit of doing.

A golfer must win a 72-hole P. G. A. - sponsored open tournament during the year dating from this Las Vegas event and through the famed Masters in Georgia, which precedes the Nevada attraction.

Howard Capps, the efficient host professional at the Desert Inn Country Club and former P. G. A. tournament supervisor, is very firm on the term "open" for the qualifiers.

Winners of such main events as

Actually, 25 golfers qualified for or the Thunderbird Tournament at Palm Springs, Calif., just don't qualify. These are invitational tournaments.

So it is that 23 open tournament winners will gather in this land of slot machines, dice and roulette tables, sunshine and swimming pools for the fifth annual golf show Thursday through Sunday.

The winner collects $10,000 and every player is guaranteed at least $1,000, plus his room, meals and table space at any and all of the fancy resort hotel floor shows.

Actually, 25 golfers qulified for this one. But Sam Snead, who has had nothing but horrible luck in previous appearances, bowed out because of previous commitments and Jack Burke Jr. simply didn't send in his entry.

Those who did include Gene Littler, winner of the past two Vegas jackpots; Doug Ford, the 1957 Masters champion; and the pre-tournament favorite, Cary Middlecoff, U. S. Open champion.

Art Wall Jr. holds the T-of-C 72-hole record, a 10-under par 278 for his $10,000 victory in 1954. Oddly enough, the well liked young man from Pocono Manor, Pa., can thank the Ft. Wayne Open people for his 1954 and 1957 visits here.

Each year he won the Ft. Wayne fixture. This year, as unneeded "insurance," he also won the Pensacola Open.

Others in the field are Jimmy Demaret, Mike Souchak, Ed Furgol, Bo Wininger, Jay Hebert, Pete Thomson, Pete Cooper, Arnold Palmer, Doug Sanders, Dow Finsterwald, Mike Fetchick, Don January, Dick Mayer, Billy Casper, Dutch Harrison, Fred Hawkins, Bob Rosenburg, Billy Maxwell and Ted Kroll.

This year the windup of the final two rounds will be televised by the National Broadcasting Co.

Monroe Bowlers Steal Show

Little Dee Fleming, who bowls for Ballards in the Tuesday night ladies league, is the new state all-events champion. Dee, winning the big prize, came in with a 1929 total.

Two more Monroe bowlers copped the doubles event. Betty Hart, bowling for V. W. Tidwell, and Minnie Thompson, who does her bowling for Louisiana Well Company, won this big affair. The hardhitting pair turned in a score of 1309.

League Lead Changes

Continental Labs moved into first place in the Major League behind the fine bowling of Larry Dage. Longview Equipment, which has led the league most of the season, slipped to second a point and a half out of first.

In the Pioneer League, the Monroe Bowling Center took over the top spot by two points over Schlitz Beer. Henderson Curb Market, former leaders, have dropped into third place.

In the Kegler League, Clover Leaf holds a bare point lead over the fast rising Monroe "66" Oilers who are defending champs.

Bowling Chatter

Erma Peddy, who tossed the highest game in ladies play last week, did it again. A 206 was the score on this one.

B. B. Stron joined the "200" club by throwing a 204 game, as she led her club to a four-point win Tuesday night.

Rosie Joiner couldn't get the breaks for a 200 game, but she did put together three good games to win high series in the Ladies League.

Tom Medlin, who does his bowling for the News-Star team, had two games of 110 and was trying to get a triplet award, but he got "hot" and bowled his highest game ever—a big 206.

Sonny Durham continued his own private war against the pins. This week it was a mighty 651 series. Schlitz was hoping he'd get called away by the phone. Sonny's bowling knocked them out of first place.

Theo Finkbeiner about has the high average in both the Major's and Kegler's leagues wrapped up for this season. "T" at the present is holding a 187 average in the Major League and his 188 is high in the Kegler.

Bob Creighton, who bowled a 603 series this past week, holds down second place in average in the two leagues.

BPAA Tourney

The toughest bowlers in the nation began shooting this weekend in the Bowling Proprietors of America (BPAA) Men's Doubles Championship tournament at Houston, Tex.

Another awesome twosome is Bill Lillard and Stan Gifford and here's a few of the other entries:

Andy and Frank Varipapa, Junie McMahon and Tony Sparando, Steve Nagy and Ed Lubanski, Buddy Bomar and Carl Richards, Joe Wilman and Joe Norris, and Dick Hoover and Jim Petrou.

Additionally, Don Carter and eight other BPAA ex-champions will participate. Carter's partner will be teammate Tom Hennessey. Whitey Harris will shoot with Pat Patterson.

The prize fund is $10,000 and 24 games and total pinfall will determine the winner.

Makes History Here

Al Clemme, who bowls for CSC Dixol in the Industrial Equipment League, made bowling history here the past week — in a longshot throw. Clemme made good on a 7-10 split—to become the first Monroe bowler to turn in such a feat.

Clemme's ball hit the seven pin. It then bounced off the backboard into the 10, knocking it down.

Congratulations for a great feat.

Teams Go To Fort Worth

Jefferson Reserve Life Insurance and H. J. Jeffries Truck Line bowling (Booster) teams will try their skill at pin-knocking in the ABC tourney in Fort Worth April 19-20.

Captains Bob Scott and T. J. Canizaro feel sure their respective clubs will place "in the money."

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

The Silver Cup Championships, an event for outboard motorboat enthusiasts, was organized a year ago for an inaugural run on the Ouachita river here, meeting with immediate success, but the sceond annual races next June 30 already promise to be bigger and better—as good as any of the district championship races and possibly overshadowed only by the National Championships.

We wondered for a time how it could be possible for the young Silver Cup event to begin claiming such distinction, but all you have to do is listen to Howard Griffin for a few minutes to be convinced.

If anybody in this section of the country knows the motorboating fraternity it is Howard, quite a racer himself who finished high in the Greenville-to-Vicksburg race on the Mississippi river last summer. Griffin has made all the big races, knows the requirements for good shows, is acquainted with all the leading speedboaters, and has secured recognition of the National Outboard Association in listing the Monroe race as a district meet in which winners will qualify for the National.

It was thus almost mandatory that Griffin be included on Chairman J. H. "Slim" Scogins' sports committee of the Chamber of Commerce, race sponsor with cooperating Twin Cities business houses.

As Griffin explained at a committee meeting the past week, the fact that the Silver Cup is now officially recognized as a district qualifying event, all the racers throughout this section of the country can be counted on to compete here. "The district races qualify for the National, and racers can clinch places in the big championship races by winning in the district events," he said. Racers would much rather win their place in the National at the district events than run the risk of failing to qualify in pre-National trials for those who have not automatically qualified at the districts."

The Silver Cup sponsors are very elated over the outlook of this year's races. Improved facilities will accomodate more racers and much is being done to make more conveniences for visiting contenders and the spectators. The only burr under the saddle at the moment is the river itself. Rains have the river at a high stage and predictions are that it will climb more. There's still two months for the water to recede, but it's not impossible for the level to still be high in June, say enough to keep the river bank improvements (currently submerged) unusable. But this is looking at the dark side. A lot of water can go under the bridges in two months, and the Ouachita can be serene in within its summer banks by June 30 just waiting to be churned by racing motors.

GREENSBORO, N.C., April 13 (UP)—Masters Champ Doug Ford of Mahopac, N.Y., curled in a 12-foot eagle putt on the 18th green today to tie half - way leader Julius Boros of Mid-Pines, N.C., at the three-quarter mark of the $15,000 Greater Greensboro Golf Open.

Ford laced par by three strokes for a 67 to catch the Big Moose, who banged a four - iron out of bounds over the 11th green, costing him his five-shot lead going into today's play. Each had 206, four under par.

Stan Leonard of Lachute, Quebec, and youngster Gary Player of Johannesburg, South Africa, both broke par to tie for third at 207. Leonard had a 67 and Player fired a 68.

Barrel-shaped Mike Souchak of Grossinger's N.Y., broke par for the first time today with a 69 in a 209 total. Trevor Wilkes, Bobby Locke's protege from Johannesburg slipped to a two-over 72 today for a 211.

Ford birdied the third hole when he hit a six-iron 10 feet from the pin for a deuce, and he parred the rest of the way out to make the turn in 34, one under regulation over drawn-out Sedgefield Resort country club.

The winter circuit's leading money winner shot regulation par all the way coming home except on the 18th, when he smashed a three-iron 12 feet from the pin on the long par five.

Boros went over on the fourth hole, but he picked up birdie threes on the eighth and ninth to make the curve one-under. He parred the 10th and then came the fatal four iron on the 11th. The Big Moose hit the ball out of a heavy grass lie, and it hit the green, only to pop over into a ditch out of bounds.

Visibly shaken by the two-stroke penalty, Boros missed a six footer for a par on 14, but birdied 15 with an eight-footer, only to bogey the 16th when he knocked his tee shot over the green. He birdied the 18th for a 71 and a tie with Ford.

Leonard made the turn two under, picking up birdies on five and six. He birdied the 10th, bogeyed the 11th, then added another birdie on 18 for a 67.

Player, whose stumpy swing is reminiscent of Bobby Locke, sank an 18-foot putt for a birdie on two, and a five-footer on five for another birdie to make the turn two-under. He bogeyed the 15th when he "feathered" a four-iron over the green.

Marty Furgol of Lemont, Ill., bunched with eight at 139 Friday, blew to a 176 today, including two penalty strokes when he hit the wrong ball on a second shot on 18.

Furgol hit the ball of Jim Ferree of Winston-Salem, N. C., which called for an automatic two-stroke penalty. Furgol stomped off the green, complaining bitterly about Ferree's caddy.

Texas League Due To Start Season Today

By UNITED PRESS

Defending champion Houston opens its bid for a third pennant in four years tomorrow against Shreveport, a consistent contender as the Texas League's annual flag race gets under way.

Buff manager Harry Walker has picked Ted Wieand, a fast-balling right-hander who won 16 last year to face Shreveport's Dave Newkirk, another rightie with a 12-7 mark last season.

General manager Art Routzong expects the gate may push the 10,000 mark for game time at 2:30 p.m. in Busch Stadium.

Elsewhere in the League, Fort Worth will open at Dallas, Tulsa at Oklahoma City, and Austin goes against San Antonio at San Antonio. The Fort Worth-Dallas game is set for 2:30 p.m., the others at 3 p.m.

Starting assignments include southpaw Memo Luna for San Antonio against righthander Bill Tosheff for Austin; Tommy Bowers, a rightie with 17-7 for Dallas against righthander Gene Fodge for Fort Worth, and Walt Kellner will start for Oklahoma City, Facing the righthander will be Tulsa's Dale Matthewson (10-4).

Walter Shannon, St. Louis Cardinals farm director, and Dick Butler Texas League president, will attend pre-game festivities in Houston.

Butler will present the Buffs with the Jakie Atz trophy, emblematic of the Texas League championship, and also will present the Dixie Series and league pennants.

Both will be raised on the Busch Stadium flagpole by a color guard.

Red Sox List Mel Parnell For Disabled

BOSTON, April 13 (UP)—Pitcher Mel Parnell, throwing at only half speed since an operation on his arm last January, will be placed on the disabled list next Wednesday, the Boston Red Sox announced today.

The 34-year-old slender veteran from New Orleans, La., last summer became the first Red Sox pitcher in 33 years to pitch a no-hit game when he blanked the Chicago White Sox.

The Red Sox said it would decide on Parnell's future after his name remains on the disabled list for at least 30 days. His new status will leave the Red Sox with maximum allowed.

Parnell's pitching arm was operated on last January after being bothered for the past few seasons with arm and shoulder troubles. He won 25 games in 1949 and 21 in 1953. But in 1954 and 1955 he won a total of only five games. He had a 6-7 record last season.

3 ARE 'ROOKIES'

Four New Managers Face Slim Hopes Of Pennants

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN

NEW YORK, April 13 (AP)—Four new managers—three of them major league rookies—start aiming Tuesday for baseball's most improbably 15-1 shot.

Each of the quartet will be shooting for a pennant in his first year with a club, a feat of managing skill engineered 20 times since 1901, the first year the American and National leagues operated as majors. During the 56-year-span, 307 managers have handled major league teams for the first time.

Of the new managers, Jack Tighe of the Detroit Tigers, Kerby Farrell of the Cleveland Indians and Al Lopez of the Chicago White Sox each will direct a club considered a contender to the world champion New York Yankees in the American League. Most experts believe the clubs' chances are slim, however.

But none of their chances are considered as slim as the Chicago Cubs, the 1956 National League tailenders. Bob Scheffing will make his debut as Chicago manager with only one direction before him—up.

No manager in major league history has ever taken a last place club and turned it into a pennant winner within a year. Connie Mack had the dubious distinction of watching his 1914 Philadelphia Athletics, American League champions, drop to last place in 1915.

But Scheffing, who says he "expects no miracles," has mused:

"Baseball is a funny game and you never know what it has in store for you ..... "

Only Farrell of the four managers has managed to keep from talking pennant for print. But he has indicated frequently this spring his big worry was "only" the Yankees.

Lopez has said, "Watch out for the White Sox. We're not shooting for second ... I think we can win it" The Sox were third last year.

Tighe says of his Tigers "we hope to be right on or close to the top in 1957." Detroit was fifth in 1956.

Lopez is the only new manager with previous major league experience. He led the Indians to a pennant and five second places in the past six years.

Hugh Jennings, an old Baltimore Oriole, was the first manager to win a pennant his first year with a club. Helped by Ty Cobb's first full .300 season, Jennings led the Tigers to first place in 1907. The club had been sixth in 1906. He also won pennants in 1908-09.

He was the first American League manager to win three straight pennants. Among his lesser achievements, Hugh (known for his ee-ya cry from the coaching lines) once dived confidently into a swimming pool he didn't know was empty.

Bucky Harris pulled the trick twice, in his first year as "Boy Wonder" of the Washington Senators in 1924 and with the Yankees in 1947.

Pat Moran took a sixth-place Philadelphia Phillies' team to a pennant in 1915, his first year with the club. He took over a third place Cincinnati Club in 1919 and won another National League flag. In the 1919 World Series, Moran's Redlegs toppled the Chicago White Sox, which Bill Gleason had guided to a pennant in his first season. The previous year, the Sox finished sixth. Out of the series erupted the Black Sox scandals.

Quiet Burt Shotton won the pennant with the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1947 when he was called suddenly to replace Leo Durocher who had been banished from baseball for a year by Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler.

Joe Cronin, now Boston Red Sox general manager, took Harris' lead when he became playing manager of the Senators in 1933 and won a pennant. The next year his Senators finished seventh. The young manager turned philosopher and said:

A manager's career is an unpredictable lot.

Marty Marion in his first season led a fifth place St. Louis Cardinal team to third in 1951. He was replaced by Eddie Stanky. Stanky brought Marion's third-place outfit right back to third place in 1952 and was named manager of the year.

The following season, he was managing Rochester in the minors. Seems he had lost the World Series in four games to the Yankees.

WEATHER HAZARD

By ED FITE

DALLAS, April 13 (UP) — The second round of the $7,500 Dallas Women's Open Golf Tournament became the victim of capricious Texas weather for the second straight day today.

Tournament officials called off the already delayed second round about noon when a light rain began falling in 36-degree temperature, then had reason to regret their decision when the rain stopped and the mercury started a slow climb.

Today's decision, however, did not touch off a rhubarb such as the one which greeted the sponsors yesterday when they canceled play with the entire field already past the turn and a few players in the clubhouse with their 18-hole scores on the board.

The revised tournament schedule now calls for a single, 18-hole round Sunday afternoon and the final 3 holes being crammed into Monday. And the weatherman has promised at least slightly improved conditions for both days.

Today's temperatures were even lower than Friday, but the bitter penetrating wind which numbed the golfers and the few hardy galleryites was missing.

When the twice-delayed tournament resumes tomorrow, a pair of the lesser lights among the lady pros will be in the lead.

Rookie Ruthie Jessen of Seattle, Wash., and Bonnie Randolph of Naples, Fla., fired two under-par-69s at the field in bright sunshine Thursday and got big breaks when Friday's play was called off.

Both were having difficulty in the frigid weather and their scores had soared well over par when the round was wiped out. Miss Jessen had skidded five strokes on the first nine holes and Miss Randolph was four over at the turn when play was canceled.

Miss Suggs, incidentally, will not be able to complete the tournament because of a previous Monday commitment in Houston.

Marlene Bauer Hagge, who has been runnerup twice and victorious once in the last three tournaments on the tour was only two strokes back with even par 71.

Defending champion Patty Berg of St. Andrews, Ill., was among seven players bunched at 72. The others included Bev Handson of Indio, Calif., Joyce Ziske of Waterford, Wis., Fay Crocker of Montevideo, Uruguay; Kathy Cornelius of Dayton, O., and amateur Clifford Ann Creed of Opelousas, La.

Tough Battle Of Champions Set For Start

LAS VEGAS, Nev. April 13 (AP) — The $38,500 Tournament of Champions offers a lucrative week for professional golfers, but cracking the invitation list takes a bit of doing.

A golfer must win a 72-hole P. G. A. - sponsored open tournament during the year dating from this Las Vegas event and through the famed Masters in Georgia, which precedes the Nevada attraction.

Howard Capps, the efficient host professional at the Desert Inn Country Club and former P. G. A. tournament supervisor, is very firm on the term "open" for the qualifiers.

Winners of such main events as Actually, 25 golfers qualified for or the Thunderbird Tournament at Palm Springs, Calif., just don't qualify. These are invitational tournaments.

So it is that 23 open tournament winners will gather in this land of slot machines, dice and roulette tables, sunshine and swimming pools for the fifth annual golf show Thursday through Sunday.

The winner collects $10,000 and every player is guaranteed at least $1,000, plus his room, meals and table space at any and all of the fancy resort hotel floor shows.

Actually, 25 golfers qulified for this one. But Sam Snead, who has had nothing but horrible luck in previous appearances, bowed out because of previous commitments and Jack Burke Jr. simply didn't send in his entry.

Those who did include Gene Littler, winner of the past two Vegas jackpots; Doug Ford, the 1957 Masters champion; and the pre-tournament favorite, Cary Middlecoff, U. S. Open champion.

Art Wall Jr. holds the T-of-C 72-hole record, a 10-under par 278 for his $10,000 victory in 1954. Oddly enough, the well liked young man from Pocono Manor, Pa., can thank the Ft. Wayne Open people for his 1954 and 1957 visits here.

Each year he won the Ft. Wayne fixture. This year, as unneeded "insurance," he also won the Pensacola Open.

Others in the field are Jimmy Demaret, Mike Souchak, Ed Furgol, Bo Wininger, Jay Hebert, Pete Thomson, Pete Cooper, Arnold Palmer, Doug Sanders, Dow Finsterwald, Mike Fetchick, Don January, Dick Mayer, Billy Casper, Dutch Harrison, Fred Hawkins, Bob Rosenburg, Billy Maxwell and Ted Kroll.

This year the windup of the final two rounds will be televised by the National Broadcasting Co.

BOWLING

Monroe Bowlers Steal Show

Little Dee Fleming, who bowls for Ballards in the Tuesday night ladies league, is the new state all-events champion. Dee, winning the big prize, came in with a 1929 total.

Two more Monroe bowlers copped the doubles event. Betty Hart, bowling for V. W. Tidwell, and Minnie Thompson, who does her bowling for Louisiana Well Company, won this big affair. The hardhitting pair turned in a score of 1309.

Another local bowler, Captain Vera Painich of the Montgomery Insurance team, won the scratch singles—almost bowling a 600 series.

In the team event out-of-towners, Melancon Plumbing of Houma, knocked down the championship with a 3107 total, although the Beacon House of Monroe grabbed third place.

League Lead Changes

Continental Labs moved into first place in the Major League behind the fine bowling of Larry Dage. Longview Equipment, which has led the league most of the season, slipped to second a point and a half out of first.

In the Pioneer League, the Monroe Bowling Center took over the top spot by two points over Schlitz Beer. Henderson Curb Market, former leaders, have dropped into third place.

In the Kegler League, Clover Leaf holds a bare point lead over the fast rising Monroe "66" Oilers who are defending champs.

Bowling Chatter

Erma Peddy, who tossed the highest game in ladies play last week, did it again. A 206 was the score on this one.

B. B. Stron joined the "200" club by throwing a 204 game, as she led her club to a four-point win Tuesday night.

Rosie Joiner couldn't get the breaks for a 200 game, but she did put together three good games to win high series in the Ladies League.

Tom Medlin, who does his bowling for the News-Star team, had two games of 110 and was trying to get a triplet award, but he got "hot" and bowled his highest game ever—a big 206.

Sonny Durham continued his own private war against the pins. This week it was a mighty 651 series. Schlitz was hoping he'd get called away by the phone. Sonny's bowling knocked them out of first place.

Theo Finkbeiner about has the high average in both the Major's and Kegler's leagues wrapped up for this season. "T" at the present is holding a 187 average in the Major League and his 188 is high in the Kegler.

Bob Creighton, who bowled a 603 series this past week, holds down second place in average in the two leagues.

BPAA Tourney

The toughest bowlers in the nation began shooting this weekend in the Bowling Proprietors of America (BPAA) Men's Doubles Championship tournament at Houston, Tex.

One of the strongest doubles teams entered is that of Ray Bluth and Dick Weber, defending champions from St. Louis, who won last year's crown with a 24-game total of 10,043.

Another awesome twosome is Bill Lillard and Stan Gifford and here's a few of the other entries:

Andy and Frank Varipapa, Junie McMahon and Tony Sparando, Steve Nagy and Ed Lubanski, Buddy Bomar and Carl Richards, Joe Wilman and Joe Norris, and Dick Hoover and Jim Petrou.

Additionally, Don Carter and eight other BPAA ex-champions will participate. Carter's partner will be teammate Tom Hennessey. Whitey Harris will shoot with Pat Patterson.

The prize fund is $10,000 and 24 games and total pinfall will determine the winner.

Makes History Here

Al Clemme, who bowls for CSC Dixol in the Industrial Equipment League, made bowling history here the past week — in a longshot throw. Clemme made good on a 7-10 split—to become the first Monroe bowler to turn in such a feat.

Clemme's ball hit the seven pin. It then bounced off the backboard into the 10, knocking it down.

Congratulations for a great feat.

Teams Go To Fort Worth

Jefferson Reserve Life Insurance and H. J. Jeffries Truck Line bowling (Booster) teams will try their skill at pin-knocking in the ABC tourney in Fort Worth April 19-20.

Captains Bob Scott and T. J. Canizaro feel sure their respective clubs will place "in the money."

Wheels Turn For Sports Legislation

Keating Bill Has 'Sleeper' For Players

By ERNEST BARCELLA

WASHINGTON, April 13 (UP)—Legislation guaranteeing professional baseball, football, hockey and basketball players the right to form player unions and bargain collectively will be introduced in Congress Monday.

This is the "sleeper" provision of a "square deal for sports act" drafted Rep. Kenneth B. Keating of New York, ranking Republican on the House Judiciary Committee.

The measure would put "purely business aspects" of the four sports under the anti-trust laws but exempt aspects directly concerned with sports.

The "purely business" aspects would include such items as radio and television contracts and operation of concessions. Exempted sports aspects would be (1) playing rules of the game; (2) organization of leagues and associations; (3) league and club franchises, and (4) "employment of players." This means, for example, that baseball's controversial reserve clause would remain undisturbed.

A spokesman for Keating, who is out of the country, said one effect of the measure—if enacted—would be to nullify the Feb. 25 Supreme Court decision which specifically brought pro football under the anti-trust laws but continued baseball's exemption.

Keating's bill is a direct outgrowth of that decision and the furor resulting from a statement made in a United Press inverview recently by C. Leo Deorsey of the Washington Baseball Club's board of directors that "baseball is a business—and a big business." Deorsey criticized the football ruling, saying football and baseball should be treated alike.

"There is no question that our major professional team sports are business—and big business," Keating said in a statement. "The important point, and one that is often missed, is that they are unique businesses with unique practices, which should not be subject to the same laws as ordinary commercial enterprises."

As to the player union and collective bargaining provision, Keating said:

"The players guilds and other means by which the performers organize for their own benefit should be allowed to continue or to be started. My bill recognizes that especially when a man's sole livelihood may depend on his ability to participate in sports, he should be entitled to bargain in his own behalf or collectively with others."

After the measure is introduced it will be referred to the anti-trust subcommittee of the House Judiciary Committee. Chairman Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.) of the Judiciary Committee, and Rep. Patrick J. Hillings (R-Calif.), a committee member, already have introduced bills to place all professional sports under the anti-trust laws. Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark.) has introduced a bill to exempt all sports from the anti-trust laws.

GOLF HERE MAY 5

Muny Points For Amateur

The seventh annual Municipal Amateur Golf Championship is scheduled for May 5 over the Municipal Golf Club's course, and Hugh A. Britt, club pro, last night announced entries are now being accepted with qualifying play scheduled to begin Wednesday, April 24, and close Saturday, May 4.

The tournament is open to all area golfers with Paul "Goat" Jones of Bastrop coming back to defend the title he won last year in dethroning defender Clyde Nash, Monroe, in the second round and going on to squeeze past Al Gallagher, Monroe, in the finals, 3 and 2.

Pro Britt said contenders will be permitted to qualify during the April 24-May 4 period on their home courses and submit the qualifying score along with the $8.50 entry fee.

Municipal course will be open free for practice to all contenders as soon as all entry requirements are met.

Should bad weather prevent play as scheduled for the one-day event, Pro Britt said the tournament will be delayed one week until May 12.

Britt said invitations have been sent to golfers of the area inviting them "to enjoy a day of golf on the prettiest little course in Louisiana."

The tournament will be conducted in flights for all entries, and Britt invites any linksmen of the area desiring meet particulars to contact him or club officials.

Leone, Tarzan Bolo Try Again Monday

Antone (I'm quitting while I'm ahead) Leone and Tarzan Bolo, the Canadian muscleboy, return to Kallio's Wrestling Arena Monday night for a 90-minute time limit duel that promises to draw one of the largest crowds ever to attend a grunt-and-groan setto here.

The pair met last Monday with Bolo making his debut and Leone being brought into the ring like a stubborn donkey and flatly refusing to return after winning the first fall. Timekeeper Robert Purcell was about ready for a new bell before the night was over because of Leone's "tardiness."

Even after the lazy villain climbed through the ropes he found something to hold up combat. Arguing that he had signed with Promoter Gus Kallio for only a 60-minute match he succeeded in getting the affair, which was originally scheduled for 90 minutes, shortened.

After several more minutes of delay the two finally got around to giving the customers a little action for their money. But as the grunting and hair-pulling progressed neither of the gladiators was able to take a fall and it soon became very evident that everyone, including the two canvass-slappers, was getting sleepy.

Then with only 14 minutes remaining in the match Bolo thought he had the hesitant bad-boy about ready for the count. And when Referee Loy Scarborough told him that the rulebook didn't permit such carryings-on the overgrown Canadian said he didn't appreciate Scarborough's brand of officiating and just to prove it he'd toss the ref out of the ring. Well, Scarborough said he didn't appreciate that and to prove it he'd give the fall to Leone. And he did. And Tarzan was mad. And the fans said they wished Scauborough wouldn't officiate again.

When Leone finally awoke every one was mad at him. So he scampered off to his dressing room and refused to return, saying that his feelings had been hurt.

Well, Tarzan looked rather silly with no one to wrestle so he said he believed he'd wait until this week and come back for a rematch, promising the fans he'd give "Ole Leone" a solid licking.

The affair will occupy one-half of a double main event with a tag team match resting on the other end. Jack Curtis and his son, Junior, are slated to use their talents against the combination of the Golden Terror and Bob Ship of Atlanta, Ga.

Mister Jive Cops Gotham, Pays $18.90

NEW YORK, April 13 (AP)—Mister Jive, the rock 'n' roll colt from Canada, poured it on in the stretch today to win the $30,450 Gotham Stakes at Jamaica and earn himself a ticket to Louisville for the Kentucky Derby.

Owned by John L. Appelbaum, Toronto mining man, Mister Jive hit the finish of the mile and one sixteenth two lengths ahead of Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Promised Land. This reversed the finish of the 74-furlong Governor's Gold Cup at Bowie, Md., March 23 when Promised Land defeated Mister Jive by a length.

Mrs. Adele L. Rand's Clem finished third this afternoon, 2¼ lengths behind Promised Land, but a neck ahead of Joe W. Brown's Tenacious.

A dozen 3-year-olds started in the Gotham and eight of them have been nominated for the $125,000 - added Derby at Churchill Downs three weeks from today.

The two Gotham favorites, the Bohemia stable's Ambehaving and Leo Edwards and Harry B. Massey's King Hairan, wound up sixth and 10th, respectively. The crowd of 41,584, watching the struggle in clear but cool weather, had sent Ambehaving off as the 8-5 choice on the board. King Hairan was 3 to 1.

Mister Jive, a boy son of Mr. Music - Joy Forever, with Hedley Woodhouse aboard carried 118 pounds and paid $18.90, $8.50 and $6.20. Promised Land, ridden by Harold Keene, had 122 pounds and was coupled with a stablemate, Lord Chumley, who ran 12th and last all the way around. Promised Land paid $7.90 and $5.50 while Clem, with 122 pounds and Eric Guerin up, returned $6 to show.

Bandit Takes Phoenix Run At Lexington

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 13 (AP)—Bandit, Claiborne farm's Kentucky Derby nominee, turned in the second fastest six furlongs ever raced at Keeneland today in whipping older horses in the Phoenix Handicap.

Bandit, only 3-year-old in the field, held off a strong stretch challenge by Sea O Erin to win by three quarters of a length in 1:09 3-5, just two fifth off the track mark set by Swoon's Son last October.

Hasty House farm's Sea O Erin, seeking his third straight win in the Phoenix, finished a head in front of Bernburgoo in the six-horse field.

Bandit's win was even more impressive considering it was his first start since last July and he carried an extra five pounds when jockey Steve Brooks couldn't make the assigned weight of 107 pounds. Setting all the pace, his fractions were 22 and 44 3-5.

Bandit paid $12.20, $6 and $4.20. Sea O Erin returned $4.60 and $3.40 and Bernburgoo $4.20.

Another Blue Grass Stakes and Derby eligible, Calumet farm's Whig, won a $3,500 allowance race, carrying jockey Willie Harlack the six furlongs in 1:10 2-5.

Tulane Noses Out Louisiana State, 8 To 6

NEW ORLEANS, April 13 (AP)—Tulane's two unearned runs in the fifth inning broke a 5-5 tie and led to an 8-6 victory over Louisiana State today.

The victory moved Tulane's Southeastern Conference record to 5-1 and dropped LSU's to 2-4.

A second game in the series, set for next Monday, was postponed indefinitely because LSU will not be able to play then.

Four Fathoms Leads Way On Laurel's Oval

LAUREL, Md., April 13—Four Fathoms, an English-bred colt owned by Howell E. Jackson, nosed out Mrs. John T. Maloney's Soft Day in the $11,400 Chesapeake Trial for 3-year-olds today before 20,252.

Jockey Nick Shuk on the runner - up complained that Four Fathoms had interferred with him on the turn into the stretch. But the stewards couldn't see it in the movies and the first start of the year for Four Fathoms remained a victory at $10 for $2.

Carolyn K stables Pro-Brandy was three lengths behind the first two in the field of eight. Pro-Brandy and Soft Day carried 124 pounds, 12 more than the winner.

Pro-Brandy was the only member of the field eligible for the three classics, Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont. Four Fathoms is likely to race in the Preakness.

Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords' Bakht was the favorite, but was blocked out most of the way and finished last.

Four Fathoms returned $4.60 for second and $3.40 for a third place ticket. Soft Day's mutuel payoffs were $5.20 and $4.20 and Pro-Brandy's $4.20.

Wheels Turn For Sports Legislation

Keating Bill Has 'Sleeper' For Players

By ERNEST BARCELLA

WASHINGTON, April 13 (UP)—Legislation guaranteeing professional baseball, football, hockey and basketball players the right to form player unions and bargain collectively will be introduced in Congress Monday.

This is the "sleeper" provision of a "square deal for sports act" drafted Rep. Kenneth B. Keating of New York, ranking Republican on the House Judiciary Committee.

The measure would put "purely business aspects" of the four sports under the anti-trust laws but exempt aspects directly concerned with sports.

The "purely business" aspects would include such items as radio and television contracts and operation of concessions. Exempted sports aspects would be (1) playing rules of the game; (2) organization of leagues and associations; (3) league and club franchises, and (4) "employment of players." This means, for example, that baseball's controversial reserve clause would remain undisturbed.

A spokesman for Keating, who is out of the country, said one effect of the measure—if enacted—would be to nullify the Feb. 25 Supreme Court decision which specifically brought pro football under the anti-trust laws but continued baseball's exemption.

Keating's bill is a direct outgrowth of that decision and the furor resulting from a statement made in a United Press inverview recently by C. Leo Deorsey of the Washington Baseball Club's board of directors that "baseball is a business—and a big business." Deorsey criticized the football ruling, saying football and baseball should be treated alike.

"There is no question that our major professional team sports are business—and big business," Keating said in a statement. "The important point, and one that is often missed, is that they are unique businesses with unique practices, which should not be subject to the same laws as ordinary commercial enterprises."

As to the player union and collective bargaining provision, Keating said:

"The players guilds and other means by which the performers organize for their own benefit should be allowed to continue or to be started. My bill recognizes that especially when a man's sole livelihood may depend on his ability to participate in sports, he should be entitled to bargain in his own behalf or collectively with others."

After the measure is introduced it will be referred to the anti-trust subcommittee of the House Judiciary Committee. Chairman Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.) of the Judiciary Committee, and Rep. Patrick J. Hillings (R-Calif.), a committee member, already have introduced bills to place all professional sports under the anti-trust laws. Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark.) has introduced a bill to exempt all sports from the anti-trust laws.

GOLF HERE MAY 5

Muny Points For Amateur

The seventh annual Municipal Amateur Golf Championship is scheduled for May 5 over the Municipal Golf Club's course, and Hugh A. Britt, club pro, last night announced entries are now being accepted with qualifying play scheduled to begin Wednesday, April 24, and close Saturday, May 4.

The tournament is open to all area golfers with Paul "Goat" Jones of Bastrop coming back to defend the title he won last year in dethroning defender Clyde Nash, Monroe, in the second round and going on to squeeze past Al Gallagher, Monroe, in the finals, 3 and 2.

Pro Britt said contenders will be permitted to qualify during the April 24-May 4 period on their home courses and submit the qualifying score along with the $8.50 entry fee.

Municipal course will be open free for practice to all contenders as soon as all entry requirements are met.

Should bad weather prevent play as scheduled for the one-day event, Pro Britt said the tournament will be delayed one week until May 12.

Britt said invitations have been sent to golfers of the area inviting them "to enjoy a day of golf on the prettiest little course in Louisiana."

The tournament will be conducted in flights for all entries, and Britt invites any linksmen of the area desiring meet particulars to contact him or club officials.

Leone, Tarzan Bolo Try Again Monday

Antone (I'm quitting while I'm ahead) Leone and Tarzan Bolo, the Canadian muscleboy, return to Kallio's Wrestling Arena Monday night for a 90-minute time limit duel that promises to draw one of the largest crowds ever to attend a grunt-and-groan setto here.

The pair met last Monday with Bolo making his debut and Leone being brought into the ring like a stubborn donkey and flatly refusing to return after winning the first fall. Timekeeper Robert Purcell was about ready for a new bell before the night was over because of Leone's "tardiness."

Even after the lazy villain climbed through the ropes he found something to hold up combat. Arguing that he had signed with Promoter Gus Kallio for only a 60-minute match he succeeded in getting the affair, which was originally scheduled for 90 minutes, shortened.

After several more minutes of delay the two finally got around to giving the customers a little action for their money. But as the grunting and hair-pulling progressed neither of the gladiators was able to take a fall and it soon became very evident that everyone, including the two canvass-slappers, was getting sleepy.

Then with only 14 minutes remaining in the match Bolo thought he had the hesitant badboy about ready for the count. And when Referee Loy Scarborough told him that the rulebook didn't permit such carryings-on the overgrown Canadian said he didn't appreciate Scarborough's brand of officiating and just to prove it he'd toss the ref out of the ring. Well, Scarborough said he didn't appreciate that and to prove it he'd give the fall to Leone. And he did. And Tarzan was mad. And the fans said they wished Scauborough wouldn't officiate again.

When Leone finally awoke every one was mad at him. So he scampered off to his dressing room and refused to return, saying that his feelings had been hurt.

Well, Tarzan looked rather silly with no one to wrestle so he said he believed he'd wait until this week and come back for a rematch, promising the fans he'd give "Ole Leone" a solid licking.

The affair will occupy one-half of a double main event with a tag team match resting on the other end. Jack Curtis and his son, Junior, are slated to use their talents against the combination of the Golden Terror and Bob Ship of Atlanta, Ga.

Mister Jive Cops Gotham, Pays $18.90

NEW YORK, April 13 (AP)—Mister Jive, the rock 'n' roll colt from Canada, poured it on in the stretch today to win the $30,450 Gotham Stakes at Jamaica and earn himself a ticket to Louisville for the Kentucky Derby.

Mrs. Adele L. Rand's Clem finished third this afternoon, 2¼ lengths behind Promised Land, but a neck ahead of Joe W. Brown's Tenacious.

A dozen 3-year-olds started in the Gotham and eight of them have been nominated for the $125,000 - added Derby at Churchill Downs three weeks from today.

The two Gotham favorites, the Bohemia stable's Ambehaving and Leo Edwards and Harry B. Massey's King Hairan, wound up sixth and 10th, respectively. The crowd of 41,584, watching the struggle in clear but cool weather, had sent Ambehaving off as the 8-5 choice on the board. King Hairan was 3 to 1.

Mister Jive, a boy son of Mr. Music - Joy Forever, with Hedley Woodhouse aboard carried 118 pounds and paid $18.90, $8.50 and $6.20. Promised Land, ridden by Harold Keene, had 122 pounds and was coupled with a stablemate, Lord Chumley, who ran 12th and last all the way around. Promised Land paid $7.90 and $5.50 while Clem, with 122 pounds and Eric Guerin up, returned $6 to show.

Bandit Takes Phoenix Run At Lexington

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 13 (AP)—Bandit, Claiborne farm's Kentucky Derby nominee, turned in the second fastest six furlongs ever raced at Keeneland today in whipping older horses in the Phoenix Handicap.

Bandit, only 3-year-old in the field, held off a strong stretch challenge by Sea O Erin to win by three quarters of a length in 1:09 3-5, just two fifth off the track mark set by Swoon's Son last October.

Hasty House farm's Sea O Erin, seeking his third straight win in the Phoenix, finished a head in front of Bernburgoo in the six-horse field.

Bandit's win was even more impressive considering it was his first start since last July and he carried an extra five pounds when jockey Steve Brooks couldn't make the assigned weight of 107 pounds. Setting all the pace, his fractions were 22 and 44 3-5.

Bandit paid $12.20, $6 and $4.20. Sea O Erin returned $4.60 and $3.40 and Bernburgoo $4.20.

Another Blue Grass Stakes and Derby eligible, Calumet farm's Whig, won a $3,500 allowance race, carrying jockey Willie Hartack the six furlongs in 1:10 2-5.

Tulane Noses Out Louisiana State, 8 To 6

NEW ORLEANS, April 13 (AP)—Tulane's two unearned runs in the fifth inning broke a 5-5 tie and led to an 8-6 victory over Louisiana State today.

The victory moved Tulane's Southeastern Conference record to 5-1 and dropped LSU's to 2-4.

A second game in the series, set for next Monday, was postponed indefinitely because LSU will not be able to play then.

Four Fathoms Leads Way On Laurel's Oval

LAUREL, Md., April 13—Four Fathoms, an English-bred colt owned by Howell E. Jackson, nosed out Mrs. John T. Maloney's Soft Day in the $11,400 Chesapeake Trial for 3-year-olds today before 20,252.

Jockey Nick Shuk on the runner - up complained that Four Fathoms had interferred with him on the turn into the stretch. But the stewards couldn't see it in the movies and the first start of the year for Four Fathoms remained a victory at $10 for $2.

Carolyn K stables Pro-Brandy was three lengths behind the first two in the field of eight. Pro-Brandy and Soft Day carried 124 pounds, 12 more than the winner.

Pro-Brandy was the only member of the field eligible for the three classics, Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont. Four Fathoms is likely to race in the Preakness.

Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords' Bakht was the favorite, but was blocked out most of the way and finished last.

Four Fathoms returned $4.60 for second and $3.40 for a third place ticket. Soft Day's mutuel payoffs were $5.20 and $4.20 and Pro-Brandy's $4.20.

League Bosses Vision Banner Season

Fresh Talent Due To Boost Junior Loop

By WILL HARRIDGE
President of the American League

CHICAGO, April 13 (AP) — The American League, with its clubs coming up with an exceptional group of rookies and with interest in baseball higher than ever, should enjoy a banner 1957 season.

New faces always interest the fan, and this year we'll have them not only on the playing field, but also on the managerial benches of three American League clubs.

Two of the new pilots will be making their American League debuts — Jack Tighe at Detroit and Kerby Farrell at Cleveland. Al Lopez, after six seasons with the Cleveland Indians, will direct the destinies of the Chicago White Sox.

Virtually every club, I believe, will be helped by talented first-year men, with resultant improvement in league balance.

To name but a few, I am certain that the performance of our teams will be improved by the play of such newcomers as infielder Brooks Robinson of Baltimore; Heywood Sullivan, husky young catcher with Boston; outfielder Jim Landis and catcher Earl Battey of Chicago; pitcher Don Lee of Detroit; outfielder Roger Maris of Cleveland; infielder Lyle Luttrell of Washington; infielder Milt Graff of Kansas City; and a New York Yankee youngster who has shown all-around ability, Tony Kubek.

Winter deals likely will strengthen the Detroit and Kansas City clubs. And with such established stars as Herb Score and Bob Lemon of Cleveland; Mickey Mantle, Whitey Ford and Yogi Berra of New York; Ted Williams of Boston, Chicago's Minnie Minoso and Billy Pierce; and Harvey Kuenn and Al Kaline of Detroit, I am certain our fans are going to get a fine show from opening day on.

Fine advance seat sales reported by every American League club reflect the high interest in baseball. More boys now are playing the game under organized supervision than ever before, with surveys showing that the game will be played on some 53,000 professional, semi - pro and amateur diamonds this coming season.

The American League, and all baseball, should have one of its greatest years.

Our clubs this season have scheduled 237 night games, the greatest number ever scheduled for an American League season. Night attendance records show this high night game total justified, for in the past 18 seasons in which our league has played night ball more than 45,000,000 fans have attended after dark contests.

The six-foot-one 180 pounder, who hit .329 in his sophomore year with Alabama last season, is considered the Crimson's finest first baseman in years. He has been charged with only one error in 78 chances this year.

TRAUTMAN OBSERVES

Minors Lifeblood Of Major Baseball

By GEORGE M. TRAUTMAN
President National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues
(Written for the Associated Press

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 13 (AP) — Sometimes in the Golden Glow of a spectacular athletic event the man in the grandstand may forget in his excitement that his heroes on the field were not always at the top.

Let's go back to a bright summer day in Washington, D. C., last July 10. It is baseball's high moment of the season to date and a legion of fans has packed flag bedecked Griffith Stadium.

Now, if you will look over those power - packed starting lineups. Up to the plate strides scrappy Johnny Temple, the second baseman from Morganton, N. C., 1948. The pitcher, cool lefty Billy Pierce of Buffalo, N. Y., 1945, toes the rubber and the game is on.

To me sitting in this historic old ball park and watching the exciting events of that afternoon unfold, I saw down there on the diamond the "grass roots all-stars of America." I tried to picture in my mind each player, not as poised and polished big-timer, but as a roughcut rookie just beginning his days in professional baseball.

Lok at the rest of that "grass-roots" all-star array. After Temple, who cut his professional baseball teeth in the old Western Carolina League in the '48 season came big Frank Robinson, the left fielder, who was destined to be rookie of the year. Robinson, Tulsa, Okla., '53, had come up so fast he hadn't even rated a place on the roster of his team at the start of the '56 season.

Next in the batting order was an ex-pitcher, a fellow named Stan Musial, Daytona Beach, Fla., '40, and he was followed by his teammate, Ken Boyer, Lebanon, Pa., '49.

Right fielder Musial, making his 13th appearance in the mid-summer classic, was named that day as player of the decade, a far cry from the kid who almost quit baseball at Daytona Beach because of a broken shoulder. His young teammate, third baseman Boyer, was the defensive star of the game, shining more brightly than at any time since his career began in the North Atlantic League in 1949.

To go on with that lineup, next came center fielder Gus Bell from Keokuk, Iowa, '47, long a proud address in the Three I League which is celebrating this season its golden anniversary in the minors. Dale Long, the first baseman who emblazoned the baseball scene with his feat of eight homers in eight games during May, came to bat as an alumnus of Lima, Ohio, '45, and was followed by kid catcher Ed Bailey of Ogden, Utah, '50. Stylish shortstop Roy McMillian, Tyler, Tex., '47, batted eighth ahead of starting pitcher Bob Friend, Waco, Tex., '50.

There was that same grass roots flavor in the other lineup. Ex-collegian Harvey Kuenn, the shortstop, another Three I Leaguer from Davenport, Iowa, '52, led off and little Nellie For, the second baseman, class of Lancaster, Pa., '44, followed.

The slender slugger, Ted Williams of San Diego, away back in '37, was next to flex his muscles and then in came that double-duty beauty, center fielder Mickey Mantle of Independence, Kan., '49.

Catcher Yogi Berra, Norfolk, Va., '53, batted next and then came the only player on the field never to have donned a minor league uniform, Al Kaline of Detroit. Kaline's presence in this array of stars served only to emphasize the importance of that apprenticeship in the lower echelons of baseball for it is rare indeed when a young man can step, as he did, from the sandlots of his Baltimore high school team directly to a big league diamond.

Veteran Mickey Vernon, the first baseman, Easton, Pa., '37, and third baseman George Kell, Newport, Ark., '40, batting ahead of pitcher Pierce, completed that all-star lineup.

Who won that lively battle has been recorded for posterity and it is not important to the subject at hand.

What is significant, though as we enter upon another baseball campaign is that the entire vitality of baseball depends not upon the finished stars at the top but in the young men now in the Class C and D leagues. They're dreaming, all of them, of the day when they, too, will perform in these great classics. They're the lifeblood of the game and baseball cannot survive without them.

Giles Believes National Race Will Be Close

By WARREN C. GILES
President, The National League

Cincinnati, April 13 (AP) — It is customary each year at this time for a league president to look forward hopefully to an exciting, hard fought pennant race, the kind which stimulates fans, players and the league as a whole.

This year, it is not necessary for me to make any such prediction concerning our upcoming season. That has been done for me by all quarters and it seems almost a certainty that the National league is in for another "spine-tingling" race, like the one which captured the attention of the entire nation last year.

Of course, it is almost too much to hope — that the N. L. will see a repeat of last year's melodramatic race in which three clubs were still in contention on the final week - end of the season. Yet, who can say it won't happen again?

Certainly, the three 1956 contenders have not been weakened. Brooklyn, Milwaukee and Cincinnati are rated practically even by all observers to whom I talked in Florida and it is the consensus that at least three of our other clubs will be stronger in 1957.

Judging by what I saw in Florida, it is going to be harder for any 1956 first - division club to finish as high as it did last year. Though I realize you can't draw definite conclusions from grapefruit league games, I did get the impression while watching our clubs knock each other off in exhibition games. The six clubs which trained in Florida were fairly well bunched in the grapefruit standings and that situation could carry over into regular season play.

I didn't get to see the Giants and Cubs this spring but followed closely all the written reports. Both clubs are in the process of rebuilding and are enthusiastic about a number of their young players who will be given the opportunity to earn a major league job. This usually makes for a very interesting team.

The Giants have had more than their share of hard luck, through illness, injuries and the temporary loss of players to the armed forces. But the club did win the "Cactus League" championship and could surprise a lot of people this season. The Cubs will open with a new manager, a new general manager and several new faces on the field, and enthusiasm can do a great deal for a ball club.

I am deliberately avoiding any analysis of Brooklyn, Milwaukee and Cincinnati at this time since so much has been written and said about those clubs, it is unnecessary for me to elaborate here.

St. Louis, rated a "darkhorse" last year by many, could be just that this year. The Cardinals jumped from seventh in 1955 to fourth in1956 and obviously, need improve only that much again to be right in the thick of the battle. The Phillies' pitching could take the club a long way. Many pitching "experts" rate the Philadelphia staff as potentially the best in baseball.

The club uncovered several excellent young prospects in Clearwater this spring and its "big four" — Robin Roberts, Curt Simmons, Harvey Haddix and Jim Hearn — stacks up with any in the majors.

Pittsburg, the 1956 surprise club could be an even bigger surprise in '57. The young Pirates are maturing year by year and there's no telling how far they might go if they get that winning momentum.

Summarizing, it looks like another great year in the N. L. Brooklyn as the defending champion, will be difficult to unseat but the Braves and Redlegs and a couple of other clubs are determined and confident.

Ratterman's Pro Football Career Ends

The announcement came shortly after the Cleveland Browns of the National Football League asked waivers on the 30-year-old former Notre Dame star who was out with a leg injury most of last season.

"I had planned to be in Cleveland next week and was going to tell 'coach' Paul Brown then about my decision," Ratterman said at his home in Fort Thomas, Ky. "We talked briefly about my plans at the end of last season, but decided to let things slide until after Paul's trip to Florida.

"Now the announcement has been made in Cleveland and there will be no need for our conference."

"He doesn't fit into our future plans," Brown explained.

Coach Brown said he didn't think Ratterman could make the team next season, and he asked for waivers "so George will have every opportunity to make a new connection."

Ratterman's announcement ruled out any possibility of his playing with any other teams in the N.F.L. The teams had 10 days to claim him under the waiver rules.

League Bosses Vision Banner Season

Fresh Talent Due To Boost Junior Loop

By WILL HARRIDGE
President of the American League

CHICAGO, April 13 (AP) — The American League, with its clubs coming up with an exceptional group of rookies and with interest in baseball higher than ever, should enjoy a banner 1957 season.

New faces always interest the fan, and this year we'll have them not only on the playing field, but also on the managerial benches of three American League clubs.

Two of the new pilots will be making their American League debuts — Jack Tighe at Detroit and Kerby Farrell at Cleveland. Al Lopez, after six seasons with the Cleveland Indians, will direct the destinies of the Chicago White Sox.

Virtually every club, I believe, will be helped by talented first-year men, with resultant improvement in league balance.

To name but a few, I am certain that the performance of our teams will be improved by the play of such newcomers as infielder Brooks Robinson of Baltimore; Heywood Sullivan, husky young catcher with Boston; outfielder Jim Landis and catcher Earl Battey of Chicago; pitcher Don Lee of Detroit; outfielder Roger Maris of Cleveland; infielder Lyle Luttrell of Washington; infielder Milt Graff of Kansas City; and a New York Yankee youngster who has shown all-around ability, Tony Kubek.

Winter deals likely will strengthen the Detroit and Kansas City clubs. And with such established stars as Herb Score and Bob Lemon of Cleveland; Mickey Mantle, Whitey Ford and Yogi Berra of New York; Ted Williams of Boston; Chicago's Minnie Minoso and Billy Pierce; and Harvey Kuenn and Al Kaline of Detroit, I am certain our fans are going to get a fine show from opening day on.

Fine advance seat sales reported by every American League club reflect the high interest in baseball. More boys now are playing the game under organized supervision than ever before, with surveys showing that the game will be played on some 53,000 professional, semi - pro and amateur diamonds this coming season.

The American League, and all baseball, should have one of its greatest years.

Our clubs this season have scheduled 237 night games, the greatest number ever scheduled for an American League season. Night attendance records show this high night game total justified, for in the past 18 seasons in which our league has played night ball more than 45,000,000 fans have attended after dark contests.

HEADS ALABAMA BATTING

Fred Frickie, former Neville High of Monroe athlete, currently is leading the University of Alabama baseball club's batting with a solid .393 average for the first nine games of the Tide's season. The six-foot-one 180 pounder, who hit .329 in his sophomore year with Alabama last season, is considered the Crimson's finest first baseman in years. He has been charged with only one error in 78 chances this year.

Gulfstream's Feature Goes To La Verite

MIAMI, Fla., April 13 (AP)—La Verite, a 25 to 1 shot, came fast in the stretch to whip Federal Hill by a length and a quarter in the $25,000 Biscayne Bay Handicap at Gulfstream Park today before a crowd of 17,237.

Federal Hill, nominated for the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont, carried top weight of 126 pounds and went off a prohibitive favorite at 1 to 5.

The Clifford Lussky colt led most of the way in the mile and a sixteenth race but La Verite, a filly owned by A. F. Wall, put on a strong finishing drive to take first money of $15,000.

J. S. Kelly's We Trust, also nominated for the triple crown events, was third and the Bill Beasley stable's Biscayne finished fourth. The time was 1:44 over a fast track.

La Verite paid $55.40, $10.80 and $5.50. Federal Hill returned $2.60 and $2.40. Show price on We Trust was $4.

TRAUTMAN OBSERVES

Minors Lifeblood Of Major Baseball

By GEORGE M. TRAUTMAN
President National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues
(Written for the Associated Press

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 13 (AP) — Sometimes in the Golden Glow of a spectacular athletic event the man in the grandstand may forget in his excitement that his heroes on the field were not always at the top.

Let's go back to a bright summer day in Washington, D. C., last July 10. It is baseball's high moment of the season to date and a legion of fans has packed flag bedecked Griffith Stadium.

Now, if you will look over those power - packed starting lineups. Up to the plate strides scrappy Johnny Temple, the second baseman from Morganton, N. C., 1948. The pitcher, cool lefty Billy Pierce of Buffalo, N. Y., 1945, toes the rubber and the game is on.

To me sitting in this historic old ball park and watching the exciting events of that afternoon unfold, I saw down there on the diamond the "grass roots all-stars of America." I tried to picture in my mind each player, not as poised and polished big-timer, but as a roughcut rookie just beginning his days in professional baseball.

Lok at the rest of that "grass-roots" all-star array. After Temple, who cut his professional baseball teeth in the old Western Carolina League in the '48 season came big Frank Robinson, the left fielder, who was destined to be rookie of the year. Robinson, Tulsa, Okla., '53, had come up so fast he hadn't even rated a place on the roster of his team at the start of the '56 season.

Next in the batting order was an ex-pitcher, a fellow named Stan Musial, Daytona Beach, Fla., '40, and he was followed by his teammate, Ken Boyer, Lebanon, Pa., '49.

Right fielder Musial, making his 13th appearance in the mid-summer classic, was named that day as player of the decade, a far cry from the kid who almost quit baseball at Daytona Beach because of a broken shoulder. His young teammate, third baseman Boyer, was the defensive star of the game, shining more brightly than at any time since his career began in the North Atlantic League in 1949.

To go on with that lineup, next came center fielder Gus Bell from Keokuk, Iowa, '47, long a proud address in the Three I League which is celebrating this season its golden anniversary in the minors. Dale Long, the first baseman who emblazoned the baseball scene with his feat of eight homers in eight games during May, came to bat as an alumnus of Lima, Ohio, '45, and was followed by kid catcher Ed Bailey of Ogden, Utah, '50. Stylish shortstop Roy McMillian, Tyler, Tex., '47, batted eighth ahead of starting pitcher Bob Friend, Waco, Tex., '50.

There was that same grass roots flavor in the other lineup. Ex-collegian Harvey Kuenn, the shortstop, another Three I Leaguer from Davenport, Iowa, '52, led off and little Nellie For, the second baseman, class of Lancaster, Pa., '44, followed.

The slender slugger, Ted Williams of San Diego, away back in '37, was next to flex his muscles and then in came that double-duty beauty, center fielder Mickey Mantle of Independence, Kan., '49.

BULLDOG SPEEDSTER

Speedster Joel Thomas continues to pile up points for the Louisiana Tech track team this season. The Rodessa junior, holder of Gulf States Conference records in the 120 and 220 hurdles, has equaled the conference mark in the 100-yard dash this spring with a mark of 9.7 seconds and within two tenths of a second of the loop 220-yard dash mark. He has also run this spring on the 440, 880 and mile relay teams that won first in a number of meets. He was participating in the Southwestern Relays at Lafayette yesterday and will appear in a triangular meet at Ruston Tuesday night.

2 Overtimes Hand Boston Cage Throne

BOSTON, April 13 (AP) — The Boston Celtics won their first National Basketball Assn. championship by edging St. Louis 125-123 today in a wild double-overtime battle at Boston Garden.

Frank Ramsey, Boston's all-purpose star on loan from the Army who had 7 points in the first overtime period, put Boston ahead to stay with 1:15 to play in the second extra session.

The Hawks' Med Park got one free throw to close the gap to one point, then missed his second, but St. Louis controlled the rebound with 17 seconds to play and called time out. With St. Louis holding the advantage, Hawks coach Alex Hannum—forced to swing into action after four of his players had fouled out—was called on a traveling infraction.

Jungle Jim Loscutoff, Boston's muscle man from the University of Oregon, was dribbling the ball trying to run out the time when he was fouled with one second on the clock. Jim connected on the free throw but the Hawks had one more card.

Taking the ball out of bounds, Hannum threw it the length of the court. It caromed off the backboard and Pettit missed an effort to tap it in before the Celtics could wrap up their first playoff crown in the 11-year history of the NBA.

Boston out-rebounded St. Louis 84-76 with Russell contributing 32 to 19 for Pettit and 1 for Hagan.

The performance enabled Russell to raise his playoff record to 244 in 10 games. The previous mark was 207 by George Mikan of Minneapolis in 12 games in 1952.

BULLDOG SPEEDSTER

Speedster Joel Thomas continues to pile up points for the Louisiana Tech track team this season. The Rodessa junior, holder of Gulf States Conference records in the 120 and 220 hurdles, has equaled the conference mark in the 100-yard dash this spring with a mark of 9.7 seconds and within two tenths of a second of the loop 220-yard dash mark. He has also run this spring on the 440, 880 and mile relay teams that won first in a number of meets. He was participating in the Southwestern Relays at Lafayette yesterday and will appear in a triangular meet at Ruston Tuesday night.

2 Overtimes Hand Boston Cage Throne

BOSTON, April 13 (AP) — The Boston Celtics won their first National Basketball Assn. championship by edging St. Louis 125-123 today in a wild double-overtime battle at Boston Garden.

Frank Ramsey, Boston's all-purpose star on loan from the Army who had 7 points in the first overtime period, put Boston ahead to stay with 1:15 to play in the second extra session.

The Hawks' Med Park got one free throw to close the gap to one point, then missed his second, but St. Louis controlled the rebound with 17 seconds to play and called time out. With St. Louis holding the advantage, Hawks coach Alex Hannum—forced to swing into action after four of his players had fouled out—was called on a traveling infraction.

Jungle Jim Loscutoff, Boston's muscle man from the University of Oregon, was dribbling the ball trying to run out the time when he was fouled with one second on the clock. Jim connected on the free throw but the Hawks had one more card.

Taking the ball out of bounds, Hannum threw it the length of the court. It caromed off the backboard and Pettit missed an effort to tap it in before the Celtics could wrap up their first playoff crown in the 11-year history of the NBA.

Boston out-rebounded St. Louis 84-76 with Russell contributing 32 to 19 for Pettit and 1 for Hagan.

The performane enabled Russell to raise his playoff record to 244 in 10 games. The previous mark was 207 by George Mikan of Minneapolis in 12 games in 1952.

Portugal's Fair Land Is A Dream

By DOC QUIGG

LIBSON April 13 (UP) — The greenery in this fair land of Portugal is enough to make a Kelly blush for shame. The grasslands and shrubbery have a glow that seems almost dye-injected, and in all the land there is scarcely a sign of a TV aerial twigged on a rooftop.

Blessed are they that live in Portugal. The radio burdens the airwaves, but it has very few singing commercials.

Urged to delve into memory about any singing commercial at all, one local citizen deposed as follows:

Texas Laundry

"There is one that I recall, but it is not singing. It is a record, advertising the 'Texas Laundry Shop.' They start it out bang, bang. . . cowboy' with hippee yells, and then they say: 'Texas is not only this — Texas is a new laundry shop.'"

Liston is a lovely city of one million inhabitants, of red-orange roofs, white and pink buildings, and snuggled against the sea's long rolling white breakers. The streets are so clean they have a scrubbed look.

You can take a bus out to the seaside resort of Monte Estoril, which I did, but be forewarned that a chartered tourist bus is likely to have radio muisc coming at you out of the ceiling in a sudden burst when the driver turns it on.

Also beware of the hotel room numbers. Some hotels number like those in America. Some, like mine, don't. My room number is 23. Instead of being on the second floor, it is on the fourth, along with all the numbers in the 20s. You have to go to the top floor—in this case it's the fifth floor—to get to room No. 1. Then you work down, getting to the 50s on the first floor.

Line Up Cabs

Taxi driver line up their cabs single file in front of the Estoril railroad station, and when they need to move forward to fill up a gap in the line, they get out and push on the open driver-side door and steering wheel, rolling their cars forward by sheer manpower. If you ask someone how come this means of locomotion, you are told: "To save themselves the trouble of starting the engine."

Portugal has many breath-taking aspects, but here's one for the books. You have to have a license to use a cigarette lighter if you live here. A man showed me his at lunch today: "No. 3773, annual license for use of cigarette lighters." The cost is equivalent to about $1 in American money.

What's the idea? Protects the match industry.

TRAGIC TALE OF DEATH

Actor Says Daughter 'Just Refused To Eat' For Months

LOS ANGELES, April 13 (AP) — Actor Buster Crabbe yesterday told a tragic tale of how his attractive 20-year-old daughter died, apparently of malnutrition, because she was "obsessed with the idea she was overweight."

Funeral services were yesterday for Caren Lynn Crabbe, who weighed 60 pounds when she died in her sleep last Wednesday.

"The real trouble was that her eating habits were horribly distorted. She wouldn't eat anything that would put weigh on her. She became really obsessed with the idea she was overweght about a year ago.

"At that time she weighed 120 pounds and was 5 feet 4½ inches. It was an ideal weight for her height but she began to diet."

Her parents took Caren, a popular coed at the University of Southern California, to a doctor and then a psychiatrist.

"We were cautioned by the doctors not to excite her or argue about her diet. They said we should not force her to eat a normal diet for fear she would become more seriously obsessed and other mental complications might result."

He said that when he warned his daughter her dieting might be fatal, she replied: "Don't worry. It won't happen."

The coroner has listed the probable cause of death as malnutrition, pending final results of an autopsy.

"I know it's a horrible thing to say," Crabbe said, "but we had hoped that we could find something physically wrong with her.

"She was going to a psychiatrist five days a week. Only last Thursday the doctor said he thought that for the first time she was making headway. And Wednesday she died."

The girl's docor refused to sign a death certificate as he was not present when she died. He said he had been treating her for an emotional disturbance characterized by an inability to eat.

Crabbe said Caren was a "high-strung kid" who kept her troubles to herself, but got along well within the family. She lived here with her grandparents. Crabbe's home is in Rye, N.Y.

Portugal's Fair Land Is A Dream

By DOC QUIGG

LIBSON April 13 (UP) — The greenery in this fair land of Portugal is enough to make a Kelly blush for shame. The grasslands and shrubbery have a glow that seems almost dye-injected, and in all the land there is scarcely a sign of a TV aerial twigged on a rooftop.

Blessed are they that live in Portugal. The radio burdens the airwaves, but it has very few singing commercials.

Texas Laundry

"There is one that I recall, but it is not singing. It is a record, advertising the 'Texas Laundry Shop.' They start it out bang, bang... cowboy' with hippee yells, and then they say: 'Texas is not only this — Texas is a new laundry shop.'"

Liston is a lovely city of one million inhabitants, of red-orange roofs, white and pink buildings, and snuggled against the sea's long rolling white breakers. The streets are so clean they have a scrubbed look.

You can take a bus out to the seaside resort of Monte Estoril, which I did, but be forewarned that a chartered tourist bus is likely to have radio muisc coming at you out of the ceiling in a sudden burst when the driver turns it on.

Also beware of the hotel room numbers. Some hotels number like those in America. Some, like mine, don't. My room number is 23. Instead of being on the second floor, it is on the fourth, along with all the numbers in the 20s. You have to go to the top floor—in this case it's the fifth floor—to get to room No. 1. Then you work down, getting to the 50s on the first floor.

Line Up Cabs

Taxi driver line up their cabs single file in front of the Estoril railroad station, and when they need to move forward to fill up a gap in the line, they get out and push on the open driver-side door and steering wheel, rolling their cars forward by sheer manpower. If you ask someone how come this means of locomotion, you are told: "To save themselves the trouble of starting the engine."

Portugal has many breath-taking aspects, but here's one for the books. You have to have a license to use a cigarette lighter if you live here. A man showed me his at lunch today: "No. 3773, annual license for use of cigarette lighters." The cost is equivalent to about $1 in American money.

What's the idea? Protects the match industry.

TV notes

CBS Television's Odyssey will repeat its widely - acclaimed presentation "Satan In Salem" today. The story centers around the Massachusetts witchcraft trials of 1692. Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, R., Mass., will be Odyssey's guest; Charles Collingwood will be host and narrator.

"Satan In Salem" was originally presented on Odyssey Jan. 27.

"The Way of the Cross" ("Le Chemin de la Croix") last year's special Palm Sunday presentation on the "Lamp Unto My Feet" series, will be presented live again this year by popular demand. The program will be this morning over CBS Television.

The Public Affairs series "U. N. in Action" delves into the folklore and ritual of Africa in a special program this morning. In Africa, folklore sometimes springs up overnight. The previous day's happenings become the fables of today.

Newsman Larry LeSueur went deep into the interior of Africa to a village of Logo in the Franch Camaroons for the story.

"The Cold Decade — To the Yalu" the grim story of the Soviet-supported invasion of South Korea in 1950, and the explosive political overtones of the East - West cold war, narrated by Newsman Walter Cronkite, will be chapter 23 of the 26 - yard "Air Power" series today. The second part of a special trilogy devoted to the cold war, "The Cold Decade - to the Yalu", dramatically depicts the course of military and political events once the North Koreans crossed the 38th parallel.

A forceful dramatization of a Chinese peasant family's struggle for survival under Communist rule will be presented on "Studio One," when "The Rice Sprout Song" is aired over CBS Television Monday. Adapted for television by Loring Mandel from a novel by Fileen Chang, the story stars Olive Deering, John Colicos, Vivian Nathan and David Opatashu.

Phyllis Kirk and Kendall Scott star on "The 20th Century - Fox Hour" in "Men in Her Life" Wednesday. Malcolm Broderick also stars. The story is about a young school teacher, who awakens the curiosity of a roughneck student and lays the foundation for his later success in politics.

For its one hour and a half production of the Broadway comedy hit, "Three Men on a Horse," Playhouse 90 has signed an all star cast headed by Jack Carson, Carol Channing, Mona Freeman, Edward Everett Horton, Arnold Stand and a host of others. The play will be presented Thursday night.

TRAGIC TALE OF DEATH

Actor Says Daughter 'Just Refused To Eat' For Months

LOS ANGELES, April 13 (AP) — Actor Buster Crabbe yesterday told a tragic tale of how his attractive 20-year-old daughter died, apparently of malnutrition, because she was "obsessed with the idea she was overweight."

Funeral services were yesterday for Caren Lynn Crabbe, who weighed 60 pounds when she died in her sleep last Wednesday.

"The real trouble was that her eating habits were horribly distorted. She wouldn't eat anything that would put weigh on her. She became really obsessed with the idea she was overweght about a year ago.

"At that time she weighed 120 pounds and was 5 feet 4½ inches. It was an ideal weight for her height but she began to diet."

Her parents took Caren, a popular coed at the University of Southern California, to a doctor and then a psychiatrist.

"We were cautioned by the doctors not to excite her or argue about her diet. They said we should not force her to eat a normal diet for fear she would become more seriously obsessed and other mental complications might result."

He said that when he warned his daughter her dieting might be fatal, she replied: "Don't worry. It won't happen."

The coroner has listed the probable cause of death as malnutrition, pending final results of an autopsy.

"I know it's a horrible thing to say," Crabbe said, "but we had hoped that we could find something physically wrong with her.

"She was going to a psychiatrist five days a week. Only last Thursday the doctor said he thought that for the first time she was making headway. And Wednesday she died."

The girl's docor refused to sign a death certificate as he was not present when she died. He said he had been treating her for an emotional disturbance characterized by an inability to eat.

Crabbe said Caren was a "high-strung kid" who kept her troubles to herself, but got along well within the family. She lived here with her grandparents. Crabbe's home is in Rye, N.Y.

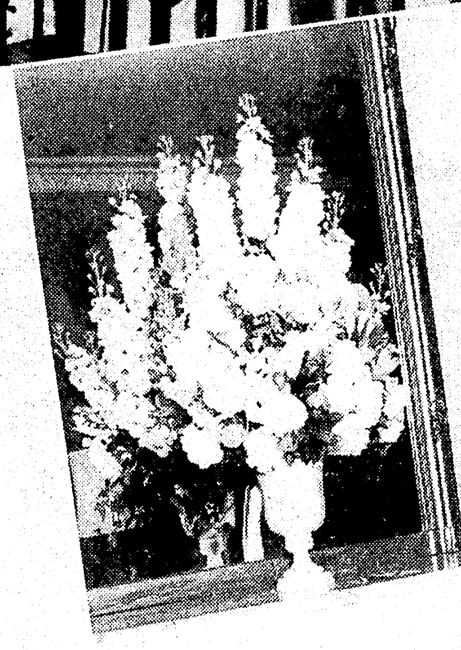
The pictures today show the four homes on the House to House Flower Show presented by the Monroe Garden Club on Monday afternoon. Photographed as they were entering the home of the Travis Olivers on Island Drive are Mrs. Kent Anderson and Mrs. Charles M. Dolan, of Big Lake, Texas.

Mrs. H. K. Touchstone, Jr. chairman for the Wilson Ewing home on Island Drive, the second home on the tour, is shown with Mrs. Henry Biedenharn and Mrs. H. K. Touchstone as they discuss the formal dinner table done by Mrs. Biedenharn. The table setting and lovely center arrangement merited a blue ribbon from the judges.



Mrs. Oliver and Mrs. Ronald Lee Davis stand before the mantel, in the living room of the home, decorated for a bridal luncheon. The outstanding Georgian arrangement of flowers in white, yellow and shades of blue, was done by Mrs. C. C. Lucky.

The last home to be visited on the "Social and Otherwise" tour was that of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hunter Thatcher, on Speed Drive. Mrs. Thatcher is shown with Mrs. Henry Guerriero at the terrace pool where tea was served during the afternoon.

Portugal's Fair Land Is A Dream

By DOC QUIGG

LIBSON April 13 (UP) — The greenery in this fair land of Portugal is enough to make a Kelly blush for shame. The grasslands and shrubbery have a glow that seems almost dye-injected, and in all the land there is scarcely a sign of a TV aerial twigged on a rottop.

Blessed are they that live in Portugal. The radio burdens the airwaves, but it has very few singing commercials.

Texas Laundry

"There is one that I recall, but it is not singing. It is a record, advertising the 'Texas Laundry Shop.' They start it out bang, bang, . . cowboy' with hippee yells, and then they say: 'Texas is not only this — Texas is a new laundry shop.'"

Liston is a lovely city of one million inhabitants, of red-orange roofs, white and pink buildings, and snuggled against the sea's long rolling white breakers. The streets are so clean they have a scrubbed look.

You can take a bus out to the seaside resort of Monte Estoril, which I did, but be forewarned that a chartered tourist bus is likely to have radio muisc coming at you out of the ceiling in a sudden burst when the driver turns it on.

Also beware of the hotel room numbers. Some hotels number like those in America. Some, like mine, don't. My room number is 26. Instead of being on the second floor, it is on the fourth, along with all the numbers in the 20s. You have to go to the top floor—in this case it's the fifth floor—to get to room No. 1. Then you work down, getting to the 50s on the first floor.

Line Up Cabs

Taxi driver line up their cabs single file in front of the Estoril railroad station, and when they need to move forward to fill up a gap in the line, they get out and push on the open driver side door and steering wheel, rolling their cars forward by sheer manpower. If you ask someone how come this means of locomotion, you are told: "To save themselves the trouble of starting the engine."

Portugal has many breath taking aspects, but here's one for the books. You have to have a license to use a cigarette lighter if you live here. A man showed me his at lunch today: "No. 3773, annual license for use of cigarette lighters." The cost is equivalent to about $1 in American money.

What's the idea? Protects the match industry.

TV notes

CBS Television's Odyssey will repeat its widely - acclaimed presentation "Satan In Salem" today. The story centers around the Massachusetts witchcraft trials of 1692. Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, R., Mass., will be Odyssey's guest; Charles Collingwood will be host and narrator.

"Satan In Salem" was originally presented on Odyssey Jan. 27.

"The Way of the Cross" ("Le Chemin de la Croix") last year's special Palm Sunday presentation on the "Lamp Unto My Feet" series, will be presented live again this year by popular demand. The program will be this morning over CBS Television.

The Public Affairs series "U. N. in Action" delves into the folklore and ritual of Africa in a special program this morning. In Africa, folklore sometimes springs up overnight. The previous day's happenings become the fables of today.

Newsman Larry LeSueur went deep into the interior of Africa to a village of Logo in the Franch Camaroons for the story.

"The Cold Decade — To the Yalu" the grim story of the Soviet-supported invasion of South Korea in 1950, and the explosive political overtones of the East - West cold war, narrated by Newsman Walter Cronkite, will be chapter 23 of the 26 - yard "Air Power" series today. The second part of a special trilogy devoted to the cold war, "The Cold Decade - to the Yalu", dramatically depicts the course of military and political events once the North Koreans crossed the 38th parallel.

A forceful dramatization of a Chinese peasant family's struggle for survival under Communist rule will be presented on "Studio One," when "The Rice Sprout Song" is aired over CBS Television Monday. Adapted for television by Loring Mandel from a novel by Fileen Chang, the story stars Olive Deering, John Colicos, Vivian Nathan and David Opatashu.

Spider Webb will match Randy Sandy's constant attacking with clusters of counters in a ten round middleweight bout at Chicago Stadium Wednesday evening in the Fight of the Week. The fight will be telecast over ABC Television.

Phyllis Kirk and Kendall Scott star on "The 20th Century - Fox Hour" in "Men in Her Life" Wednesday. Malcolm Broderick also stars. The story is about a young school teacher, who awakens the curiosity of a roughneck student and lays the foundation for his later success in politics.

For its one hour and a half production of the Broadway comedy hit, "Three Men on a Horse," Playhouse 90 has signed an all star cast headed by Jack Carson, Carol Channing, Mona Freeman, Edward Everett Horton, Arnold Stand and a host of others. The play will be presented Thursday night.

Academy Award winner Anne Baxter stars in an unusual drama, "Bitter Choice" on the General Electric Theatre next Sunday. Ronand Reagan is host and on-air supervisor for the General Electric Theatre

CBS Television's annual full-hour presentation of the traditional Easter Sunday services from Washington's famed National Cathedral will be presented next Sunday. This marks the seventh consecutive year that CBS television has taken the country's viewers to the National Cathedral on Easter Sunday for the colorful Episcopal services.

TRAGIC TALE OF DEATH

Actor Says Daughter 'Just Refused To Eat' For Months

LOS ANGELES, April 13 (AP) — Actor Buster Crabbe yesterday told a tragic tale of how his attractive 20-year-old daughter died, apparently of malnutrition, because she was "obsessed with the idea she was overweight."

Funeral services were yesterday for Caren Lynn Crabbe, who weighed 60 pounds when she died in her sleep last Wednesday.

"The real trouble was that her eating habits were horribly distorted. She wouldn't eat anything that would put weigh on her. She became really obsessed with the idea she was overweght about a year ago.

"At that time she weighed 120 pounds and was 5 feet 4½ inches. It was an ideal weight for her height but she began to diet."

Her parents took Caren, a popular coed at the University of Southern California, to a doctor and then a psychiatrist.

"We were cautioned by the doctors not to excite her or argue about her diet. They said we should not force her to eat a normal diet for fear she would become more seriously obsessed and other mental complications might result."

He said that when he warned his daughter her dieting might be fatal, she replied: "Don't worry. It won't happen."

The coroner has listed the probable cause of death as malnutrition, pending final results of an autopsy.

"I know it's a horrible thing to say," Crabbe said, "but we had hoped that we could find something physically wrong with her.

"She was going to a psychiatrist five days a week. Only last Thursday the doctor said he thought that for the first time she was making headway. And Wednesday she died."

The girl's docor refused to sign a death certificate as he was not present when she died. He said he had been treating her for an emotional disturbance characterized by an inability to eat.

Crabbe said Caren was a "high-strung kid" who kept her troubles to herself, but got along well within the family. She lived here with her grandparents. Crabbe's home is in Rye, N.Y.

Portugal's Fair Land Is A Dream

By DOC QUIGG

LIBSON April 13 (UP) — The greenery in this fair land of Portugal is enough to make a Kelly blush for shame. The grasslands and shrubbery have a glow that seems almost dye-injected, and in all the land there is scarcely a sign of a TV aerial twigged on a roftop.

Blessed are they that live in Portugal. The radio burdens the airwaves, but it has very few singing commercials.

Texas Laundry

"There is one that I recall, but it is not singing. It is a record, advertising the 'Texas Laundry Shop.' They start it out bang, bang. . . cowboy' with hippee yells, and then they say: 'Texas is not only this — Texas is a new laundry shop.' "

Liston is a lovely city of one million inhabitants, of red-orange roofs, white and pink buildings, and snuggled against the sea's long rolling white breakers. The streets are so clean they have a scrubbed look.

You can take a bus out to the seaside resort of Monte Estoril, which I did, but be forewarned that a chartered tourist bus is likely to have radio muisc coming at you out of the ceiling in a sudden burst when the driver turns it on.

Also beware of the hotel room numbers. Some hotels number like those in America. Some, like mine, don't. My room number is 23. Instead of being on the second floor, it is on the fourth, along with all the numbers in the 20s. You have to go to the top floor—in this case it's the fifth floor—to get to room No. 1. Then you work down, getting to the 50s on the first floor.

Line Up Cabs

Taxi driver line up their cabs single file in front of the Estoril railroad station, and when they need to move forward to fill up a gap in the line, they get out and push on the open driver-side door and steering wheel, rolling their cars forward by sheer manpower. If you ask someone how come this means of locomotion, you are told: "To save themselves the trouble of starting the engine."

Portugal has many breath-taking aspects, but here's one for the books. You have to have a license to use a cigarette lighter if you live here. A man showed me his at lunch today: "No. 3773, annual license for use of cigarette lighters." The cost is equivalent to about $1 in American money.

What's the idea? Protects the match industry.

TV notes

CBS Television's Odyssey will repeat its widely - acclaimed presentation "Satan In Salem" today. The story centers around the Massachusetts witchcraft trials of 1692. Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, R., Mass., will be Odyssey's guest; Charles Collingwood will be host and narrator.

"Satan In Salem" was originally presented on Odyssey Jan. 27.

"The Way of the Cross" ("Le Chemin de la Croix") last year's special Palm Sunday presentation on the "Lamp Unto My Feet" series, will be presented live again this year by popular demand. The program will be this morning over CBS Television.

The Public Affairs series "U. N. in Action" delves into the folklore and ritual of Africa in a special program this morning. In Africa, folklore sometimes springs up overnight. The previous day's happenings become the fables of today.

Newsman Larry LeSueur went deep into the interior of Africa to a village of Logo in the Franch Camaroons for the story.

"The Cold Decade — To the Yalu" the grim story of the Soviet-supported invasion of South Korea in 1950, and the explosive political overtones of the East - West cold war, narrated by Newsman Walter Cronkite, will be chapter 23 of the 26 - yard "Air Power" series today. The second part of a special trilogy devoted to the cold war, "The Cold Decade - to the Yalu", dramatically depicts the course of military and political events once the North Koreans crossed the 38th parallel.

A forceful dramatization of a Chinese peasant family's struggle for survival under Communist rule will be presented on "Studio One," when "The Rice Sprout Song" is aired over CBS Television Monday. Adapted for television by Loring Mandel from a novel by Fileen Chang, the story stars Olive Deering, John Colicos, Vivian Nathan and David Opatashu.

Spider Webb will match Randy Sandy's constant attacking with clusters of counters in a ten round middleweight bout at Chicago Stadium Wednesday evening in the Fight of the Week. The fight will be telecast over ABC Television.

Phyllis Kirk and Kendall Scott star on "The 20th Century - Fox Hour" in "Men in Her Life" Wednesday. Malcolm Broderick also stars. The story is about a young school teacher, who awakens the curiosity of a roughneck student and lays the foundation for his later success in politics.

For its one hour and a half production of the Broadway comedy hit, "Three Men on a Horse," Playhouse 90 has signed an all star cast headed by Jack Carson, Carol Channing, Mona Freeman, Edward Everett Horton, Arnold Stand and a host of others. The play will be presented Thursday night.

CBS Television's annual full-hour presentation of the traditional Easter Sunday services from Washington's famed National Cathedral will be presented next Sunday. This marks the seventh consecutive year that CBS television has taken the country's viewers to the National Cathedral on Easter Sunday for the colorful Episcopal services.

TRAGIC TALE OF DEATH

Actor Says Daughter 'Just Refused To Eat' For Months

LOS ANGELES, April 13 (AP) — Actor Buster Crabbe yesterday told a tragic tale of how his attractive 20-year-old daughter died, apparently of malnutrition, because she was "obsessed with the idea she was overweight."

Funeral services were yesterday for Caren Lynn Crabbe, who weighed 60 pounds when she died in her sleep last Wednesday.

"The real trouble was that her eating habits were horribly distorted. She wouldn't eat anything that would put weigh on her. She became really obsessed with the idea she was overweght about a year ago.

"At that time she weighed 120 pounds and was 5 feet 4½ inches. It was an ideal weight for her height but she began to diet."

Her parents took Caren, a popular coed at the University of Southern California, to a doctor and then a psychiatrist.

"We were cautioned by the doctors not to excite her or argue about her diet. They said we should not force her to eat a normal diet for fear she would become more seriously obsessed and other mental complications might result."

He said that when he warned his daughter her dieting might be fatal, she replied: "Don't worry. It won't happen."

The coroner has listed the probable cause of death as malnutrition, pending final results of an autopsy.

"I know it's a horrible thing to say," Crabbe said, "but we had hoped that we could find something physically wrong with her.

"She was going to a psychiatrist five days a week. Only last Thursday the doctor said he thought that for the first time she was making headway. And Wednesday she died."

The girl's docor refused to sign a death certificate as he was not present when she died. He said he had been treating her for an emotional disturbance characterized by an inability to eat.

Crabbe said Caren was a "high-strung kid" who kept her troubles to herself, but got along well within the family. She lived here with her grandparents. Crabbe's home is in Rye, N.Y.

State And Local Presidents Of C. A. R. Will Attend National Convention In Washington

Miss Jane Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Williams, of 707 Stubbs Avenue, and Miss Peggy Pierce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Pierce, of 1015 Hilton, will leave Monroe early Wednesday morning, April 17, for Shreveport where they will board a plane for Washington, D. C. They will attend the sixty - second annual convention of the National Society of the Children of the American Revolution to be held April 19, 20, and 21 at the Mayflower Hotel as delegates from Lt. Joseph Bowmar Society.

Jane was recently elected junior state president at the state conference held in Monroe. She will be installed at the very impressive installation services to be held at Mount Vernon on Easter Sunday. Jane is a very busy freshman at Louisiana Tech at Ruston.

These girls will be a part of the one thousand delegates that are expected to represent the forty-eight states at the convention of this well known patriotic youth organization. The C. A. R. is open to children who trace their ancestry back to one who supported the American cause in the Revolutionary War and the age group varies from birth to twenty - one years. The C. A. R. is closely identified with the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Sons of the American Revolution, having been organized by the Daughters on February 22, 1895 in Washington, D. C.

Robert Carroll Barr, of Houston, the junior national president will preside. He is a sophomore at Texas A. & M. College. We were very fortunate in having had him attend the Louisiana state conference recently held in Monroe.

Jane and Peggy are indeed fortunate in having received invitations for luncheon in the senate dining room as well as an opportuity to see the senate in session.

An outstanding honor has been given them in their having received invitations to be present in the Louisiana Box in Constitution Hall on Wednesday evening for the formal meeting of the National Convention of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Among the planned entertainment for the delegates are tours of Washington which will include the most outstanding buildings and monuments and will end with a visit to the White House.

Formal registration will begin at 8:30 a. m. on Thursday, the 18th.

Friday afternoon a tea and reception will be given at the District of Columbia D. A. R. Chapter House at which time the Junior National Board will be receiving. Friday evening there will be an awards - get acquainted evening in the Williamsburg Room of the Mayflower Hotel.

At :30 Saturday moring a concert will be given by the navy band orchestra. This will be followed by the processional which is a very colorful spectacle.

The convention will be called to order at 9:00 a. m. on Saturday morning.

The most thrilling affair of the entire convention will be the formal dinner dance to be held in the main ballroom of the Mayflower Hotel begining at 6:30 p. m. on Saturday evening. After the dance there will be a "Texas After-Dance Reception" in the Williamsburg Room honoring the outgoing president, Robert Carroll Barr.

Easter Sunday will be filled with activity beginning with early services at all churches. The annual pilgrimage to Mount Vernon will leave the Mayflower at 10:00 a. m. Upon arrival there, the laying of wreaths on the graves of George and Martha Washington will take place, as well as the installation of the newly elected officers, followed by a tour of Mount Vernon. A picnic box lunch will be provided at Mount Vernon.

Memorial services will be held in Christ Church, Alexandria, Virginia, at 1:45 p. m. followed by a tour to the Tomb of the Unknown Revolutionary Soldier, the Old Presbyterian Meeting House, at Alexandria, Virginia where a wreath will be laid and a tree planted.

At 3:15 p. m. there will be a wreath laying service at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National Cemetery. This will give the guests a opportunity to see the changing of the guards which is a most impressive service.

The convention program includes reports by national chairmen of work accomplished, presentation of prizes and awards and the election of national officers for the coming year.

The convention program in-Revolution has a rotating system for the higher officers in that one year Miss Dorothy Jacquelin boy who will be elected president, and the following year, a girl. This year iss Dorothy Jacquelin Buckton of New York City, a sophomore at Barnard College has been nominated for the next junior national president. Twenty-four other national officers will also be chosen from different states.

State And Local Presidents Of C. A. R. Will Attend National Convention In Washington

Miss Jane Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Williams, of 707 Stubbs Avenue, and Miss Peggy Pierce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Pierce, of 1015 Hilton, will leave Monroe early Wednesday morning, April 17, for Shreveport where they will board a plane for Washington, D. C. They will attend the sixty - second annual convention of the Natioal Society of the Children of the American Revolution to be held April 19, 20, and 21 at the Mayflower Hotel as delegates from Lt. Joseph Bowmar Society.

Jane was recently elected junior state president at the state conference held in Monroe. She will be installed at the very impressive installation services to be held at Mount Vernon on Easter Sunday. Jane is a very busy freshman at Louisiana Tech at Ruston.

These girls will be a part of the one thousand delegates that are expected to represent the forty-eight states at the convention of this well known patriotic youth organization. The C. A. R. is open to children who trace their ancestry back to one who supported the American cause in the Revolutionary War and the age group varies from birth to twenty - one years. The C. A. R. is closely identified with the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Sons of the American Revolution, having been organized by the Daughters on February 22, 1895 in Washington, D. C.

Robert Carroll Barr, of Houston, the junior national president will preside. He is a sophomore at Texas A. & M. College. We were very fortunate in having had him attend the Louisiana state conference recently held in Monroe.

Jane and Peggy are indeed fortunate in having received invitations for luncheon in the senate dining room as well as an opportuity to see the senate in session.

An outstanding honor has been given them in their having received invitations to be present in the Louisiana Box in Constitution Hall on Wednesday evening for the formal meeting of the National Convention of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Among the planned entertainment for the delegates are tours of Washington which will include the most outstanding buildings and monuments and will end with a visit to the White House.

Formal registration will begin at 8:30 a. m. on Thursday, the 18th.

Friday afternoon a tea and reception will be given at the District of Columbia D. A. R. Chapter House at which time the Junior National Board will be receiving. Friday evening there will be an awards - get acquainted evening in the Williamsburg Room of the Mayflower Hotel.

At :30 Saturday moring a concert will be given by the navy band orchestra. This will be followed by the processional which is a very colorful spectacle.

The convention will be called to order at 9:00 a. m. on Saturday morning.

The most thrilling affair of the entire convention will be the formal dinner dance to be held in the main ballroom of the Mayflower Hotel begining at 6:30 p. m. on Saturday evening. After the dance there will be a "Texas After-Dance Reception" in the Williamsburg Room honoring the outgoing president, Robert Carroll Barr.

Easter Sunday will be filled with activity beginning with early services at all churches. The annual pilgrimage to Mount Vernon will leave the Mayflower at 10:00 a. m. Upon arrival there, the laying of wreaths on the graves of George and Martha Washington will take place, as well as the installation of the newly elected officers, followed by a tour of Mount Vernon. A picnic box lunch will be provided at Mount Vernon.

Memorial services will be held in Christ Church, Alexandria, Virginia, at 1:45 p. m. followed by a tour to the Tomb of the Unknown Revolutionary Soldier, the Old Presbyterian Meeting House, at Alexandria, Virginia where a wreath will be laid and a tree planted.

At 3:15 p. m. there will be a wreath laying service at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National Cemetery. This will give the guests a opportunity to see the changing of the guards which is a most impressive service.

The convention program includes reports by national chairmen of work accomplished, presentation of prizes and awards and the election of national officers for the coming year.

The convention program in-Revolution has a rotating system for the higher officers in that one year Miss Dorothy Jacquelin boy who will be elected president, and the following year, a girl. This year iss Dorothy Jacquelin Buckton of New York City, a sophomore at Barnard College has been nominated for the next junior national president. Twenty-four other national officers will also be chosen from different states.

MISS IMOGENE M'DANIEL

Miss Imogene McDaniel To Wed Glenn Ernest Bell On May 17

Mr. and Mrs. John E. McDaniel, of Kelly, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Imogene, to Mr. Glenn Ernest Bell, son of Mrs. Homer E. Bell, of Bastrop.

Their nuptial vows will be exchanged on May 17 at 7 o'clock in the evening at the Kelly Methodist Church, with the pastor, Rev. Edward Hinkel, officiating.

The bride-elect has chosen as her matron of honor Miss Peggy McDaniel, and serving as the bridegroom's best man will be Mr. S. W. Austin.

Miss McDaniel is a graduate of Kelly High School and she will receive in May the bachelor's degree in English Education from Northeast Louisiana State College.

She is an active participant in several college organizations, some of which are nationally affiliated. She holds the presidency of Phi Alpha Theta, national history fraternity, and the vice presidency of Sigma Tau Delta, national honorary English fraternity. Miss McDaniel also holds membership in the Northeast State Writers Club, which is affiliated with the College Writers Society of Louisiana, and the Honor Society. She has been selected as editor of The Profile, Northeast State student magazine which is published annually.

After graduating from the Bastrop High School, Mr. Bell entered Northeast Louisiana State College, where in January he completed requirements for the bachelor's degree in mathematics education. As a college student, he was president of Mu Alpha Theta, mathematics fraternity, vice president of T. O. Brown chapter, Future Teachers of America, and he also was a member of the debate team.

Mr. Bell presently is on the engineering staff of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company here.

Girl Scout News

One troop that is going to be ready for day camp and other out of door activities is Troop 59, Mrs. N. A. Randall, leader. At their last meeting the girls learned to cook that one pot meal that remains a perennial favorite of Scouts of all ages, campfire stew, or Brownie stew, as the younger girls call it. Soaping the pot and working by patrols taught the girls the Scout way of doing — all enjoyed the food so much that their leader says next time they'll have to double the recipe. Marie Nelson, Senior Scout of Troop 14, has been helping the troop with its activities. Lucky girls to have Marie, who knows her campcraft so well, and is so good at leading songs.

Everybody in Troop 14 went to the senior conference in New Orleans except Sandra Lea, who was unfortunate enough to get sick. Mrs. George Lester and Mrs. Robert Easterling accompanied the girls. Nancy Breard, as you probably know, was president of the conference, and according to all reports, did an excellent job. Marie Nelson was elected to the planning board for next year.

There's a lot of excitement in troops, we hear, over the day camp folders which have been distributed. Sounds as if there will be a landslide of registrations. Sign-up day was yesterday, so we don't know yet how many enrolled the first day.

The day camp committee went to Pine Wood for the day Wednesday, in order to list improvements needed, repairs, and equipment needed for spring and summer use of the camp. Daughters of committee members, we hear, were quite disgruntled to have to spend the day in school while mother was out in the sunshine at camp. The group planted bicolor Jespedea as an attraction for birds, hope it lives.

Near the close of school, troop will be having fly-up ceremonies and courts of awards to mark the close of regular meetings. Troop 24 has been practicing the flag ceremony in order to do a perfect job at their court of awards. Troops 48 and 10 are others that have been perfecting their knowledge of flag usage as part of the Tenderfoot requirements. Ann McCarty, Senior Scout, has been helping the latter troop.

Let's get the day camp registrations in by mailing or taking the permission slip to the office. Any interested parent may have a folder mailed by calling the office.

If you use attractive copper skillets and saucepans for cooking, you can bring them right to the table. Saves dishwashing!

Those Easter Flowers Can Last Longer

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures

The colorful bloom of the traditional Easter gifts — flowers — frequently can be prolonged for days — if not years — with proper care.

Cut flowers, for instance, will last much longer if the water is changed daily. Use tepid water, and make certain at least half of the length of the stems is immersed. They will benefit, too, if the ends of the stems are freshly cut — about a quarter of an inch snipped off with a diagonal cut. For best results, keep the cut flowers out of drafts — away from open windows even on balmy days, and out of direct sunlight.

Potted plants are also popular Easter gifts. Surveys of the Florists' Telegraphic Delivery Assn. indicate the six most popular gift plants are Easter lilies, azaleas, bulbs (tulip or hyacinth), hydrangeas and rose bushes. Here are tips on their care:

Easter lily — provide plenty of light, but not direct sunshine. Water thoroughly. Transplant the bulb in the garden — a protected, sunny spot — after stem and leaves have yellowed.

Azalea — Keep the plant in a well lighted room, and give it plenty of water. When the ground is warm, the plant may be moved outdoors.

Bulbs — will bloom longer if kept in a cool but well lighted area of the house. When leaves and stems have yellowed and dried, the bulbs may be removed from the pot and planted in the open ground.

Hydrangea — needs plenty of water, cool, draft-free environment. When the bloom is finished, it may be transplanted into a shady garden spot and pruned back severely.

Let The Man In Your Life Select Bonnet

BY GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK, April 13 (UP) When it comes to buying a spring bonnet, let the man in your life have the last word for a change.

Mrs. Sally Victor said that if women paid more attention to masculine advice, there would be fewer outlandish hats in the Easter parade.

"Men for the most part have better taste than women," said Mrs. Victor, who makes the hats worn by the nation's first lady.

Does Mrs. Eisenhower listen to the President?

"She certainly does," said the milliner. "I don't know of any hat he's turned thumbs down on completely. But she gets the same glow as any other woman when complimented on what she's wearing.

Men like women in feminine hats, she said. "I don't mean fussy," she added, "but soft in line and color. Men don't like those stiff, wired-looking sailors, for instance."

Mrs. Victor said that despite all the warnings, the Easter parade will be cluttered with hat mistakes. She listed some of the inevitable buying errors.

"The biggest is buying a hat because a friend likes it," she said.

Another is the woman's insistence on a certain color because "someone told her when she was 16 the shade was flattering, and she's been featuring it ever since. Women forget that skin tone and hair color change from those sweet-16 days."

Or, a woman buys a hat because it's "safe"—the shape, she explained, was becoming 20 years ago so the woman assumes it still is, although she may be heavier, her face fuller, her shoulders rounder.

"Don't shop with a pre-conceived notion of the size and shape of hat you want," said Mrs. Victor.

Another mistake: Buying a hat without really seeing it. Mrs. Victor said most women buy hats sitting down, and never stand up and walk around to see how the hat balances with the figure and the costume.

"Proportion," she said, "is everything in dress."

Look at the hat from all angles she added. Try to see it as others will.

"And," Mrs. Victor said, "if you go to a milliner, trust her.

MRS. RICHARD H. SCHULZE, is the former Miss Iva Nell Gould, of Shreveport, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gould. Mr. Schulze is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Shulze of San Antonio, Tex. The marriage took place April 13th at 7:30 p.m. in the First Baptist Church of West Monroe.

Schulze-Gould Wedding Ceremony First Baptist Church, West Monroe

Miss Iva Nell Gould of Shreveport, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gould and Richard H. Schulze, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Schulze of San Antonio, Tex., were married in an impressive double-ring ceremony at the First Baptist Church of West Monroe at 7:30 April 13th. The Reverend Jaroy Weber officiated.

The church was decorated with white gladioli and southern smilax against a background of white candles, forming an arch. Miss Sharon Thomisee, accompanied by Bob Oldenburg, sang "Through the Years" and "Because."

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Mr. Herbert Gould. She was lovely in a white organdy dress over taffeta with a lace yoke and tiny covered buttons down the back of the fitted bodice, her sleeves were of lace and came to a point over her hands. She carried a bridal bouquet of white rose buds and feathered carnations.

Miss Neva Gould, sister, was her only attendant. She was wearing a pink organdy ballerina length dress with matching gloves and hat. She carried an arm bouquet of pink rosebuds and palm mums.

A. K. Andrews of Baton Rouge served as best man, and F. F. McLeland and R. L. Gould were ushers.

After the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlor. The brides' table was decorated with a centerpiece of pink gladioli and silver candlesticks on a white cutwork tablecloth over pink.

Presiding at the punch bowl was Miss Bernice McCoy, and Miss Georgia McCoy served the wedding cake, assisted by Mrs. Donald Wadley and Mrs. Joe Fant. Asking the guests to sign the brides' book was Mrs. F. F. McLeland.

The young couple will be at home in Baton Rouge when they return.

BY GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK, April 13 (UP) When it comes to buying a spring bonnet, let the man in your life have the last word for a change.

Mrs. Sally Victor said that if women paid more attention to masculine advice, there would be fewer outlandish hats in the Easter parade.

"Men for the most part have better taste than women," said Mrs. Victor, who makes the hats worn by the nation's first lady.

Does Mrs. Eisenhower listen to the President?

"She certainly does," said the milliner. "I don't know of any hat he's turned thumbs down on completely. But she gets the same glow as any other woman when complimented on what she's wearing.

Men like women in feminine hats, she said. "I don't mean fussy," she added, "but soft in line and color. Men don't like those stiff, wired-looking sailors, for instance."

Mrs. Victor said that despite all the warnings, the Easter parade will be cluttered with hat mistakes. She listed some of the inevitable buying errors.

"The biggest is buying a hat because a friend likes it," she said.

Another is the woman's insistence on a certain color because "someone told her when she was 16 the shade was flattering, and she's been featuring it ever since. Women forget that skin tone and hair color change from those sweet-16 days."

Or, a woman buys a hat because it's "safe"—the shape, she explained, was becoming 20 years ago so the woman assumes it still is, although she may be heavier, her face fuller, her shoulders rounder.

"Don't shop with a pre-conceived notion of the size and shape of hat you want," said Mrs. Victor.

Another mistake: Buying a hat without really seeing it. Mrs. Victor said most women buy hats sitting down, and never stand up and walk around to see how the hat balances with the figure and the costume.

"Proportion,' she said, "is everything in dress."

Look at the hat from all angles she added. Try to see it as others will.

"And, " Mrs. Victor said, "if you go to a milliner, trust her.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM ARTHUR WADE

Miss Trisler, William Wade Say Vows In Start Baptist Church

The Start Baptist Church was the recent setting for the marriage of Miss Faye Margie Trisler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noah R. Trisler and William Arthur Wade, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Wade, of Pinson, Tenn.

White cathedral tapers in wrought iron holders formed the background for the baskets of white iris and spirea decorating the altar of the church. Their vows were heard by the Rev. Joe Mangle and the nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Mangle.

Mr. Trisler gave his daughter in marriage. Her gown was of lace and tulle. A short fitted jacket of lace was worn over the sleeveless bodice of lace and tulle and lace formed the very full skirt. Her shoulder length veil fell from a tiara of pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of white orchids, roses and stephanotis tied with white satin streamers.

Miss Patricia Fuller was her cousin's maid of honor. Miss LaJuana Flint was the bridesmaid and Miss Linda Moore, of Monroe was the junior maid. They all wore dresses of summer cotton fashioned with fitted bodices and bouffant skirts. In their hair they wore bandeaux of leaves with a cluster of matching roses at the side, and carried nosegays of roses. Miss Fuller was dressed in blue and the other attendants in pink and yellow.

Raye Trisler, twin brother of the bride, was the best man. Groomsmen and ushers, Billy Whitten, Leroy Derek and James Flint.

A reception followed in the home of the bride. Mrs. Trisler received her guests in a gown of navy blue lace with which she wore blue and pink accessories and a corsage of pink roses. She was assisted by Mrs. Wade, mother of the groom who was wearing a blue silk frock with black and white accessories and corsage of white flowers.

Yellow and white decorated the reception rooms and the brides' table in the dining room was covered with a lace cloth over yellow and centered with the tiered wedding cake embossed in white and yellow flowers. Miss Mary Nell Eager served the cake and Miss Dolores Nolan poured punch.

Mr. and Mrs. Wade left immediately for a trip to New Orleans, and on their return Mrs. Wade will remain with her family until after her graduation in June from Start High School. She will then join her husband who is serving with the army at Fort Chaffee, Ark. The bride traveled in a spring suit of black velveteen with wedge wood blue accessories.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Wade, Miss Martha Ann Wade and Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Maness of Pinson, Tenn., and Mrs. Victor Moore and Miss Linda Moore of Monroe.

Junior Easter Belles Grow Elegant

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

The youngest set is just as fussy about up - to - the - minute styles as any member of the ten - best-dressed list, says Irving Shepard, a father of four daughters.

Shepard started making little girl's clothes in 1943, when his first daughter was born. This proved a wise move, for now he has a home-made fashion jury: Lorin, 14 Karla, 12, Robin, 10 and Sameth, 8.

"They were all supposed to be boys," says Shepard, "but of course, if they had been, I would have had to go into the boys' wear business. I guess everything works out for the best."

"The girls wear the new dresses to school, and collect opinions. If the other youngsters approve, the dresses go in the line.

"I've leaned one thing— children make their own choices, almost from the time they're old enough to walk. We have a new generation of fashion- conscious little girls, who know exactly what they want and how they want it. They have been exposed to fashion all their lives — on television, in magazines and newspapers. They no longer wear just anything their mothers pick out for them. They have their own ideas. And most of the time those ideas are good."

This spring, Shepard points out, small - fry fashions emulate all the leading trends of grown-up clothes — the ladylike look, the new air of elegance, the new silhouettes. Says he:

YWCA Activities

"Here's Your Cue For A Happier You!" Your YWCA, one of the participating agencies of the United Giver's Fund, through its many activities has this cue! One of the "cue" highlights is the "Dutch Treat Luncheon and Style Review" on Saturday, April 27th, at 12:30 p.m. The latest fashions will be presented by the various groups of YWCA members: Y-Teens, Y. R. G.'s, Y-Ves', Business and Professional Girls, and the Board of Directors; Mrs. J. Norman Coon will be in charge of the program; Mrs. Bridger Thornhill will be in charge of the Style Review; Mrs. P. A. Poag and Miss Donna Rhea Welch, one of the Y-Teens, will be in charge of the music; Mrs. Johnny Lewis is serving as publicity chairman; and Mrs. A. E. Allen will be in charge of decorations. This gala and enjoyable affair is your cue so make your reservation now!

Every other week the Business & Professional Girls have "the cue" and have such interesting and enjoyable program and activities. Mrs. Sam Humphries, one of the sponsors for the group entertained the girls in her home with an informal dinner and "social."

The Y-VES through their club programs and meetings find "the cue" because of the many varied types of activities: speakers with inspiring and informative talks; demonstrations on "clothes," "patio cooking," "holiday foods and decorations, and trips; such as the one to the Cerebral Palsy Center; socials such as the "Spring Coffee," cover-dish luncheon, friendship card parties, and benefit bridge; and the classes: speech and bridge. A nursery for small children is provided through the cooperation of the First Methodist Church of Monroe.

The Board of Directors and the various committees such as the Y-Teen Committee which met this week find "the cue" through sharing ideas, planning, and serving in the program. The members of the Y-Teen committee: Mrs. John Lewis, chairman, Mrs. John McCarter, Mrs. Mike John, Jr., Mrs. Jack Masur, Mrs. Russell Kettering, Mrs. W. L. Jones met to make plans for the activities of the Y-Teens which include the "Open House" for parents, the trip to Shreveport, the Rally, and an effective program for all groups of the teen age program. Mrs. I. T. Landby, Mrs. Norman Coon, Mrs. J. B. Thornhill, and Mrs. Wayne Gray are members of this committee, also.

During the club meetings for the Shady Grove Club, the Lenwil, and the Woodlawn Club the program has been "I Am A Citizen" stressing "teen-age" citizenship in the club, in the school, community, state, nation, and world. The girls who took part from Woodlawn: Dorothy Conville, Ann Walthall, Emma Lou Starr, Jean Smith, Elizabeth McNeese, Barbara Worley, Judy Van, and Nita Moore. From Lenwil group the following were on the program: Alene Davis, Carolyn Gibson, Sandy Hailey, Minne Ann Walker, Elaine Avery, Pat Dulaney, Pat Jones, Glenda Alford, Mary Jane Smith as pianist, and Dorothy Holcomb, leader. For Woodlawn Club the following girls participated: Carol Antley, Betty Dale Gilbert, Carolyn Hollis, Nellie Aarant, Kathryn West, Glenda Bunn, Johnnie Taylor, Joyce Smith, and Sue Murphy, and Ann Beard served as pianist. The Ouachita Parish 7th Grade are working on a crafts project. Mrs. G. W. Pomeroy was the guest speaker for the freshman and sophomore Y-Teens from Ouachita Parish High School. Regina Kirk, one of the delegates to the conference in Pine Bluff gave a most interesting and enjoyable report on her experiences of conference.

"The cue" may be for your own personal enjoyment or for sharing in programs and activities that will provide the cue for other's happiness, but through the YWCA there is "Your Cue For A Happier You!" Why not come to the YWCA and find yours?

MRS. CARLIE RAY MAYBERRY, is the former Miss Charline Boyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Boyd, of 606 East 15th Street, Big Spring, Tex. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Mayberry, of Mer Rouge Road, Bastrop. The wedding was solemnized March 23 in Carlsbad, N. M.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM ARTHUR WADE

The Start Baptist Church was the recent setting for the marriage of Miss Faye Margie Trisler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noah R. Trisler and William Arthur Wade, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Wade, of Pinson, Tenn.

White cathedral tapers in wrought iron holders formed the background for the baskets of white iris and spirea decorating the altar of the church. Their vows were heard by the Rev. Joe Mangle and the nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Mangle.

Mr. Trisler gave his daughter in marriage. Her gown was of lace and tulle. A short fitted jacket of lace was worn over the sleeveless bodice of lace and tulle and lace formed the very full skirt. Her shoulder length veil fell from a tiara of pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of white orchids, roses and stephanotis tied with white satin streamers.

Miss Patricia Fuller was her cousin's maid of honor. Miss La-Juana Flint was the bridesmaid and Miss Linda Moore, of Monroe was the junior maid. They all wore dresses of summer cotton fashioned with fitted bodices and bouffant skirts. In their hair they wore bandeaux of leaves with a cluster of matching roses at the side, and carried nosegays of roses. Miss Fuller was dressed in blue and the other attendants in pink and yellow.

Raye Trisler, twin brother of the bride, was the best man. Groomsmen and ushers, Billy Whitten, Leroy Derek and James Flint.

A reception followed in the home of the bride. Mrs. Trisler received her guests in a gown of navy blue lace with which she wore blue and pink accessories and a corsage of pink roses. She was assisted by Mrs. Wade, mother of the groom who was wearing a blue silk frock with black and white accessories and corsage of white flowers.

Yellow and white decorated the reception rooms and the brides' table in the dining room was covered with a lace cloth over yellow and centered with the tiered wedding cake embossed in white and yellow flowers. Miss Mary Nell Eager served the cake and Miss Dolores Nolan poured punch.

Mr. and Mrs. Wade left immediately for a trip to New Orleans, and on their return Mrs. Wade will remain with her family until after her graduation in June from Start High School. She will then join her husband who is serving with the army at Fort Chaffee, Ark. The bride traveled in a spring suit of black velveteen with wedge wood blue accessories.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Wade, Miss Martha Ann Wade and Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Maness of Pinson, Tenn., and Mrs. Victor Moore and Miss Linda Moore of Monroe.

Junior Easter Belles Grow Elegant

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

The youngest set is just as fussy about up - to - the - minute styles as any member of the ten - best-dressed list, says Irving Shepard, a father of four daughters.

Shepard started making little girl's clothes in 1943, when his first daughter was born. This proved a wise move, for now he has a home-made fashion jury: Lorin, 14 Karla, 12, Robin, 10 and Sameth, 8.

"They were all supposed to be boys," says Shepard, "but of course, if they had been, I would have had to go into the boys' wear business. I guess everything works out for the best."

"The girls wear the new dresses to school, and collect opinions. If the other youngsters approve, the dresses go in the line.

"I've leaned one thing— children make their own choices, almost from the time they're old enough to walk. We have a new generation of fashion- conscious little girls, who know exactly what they want and how they want it. They have been exposed to fashion all their lives — on television, in magazines and newspapers. They no longer wear just anything their mothers pick out for them. They have their own ideas. And most of the time those ideas are good."

This spring, Shepard points out, small - fry fashions emulate all the leading trends of grown-up clothes — the ladylike look, the new air of elegance, the new silhouettes. Says he:

YWCA Activities

"Here's Your Cue For A Happier You!" Your YWCA, one of the participating agencies of the United Giver's Fund, through its many activities has this cue! One of the "cue" highlights is the "Dutch Treat Luncheon and Style Review" on Saturday, April 27th, at 12:30 p.m. The latest fashions will be presented by the various groups of YWCA members: Y-Teens, Y. R. G.'s, Y-Ves', Business and Professional Girls, and the Board of Directors; Mrs. J. Norman Coon will be in charge of the program; Mrs. Bridger Thornhill will be in charge of the Style Review; Mrs. P. A. Poag and Miss Donna Rhea Welch, one of the Y-Teens, will be in charge of the music; Mrs. Johnny Lewis is serving as publicity chairman; and Mrs. A. E. Allen will be in charge of decorations. This gala and enjoyable affair is your cue so make your reservation now!

Every other week the Business & Professional Girls have "the cue" and have such interesting and enjoyable program and activities. Mrs. Sam Humphries, one of the sponsors for the group entertained the girls in her home with an informal dinner and "social."

The Y-VES through their club programs and meetings find "the cue" because of the many varied types of activities: speakers with inspiring and informative talks; demonstrations on "clothes," "patio cooking," "holiday foods and decorations, and trips: such as the one to the Cerebral Palsy Center; socials such as the "Spring Coffee," cover-dish luncheon, friendship card parties, and benefit bridge; and the classes: speech and bridge. A nursery for small children is provided through the cooperation of the First Methodist Church of Monroe.

The Board of Directors and the various committees such as the Y-Teen Committee which met this week find "the cue" through sharing ideas, planning, and serving in the program. The members of the Y-Teen committee: Mrs. John Lewis, chairman, Mrs. John McCarter, Mrs. Mike John, Jr., Mrs. Jack Masur, Mrs. Russell Kettenring, Mrs. W. L. Jones met to make plans for the activities of the Y-Teens which include the "Open House" for parents, the trip to Shreveport, the Rally, and an effective program for all groups of the teen age program. Mrs. I. T. Landhy, Mrs. Norman Coon, Mrs. J. B. Thornhill, and Mrs. Wayne Gray are members of this committee, also.

During the club meetings for the Shady Grove Club, the Lenwil, and the Woodlawn Club the program has been "I Am A Citizen" stressing "teen-age" citizenship in the club, in the school, community, state, nation, and world. The girls who took part from Woodlawn: Dorothy Conville, Ann Walthall, Emma Lou Starr, Jean Smith, Elizabeth McNeese, Barbara Worley, Judy Van, and Nita Moore. From Lenwil group the following were on the program: Alene Davis, Carolyn Gibson, Sandy Hailey, Minne Ann Walker, Elaine Avery, Pat Dulaney, Pat Jones, Glenda Alford, Mary Jane Smith as pianist, and Dorothy Holcomb, leader. For Woodlawn Club the following girls participated: Carol Antley, Betty Dale Gilbert, Carolyn Hollis, Nellie Aarant, Kathryn West, Glenda Bunn, Johnnie Taylor, Joyce Smith, and Sue Murphy, and Ann Beard served as pianist. The Ouachita Parish 7th Grade are working on a crafts project. Mrs. G. W. Pomeroy was the guest speaker for the freshman and sophomore Y-Teens from Ouachita Parish High School. Regina Kirk, one of the delegates to the conference in Pine Bluff gave a most interesting and enjoyable report on her experiences of conference.

"The cue" may be for your own personal enjoyment or for sharing in programs and activities that will provide the cue for other's happiness, but through the YWCA there is "Your Cue For A Happier You!" Why not come to the YWCA and find yours?

The wedding was celebrated April 6 in Vicksburg. The young couple are making their home in Shreveport.

South, 2 hearts; West, Pass; North, 4 hearts; East, Pass.
South, Pass; West, Pass.
Opening lead: Queen of diamonds.

In today's game contract, declarer did not carry out all his plays in the proper sequence. Sound planning would have called for the postponement of a ruff in the dummy until each time as it would serve as an entry. This sounds rather vague; so let us get down to the specific case.

North buckled on his bidding jacket. Though he held only 11 points in support of hearts, he nevertheless took full responsibility for reaching game, though partner might have a stark minimum.

West led the queen of diamonds, which East won with the ace. In an effort to cut down diamond ruffs in dummy, East returned the queen of hearts. A club shift would seem to us more inviting. Removing dummy's only entry for the possible establishment of the spade suit would certainly appear to be sounder strategy.

Declarer, having been given a breather, failed to capitalize on it. On obtaining the lead he first cashed the king of diamonds and then ruffed the losing diamond in dummy. He then pulled a second round of trumps and started establishing the spade suit.

Had the adverse spades been evenly divided, he would have come off with his skin, but when West failed to answer the third call for spades, it became evident that declarer could establish the long spade but would have no entry to cash it at the end.

At trick four, declarer should have realized that there was no hurry about ruffing the diamond. The ruff could be employed as an entry to dummy in the process of establishing spades.

South should have drawn one more trump and then played the ace, king, and another spade, ruffing in the closed hand. Now declarer ruffs the losing diamond and makes one more spade lead to establish the 13th card of that suit.

The ace of clubs still remains there for entry, and declarer obtains the discard of a losing club.

MISS ROSEMARY WILLIAMSON, whose approaching marriage to George Dean McGrew, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. McGrew, of West Monroe, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. T. Williamson, of West Monroe. The marriage will be solemnized on the evening of May 17th at the Cypress Baptist Church of West Monroe.

Cooking Tips

Cover that saucepan of water you are heating for cooking vegetables or other foods; the vapor that rises and does not escape will help the water to come to a boil rapidly.

Count on ¼ to 1-3 pound of ground beef per person for hamburgers.

Orange juice is good to add to bottled cranberry juice cocktail. Add a little sugar if you like.

Use that parchment paper in which butter comes wrapped for greasing pans.

Baking pastry shells? If large bubbles appear on the shells during the baking, prick them with a fork.

Dried apricots ,after they have been soaked and drained, are delicious cut into slivers and added to a quick bread.

Fry slices of Canadian bacon lightly or they will be dry and hard.

New Fabrics Need Care

By EDWARD S. KITCH

CHICAGO (AP) — Those miracle fabrics should be handled with care.

A panel studying the handling of garments made of man-made fibers has found the most favorable temperature for washing synthetics was 60 degrees, although some can withstand 100 to 120-degree water.

A report submitted by Dr. R.W. Peterson at a meeting of the Textile Research Institute points out that the most harmful variable is spinning the fabrics while they are warm or hot in a drier.

According to the research team, heat activates the fiber molecules and places them in a mobile state. If the fibers are compressed by rapid spinning while warm, the fabric forms deep creases, which become set in the fabric upon cooling.

The recommended drier temperature is about 170 degrees. Light loads require a buffer material such as a towel.

Over the past 10 years, increased production of older man-made fibers and a newer series of synthetics have won a lion's share of the textile market.

U. S. Department of Commerce reports show that the world output of man-made fibers has grown to five billion pounds a year.

Kinds of Fibers

The department also has classified man-made fibers according to their basic raw material. They are:

1. Cellulosic fibers made from wood pulp and cotton linters (rayon and acetate).
2. Protein fibers made from corn, peanuts and milk (zein and casein fibers such as Vicara).
3. Mineral fibers made from sand and limestone and soda ash (glass fibers).
4. Synthetic fibers made from petroleum and coal byproducts (nylon, acrylic, polyester, polythylene and vinyl chloride).

Their manufacture includes three steps:

1. Chemical action or heat transforms the raw material into a viscous solution.
2. Fine streams are formed by forcing the solution through fine holes in a spinneret.
3. These streams harden in a space of a few feet and become solid filaments and then they are twisted and wound on bobbins to form thread.

While these fabrics have many attributes such as high tensile strength, durability and resistance to mildew, they have the drawback of a tendency to electrification by static.

Static Problem

Static electricity is lessened when the synthetics are blended with natural fibers. It is much less of a problem in synthetic fibers with a flat weave. This problem often is overcome with an anti - static compound or metal thread interspersed in the fabric to act as a "ground." but an effective anti - static method is yet to be devised.

Dr. Peterson says the low moisture regain characteristics of synthetics cause difficulties when they are dyed. The high temperatures required for the job and strong chemical processes force makers to dye them during manufacture.

Tent revival services will be held at Emmanuel Baptist church on Wellerman Road, West Monroe, beginning today, according to the Rev. J. A. O. Russell, pastor.

Services will be held each night for two weeks. Various pastors in Trenton Baptist Association will preach.

Dorothy Roe Writes Column From Abroad

Associated Press Women's Editor

LISBON (AP)—It's a little frightening to jump from one world to another between teatime and bedtime — and then to find the sun coming up in Portugal at the time you would be getting home from an evening party in New York.

It's amazing to leave New York in the aftermath of a snowstorm and have breakfast on a sun-drenched terrace overlooking manicured gardens full of climbing geraniums and palm trees, with a white sand beach and a blue sea just beyond.

It's startling to walk down narrow, winding streets bordered by walled gardens and see no traffic jams, hear no honking taxis, know that you have time to stroll. It's an experience strictly of today, when high speed air travel can whisk you halfway across the world between sundown and sunup.

Missing a night's sleep doesn't seem to matter in circumstances such as these. Who wants to waste time sleeping when you can sit in the sun and watch the breakers roll in on a glistening beach, marvel at the cleanliness of a country where they even sweep the grass, and breathe the fragrance of a million flowers?

The first two days of this whirlwind tour of Europe I am spending at Estoril, a beautiful little seaside resort 30 minutes from Lisbon. What matter if the elevator in the hotel is erratic, and you sometimes have to walk up five flights of stairs? Who cares if the bathrooms are antique and the furnishings early Grand Rapids?

The sidewalks are all mosaics, the houses are a panorama of pastel stucco and red tile roofs, there are little ancient chapels on every hand, and the street signs are blue-and-white ceramic tile, set into the high stone walls.

There's a castle, complete with turrets and battlements, just beyond the souvenir stands on the beach. An old man and his wife walk briskly up the middle of a steep street carrying between them a hand-woven basket filled with the week's food supply. Everybody shuts up shop at one o'clock and goes home for lunch and a siesta until three.

In one day in Portugal you lose that frantic feeling of racing against time which is the great American malady. In Portugal nobody is in a hurry. Here they consider it important to take time to enjoy life.

And so far I haven't seen a single television aerial on top of a single red tile roof.

with poise and elegance, neither tense nor timid. When you sit down, slide your feet to the right, putting the toes of the left foot at the heel of the ankle of the right foot. Or reverse this pose to the left.

Your hands should lie loosely across each other in your lap with your palms up. Avoid tenseness, gripping the hands, twisting your handkerchief or similar nervous mannerisms.

You should look chic and gay until the guests decide they've had it (that's one of the penalties of entertaining). Yawning will get you no place. A rude guest is a rude guest. A polite guest may accept the hint, but note you in the future. Get that vision of the stack of dirty dishes out of your mind, and make up your mind that you are in this thing to the finish.

After completing her course in seven and one-half months she received her diploma February 22, 1957 and accepted a position with Olin Industries in West Monroe, in the Traffic Department.

Hostess Needs Charm

It takes charm and dignity to be a good hostess.

If you're having a party just because it is your turn to entertain, why bother? Many factors go into playing hostess and guests shouldn't be conscious you are sluffing off your job. They will, however, if you invite them and then leave them on their own.

Be "put together" before the company arrives. That means being completely dressed (with all your accessories) and relaxed when you greet your company at the door. The party will start on a sour note if you call down from upstairs "I'll be down in a minute" and then make it 10, and arrive looking harrassed even at that.

Aprons are "strictly for the birds" when greeting guests at the door. The most charming apron gives the impression you are busy — just what you should avoid, particularly if you want to avert your guest's "can I help you" queries.

Wear the apron when serving hors d'oeuvres if you are worried about your dress. Wear it too when you pull the casserole out of the oven or rinse a tumbler at the sink. But in between times leave it in the kitchen.

If you are entertaining a number of guests, take time to introduce them properly. Don't dash off saying, "Oh, something is spilling over in the kitchen!" — and leave them awkwardly surveying each other.

Comfort and good conversation are two esssentials of a lively party. If you don't want your social function to die on your guest's feet, make sure there are chairs to go around, just in case they want to rest for a minute. Start the conversation humming by choosing a likely subject, not controversial. You don't want your guests to come to blows before they've tasted your souffle.

If you must suddenly replenish guest towels or answer a child's call, don't tear up the steps or call loudly. Walk up quietly.

You should know how to sit

Dorothy Roe Writes Column From Abroad

Associated Press Women's Editor

LISBON (AP)—It's a little frightening to jump from one world to another between teatime and bedtime — and then to find the sun coming up in Portugal at the time you would be getting home from an evening party in New York.

It's amazing to leave New York in the aftermath of a snowstorm and have breakfast on a sun-drenched terrace overlooking manicured gardens full of climbing geraniums and palm trees, with a white sand beach and a blue sea just beyond.

It's startling to walk down narrow, winding streets bordered by walled gardens and see no traffic jams, hear no honking taxis, know that you have time to stroll. It's an experience strictly of today, when high speed air travel can whisk you halfway across the world between sundown and sunup.

Missing a night's sleep doesn't seem to matter in circumstances such as these. Who wants to waste time sleeping when you can sit in the sun and watch the breakers roll in on a glistening beach, marvel at the cleanliness of a country where they even sweep the grass, and breathe the fragrance of a million flowers?

The first two days of this whirlwind tour of Europe I am spending at Estoril, a beautiful little seaside resort 30 minutes from Lisbon. What matter if the elevator in the hotel is erratic, and you sometimes have to walk up five flights of stairs? Who cares if the bathrooms are antique and the furnishings early Grand Rapids?

The sidewalks are all mosaics, the houses are a panorama of pastel stucco and red tile roofs, there are little ancient chapels on every hand, and the street signs are blue-and-white ceramic tile, set into the high stone walls.

There's a castle, complete with turrets and battlements, just beyond the souvenir stands on the beach. An old man and his wife walk briskly up the middle of a steep street carrying between them a hand-woven basket filled with the week's food supply. Everybody shuts up shop at one o'clock and goes home for lunch and a siesta until three.

In one day in Portugal you lose that frantic feeling of racing against time which is the great American malady. In Portugal nobody is in a hurry. Here they consider it important to take time to enjoy life.

And so far I haven't seen a single television aerial on top of a single red tile roof.

with poise and elegance, neither tense nor timid. When you sit down, slide your feet to the right, putting the toes of the left foot at the heel of the ankle of the right foot. Or reverse this pose to the left.

Your hands should lie loosely across each other in your lap with your palms up. Avoid tenseness, gripping the hands, twisting your handkerchief or similar nervous mannerisms.

You should look chic and gay until the guests decide they've had it (that's one of the penalties of entertaining). Yawning will get you no place. A rude guest is a rude guest. A polite guest may accept the hint, but note you in the future. Get that vision of the stack of dirty dishes out of your mind, and make up your mind that you are in this thing to the finish.

BMI Graduate

Miss Peggy Chapman

Miss Peggy Chapman, daughter of Mrs. T. W. Chapman, was graduated from West Monroe High School in 1956. She enrolled in BMI June 4, 1956 for a General Business Course. After completing her course in seven and one-half months she received her diploma February 22, 1957 and accepted a position with Olin Industries in West Monroe, in the Traffic Department.

Miss Chapman writes: "I would like to say that BMI certainly is a school of high standards. During my attendance at BMI, I learned many of the fundamentals of the everyday business world that are truly helping me in my present position.

"It also helped me to better my knowledge of shorthand, typing, and bookkeeping — subjects that are highly essential in any business office.

"I would readily recommend Bish Mathis Institute to anyone who is interested in furthering his education.

Hostess Needs Charm

It takes charm and dignity to be a good hostess.

If you're having a party just because it is your turn to entertain, why bother? Many factors go into playing hostess and guests shouldn't be conscious you are sluffing off your job. They will, however, if you invite them and then leave them on their own.

Be "put together" before the company arrives. That means being completely dressed (with all your accessories) and relaxed when you greet your company at the door. The party will start on a sour note if you call down from upstairs "I'll be down in a minute" and then make it 10, and arrive looking harrassed even at that.

Aprons are "strictly for the birds" when greeting guests at the door. The most charming apron gives the impression you are busy — just what you should avoid, particularly if you want to avert your guest's "can I help you" queries.

Wear the apron when serving hors d'oeuvres if you are worried about your dress. Wear it too when you pull the casserole out of the oven or rinse a tumbler at the sink. But in between times leave it in the kitchen.

If you are entertaining a number of guests, take time to introduce them properly. Don't dash off saying, "Oh, something is spilling over in the kitchen!" — and leave them awkwardly surveying each other.

Comfort and good conversation are two esssentials of a lively party. If you don't want your social function to die on your guest's feet, make sure there are chairs to go around, just in case they want to rest for a minute. Start the conversation humming by choosing a likely subject, not controversial. You don't want your guests to come to blows before they've tasted your souffle.

If you must suddenly replenish guest towels or answer a child's call, don't tear up the steps or call loudly. Walk up quietly.

You should know how to sit

Active Sports Demand Extra Grooming Care

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

Whenever women engage in sports there is a danger of a breakdown in the fastidious look admired by men.

More women are interested in sports than ever before, with skiing and bowling the two fastest growing recreations for women.

Skiing is a sport that encourages fashionable dress for the most part, but bowling often is a "wear what you have" activity.

If a girl assumes a casual attitude about clothes, wearing wrinkled or "it's just been worn twice" outerwear in the belief it will 'get dirty anyway," she can't be attractive. A girl must be well-groomed at all times to maintain the standard she has set for her wardrobe.

Wear polished shoes to the bowling alley, and place clean bowling shoes in your bowling bag. Wear clean hose. Your feet will perspire and besides the discomfort, there is always the danger of athlete's foot, if socks aren't clean. Skirts, slacks or sports dress should be fresh and clean. Anything white should be bright white.

If you want to dress up your sports ensemble, wear tailored jewelry. (Leave rhinestone pins, bracelets, necklaces and earrings in your jewel box.) Pin your hair back so that it is not screening out your view when you are engaged in rolling the ball, but don't spoil the effect of a lovely appearance by wearing some unflattering headgear—net, bandanna or what have you. And, above all, do not show up for the match in pin-curled hair. No matter how busy one is, there should never be an excuse for leaving home with the hair in pincurls.

Perspiration is the big nuisance of an active sport such as bowling. You can't leave the bowling alley every few minutes to take a shower. But you can take precautions by using a deodorant and taking one along in your bowling bag. A deodorant with the roll-on type applicator is easy to use and leaves no sticky fingers to cause further inconvenience. It is easily and quickly applied.

The wonderful thing about bowling is that it has attracted so many housewives to its fold. After the youngsters are put to bed. Mom and Dad can get out for some healthful recreation. Working girls too, find the sport relaxing after a sedentary day in office or factory.

Add curry powder and lemon juice to mayonnaise and serve over sliced hard - cooked eggs and romaine for a noontime salad.

Verbal Thanks All Necessary

Question: Two weeks ago I was invited to Annapolis for a week end. Mr. and Mrs. Jones, who are friends of my parents, were driving their daughter down and invited me to go with them. I gladly accepted and they called for me at my house. They dropped me off at the place where I was to stay and we agreed on a central meeting place for our return trip. I expressed my appreciation and thanks when we returned home. Mrs. Jones later told a friend of my mother's that she thought I was remiss in not sending a note of thanks and that most young ladies who went with them sent some token, such as a handkerchief, to her. As they were not my hosts but offered only transportation, I did not feel anything beyond verbal thanks was necessary. Will you please tell me if I was wrong?

Mrs. Post: In the situation you describe, I would say that your verbal thanks was sufficient.

Question: Will you please tell me if it is proper to use your drinking glass for a finger bowl after you finish your meal? I mean when finger bowls are not served. I was shocked to see this done by a man who otherwise has perfect table manners.

Mrs. Post: To put your fingers into your glass? — definitely not! But if fingers are sticky, you could hold a corner of your napkin against the rim of your glass and tipping it slightly to moisten the corner, wipe your fingers on it.

Question: Would it be unsuitable for my husband to wear a brown suit to a late afternoon wedding reception, or must it be dark blue? My husband has a blue suit but it is rather shabby and he does have a new brown one which is very becoming.

Mrs. Post: Since he is not a member of the wedding party he may properly wear his brown suit.

Question: My boss will be retiring soon. I have been working for him for seven years and would like to know whether or not it would be proper to give him a gift when he retires. If so, should I give it to him at the office or send it to him at his house?

Mrs. Post: It is certainly not expected that you give him a gift. But if you very much wish to and you know of something that he would like, it would be quite proper for you to give it to him. I think you should give it to him in his office.

Question: I would like to send flowers or candy to several ladies on Mother's Day because of the many kindnesses and the gracious welcome I always receive. They are all mature women with grown families. Would it be proper for me to do this even though I am related in no way save that of friendship with their children?

Mrs. Post: I think it is a lovely gesture and could not fail to please them.

Question: Would you kindly tell me how I could properly introduce a young man and woman who have so much in common that I feel they would become the best of friends (with perhaps romance added)? Neither has any idea of the other's existence but I should love to have them meet. How could I arrange this in a perfectly proper way?

Mrs. Post: Invite them to your house together for lunch or dinner or to a party that you are giving.

Question: Will you kindly tell me if, when a man plans to remarry, it is proper to invite a sister and brother of his deceased wife to the wedding.

Mrs. Post: If he has remained friendly with them, he should go to see them (or telephone them) and say that if it will not make them unhappy, he would like very much to have them with him on that day.

Question: Is it improper for a girl who is marrying for the first time to have a big wedding with bridesmaids and wedding finery when it is the bridegroom's second venture? He is a widower.

Mrs. Post: It is entirely proper that the bride have as big a wedding as she pleases. However, if he is marrying only a short time after the death of his first wife, a conspicuously large and elaborate wedding would be criticized.

Question: I was elected corresponding secretary for a women's auxiliary. Do I sign my name as Mary Black (Mrs. W. S.) or just Mary Black? Also, during an election the names of the women delegates were called out as Mary Smith, Jane Doe, instead of Mrs. John Smith, Mrs. Henry Doe, etc. Wasn't this incorrect?

Mrs. Post: Correctly you add (Mrs. W. S.) after your signature.

4-Year Terms Meted Parents Of Dead Child

ALTUS, Okla., April 13 (UP) — Justice, in the form of four-year suspended sentences, was rendered swifty yesterday in order that a 22-year-old airman and his 17-year-old wife could be released from jail to attend the funeral of a baby they allowed to starve.

Charles Richards and his wife, Martha, pleaded guilty to second degree manslaughter in the death of the infant, Steven Lynn Richards. The 10-week-old child died Tuesday in its crib, with a partially-filled milk bottle at its side.

Officers said a physician reported the child had died of starvation, although ample food supplies were found in the couple's home, and two older children appeared well fed.

The parents were brought before Peace Justice Frank Penick and pleaded innocent, then waived preliminary hearing and were bound over to district court. Taken before District Judge Weldon Farris, they said they had no money to hire a lawyer. After a short conference with a court-appointed attorney, Stansell Whiteside, the couple pleaded guilty and asked for quick disposition of the case.

Farris imposed four - year sentences and ordered them released.

Bookshop Gives Children Outlet For Reading Ideas

By BETTY WALKER
Staff Writer

Everyone agrees. Children's minds should be broadened. Churches supply the need for spiritual uplifting; parents supervise the need for social uplifting; schools supply the need for mental uplifting. But these are not enough; children need the intangible something that only good books can give. Parents realize this need; public libraries nourish it. But there is nothing like having a book "of their very own."

The story begins. Miss Julia Wossman, for years outstanding principal of Barkdull - Faulk School, retired. Mrs. Nelson Abell, a former pupil of "Miss Julia's" found a lot of time on her hands. Both women were very close to children; both understood them through first-hand experience; both loved them.

Could they, together, fulfill a need? There was nothing in Monroe devoted to children's books! So, the Children's Bookshop was born — not so much a commercial enterprise, as it was a fruitherance of interest in children.

At the Bookshop, the child is King. A mother and five-hear-old son walked into the Bookshop. While she was making small-talk with the proprietors, the child disappeared. "Where is Tommy? she asked. Then they spied the boy—sitting on the floor under a desk—with a book.

Further investigation revealed that the pre-schoolder was "reading" an extremely large, elaborately illustrated book. Its subject, the beginning of time.

Mrs. Abell went to sit at the desk. The mother asked the child to move—but no! "Let him alone while he is reading," scolded Mrs Abell. She and Miss Julia knew that children should be encouraged to read good books. If the bottom of a desk was the place to do it, so be it.

"As the twig is bent, so shall it grow." If children's minds are going to be broadened, proper books must be placed in their hands. If children are going to enjoy the uplifting process —and they must—books must be enticing. At the bookshop, any book printed for a five-year-old, or a ten-year-old, is within easy reach. There are no "closed stacks" with "do not touch" signs on them. The books are really for children. Most of them are beautifully illustrated, well-written, and easily read. History, science, geography, reading — any subject—is made enjoyable for all ages.

To be technical, "Children's" Bookshop is a misnomer. Children do not have a corner on the book market at the shop. Teens can find selections geared to their own particular problems. The housewife can find excellent cookbooks and garden information. The man of the house hasn't been forgotten. The best seller? The Bible.

Schools and churches all over Northeast Louisiana have stocked their libraries with books from the bookshop.

Be it a misnomer, be it a commercial bookstore — to buy a good book for your child, or yourself, is to buy a little bit of Miss Julia's and Mrs. Abell's love for children, and a lot of the future.

Foul Play In Shreveport Fire Death Probed

SHREVEPORT, La., April 13 (AP) —Police say someone may have locked Jesse Kraft, 65, in a three-room riverfront shack yesterday and roasted him alive. Kraft died of burns several hours later.

A neighbor, Johnny Yates, broke the lock on the flaming shack and found Kraft lying on the floor. He was burned from the waist up.

Firemen said the lock was enough to have trapped Kraft in the blaze.

Hall Kissing, Is It Proper For Students?

BALTIMORE April 13, (AP) —The girl with the pony tail and saddle shoes moved closer to him and sighed. The freckle-faced boy with the "K" on his sweater puckered and leaned down.

Then a teacher rounded the corner in the hall and their moment was gone.

Four hundred at Kenwood High School think so. Another 650 of the 2,400 pupils in the big, modern, suburban school think it's perfectly all right to do a bit of hugging, but to postpone the bussing at least until after school.

A whopping 1,584 se nothing wrong in sashaying down the hall arm-in-arm. And 96 per cent of the student body give their blessing to hand-holding.

The survey on this perennial spring pursuit was made by the school's biweekly newspaper, The Spotlight.

Kenwood's principal, Joshua Wheeler, was neither surprised or disturbed by the poll's outcome.

"I believe these results show that the student body, as a whole, feels the same about boy-girl relationships as does the faculty," he observed.

"Although the idea that 400 Kenwoodites approve of kissing in the corridors seems rather shocking, I am very satisfied with the results of the survey."

4-Year Terms Meted Parents Of Dead Child

ALTUS, Okla., April 13 (UP) — Justice, in the form of four-year suspended sentences, was rendered swifty yesterday in order that a 22-year-old airman and his 17-year-old wife could be released from jail to attend the funeral of a baby they allowed to starve.

Charles Richards and his wife, Martha, pleaded guilty to second degree manslaughter in the death of the infant, Steven Lynn Richards. The 10-week-old child died Tuesday in its crib, with a partially-filled milk bottle at its side.

Officers said a physician reported the child had died of starvation, although ample food supplies were found in the couple's home, and two older children appeared well fed.

The parents were brought before Peace Justice Frank Penick and pleaded innocent, then waived preliminary hearing and were bound over to district court. Public Support Needed To Build Local Museum

By MARIE KENT

Members of the Ouachita Genealogical and Historical Society realize that it will take great efforts to establish a museum. But it can be done. It is already becoming a reality. This huge task should not be left to a small "hand - full" of people. We understand that this has been a dream of many people of this area for several years.

The pride of our whole people should be aroused until more is done toward preserving our records and historic relics. It is being done all over the country so why can't we, the people of this area, compete?

What do you have to donate? Is it time, money, labor, relics or support? It is not the pen of a famous writer or the sword of a great general we are seeking for our museum collection. It is not the way of life of our men of history books that we propose to recall and reclaim, but that of the little men, the forgotten men, the men that really made our history. Any thing pertaining to local history is a prized donation.

What about that old powder horn of your grandfathers, the side-saddle your grandmother rode in so gracefully, the snuff box, candle snuffer, confederate money, notes, wills, diaries and all the other items in your attic which your friends refer to as "junk"? Do they not reflect the way of life of your forefathers? They were the men who dreamed, fought, lived and died to make the history we are so justly proud of. You should be proud to add them to a museum collection in memory of those wonderful people and for the sake of posterity. If you are interested call Mrs. Doris Tynes phone 2-6476 for information

A part of your museum collection is now on display at Northeast Louisiana State College. Plan to visit it soon to see what has been accomplished thus far and get ideas as to how you can do your part in helping establish a much needed museum and archival program for this area. It is the public opinion that really counts. We need a public plan for the preservation of our records. Let this be said periodically until it sinks deep into the hearts of our patriotic citizens.

There s no reason why we should lag behind the other states. Come forth fellow citizens and let us come up to date.

In conclusion, members of the Ouachita Genealogical and Historical Society wish to express heartfelt thanks to the News-Star—World for their support in this program.

Pay Raise For Texas Teachers; No Taxes Seen

AUSTIN, April 13 (UP) — Gov. Price Daniel expressed hope yesterday a teacher pay rise bill can be passed by the Legislature without boosting taxes or the necessity of a special session.

Daniel said at a news conference he believed $50 million would be available in state funds for the teachers pay boost, after the general appropriation is passed.

The governor has endorsed a proposed $399-a-year teacher pay raise which would cost an estimated $67 million in state funds.

"I'm for the full increase if there is any way of getting it—even with a tax bill," Daniel said.

However, he added, "I'm going to be practical—and try to work it out without a tax bill or special session if at all possible."

Daniel said he thought there was a "strong feeling" in the Legislature against a tax bill this session. The House yesterday on a tes vote slapped down a proposed $35 million natural gas tax on "dedicated reserves," endorsed by the governor.

ROUND VOYAGE

A Novel Of Love, Passion On The Sea

By RECA JASPER

THE ROUND VOYAGE, By John Rowan Wilson, (Doubleday, $3.50).

Sweat coats the deputy purser's brow as he watches Customs search his cabin. Not because of the boiling Australian heat—but because the searcher might find the package he is smuggling.

Young David has accepted a mysterious stranger's offer to peddle equally mysterious packages from ports to ports as much to relieve the tedious journeys as for the extra money.

The story takes place during the Sydney - London run when the stranger requests the deputy purser to deliver something other than a package — he is to smuggle a man to another port by boldly signing him aboard as a crewman.

From there on the story races. Enter a bewitching, promiscuous daughter of a high government official. She quickly casts a spell over David, who forgets the steady affection of the ship's nurse for the more thrilling excitement offered by the alluring newcomer.

What heretofore had been a dull run for David now becomes an adventurous one. Julia, whose father ranks high in the English government and has gained international fame by a television program, is first affectionate, then in sullen moods, keeping the love - smitten David in suspense. To impress Julia, he tells her about his smuggling.

This proves to be a mistake as he soon realizes. In addition to his romantic troubles, David is plagued by others. The purser becomes ill and he is named acting purser; money is stolen; a woman claims a crewman attempted to rape her; the crew stages a riot; the man he forced to sign on board becomes involved with Julia.

By the time the ship docks, David has changed from a callow youth to a mature man.

'SUNRISE'

CAMERA NOTES

Clouds Can Make Fine Photo Subject

By JOHN OLDENBURG
Camera Editor

While spending a delightful weekend on a YMCA campout for Dads and Sons, I had many opportunities to shoot some rare scenic pictures . . . Camp Alabama is one of the most picturesque shots in northern Louisiana, and of course, afforded several of us dads, who had the foresight to bring a camera, opportunities to shoot a number of rolls of film.

After a more or less sleepless night, I was aroused by a very ambitious son who said, "Better Wake up, Dad. You'll miss the sunrise." Opening a sleepy eye, I rolled over and glanced out of the window and viewed a wonderful sight. Somewhere down deep inside that little photo bug whispered, "Get up, you lazy boy; you're missing a shot of a lifetime." The little photo bug won the argument which my lazy body put up, and there I was with a camera hanging around my neck, and shooting pictures at the unearthly hour of 5:30 a.m.

"Sunrise" was shot with a 3.5 Rollie set on a tripod. I set the F stop at 22, the shutter at one second, put a K2 filter in front of the lens and started shooting. Of course, the foreground went almost black in the finished print, but it helps to accent the earliness of the hour, and to call attention to the beauty of the actual sunrise. Shooting into the sun is rather tricky and can sometimes result in a burned spot in the final print, which would take some special handling when blown up in the enlarger.

A couple of my sunrise shots explain what a "hot spot" is - on the negative it will look like a very dark area through which one cannot set any light when held before a strong source of light. This, of course, will result in an extremely white spot on the finished print unless the processor of the film will allow this dark portion of the negative to be exposed for an additional period of time. This is done on the enlarger by cuting a small hole in the center of a sheet of paper, and after exposing the sensitized paper for the required time for a normal print, place the paper with the hole in it in front of the enlarger lens so that only the portion of the negative which is dark will be printing. Adjust the time for this by experimenting with some small strips of paper before trying for a finished print.

Clouds always have a beauty of their own. To bring this beauty out in a photograph, one must use filters which will heighten the contrasts in their colors and also remove the haze. Usually a K2 filter will do this or perhaps even a deep red filter might have a tendency to pull them out in the picture.

At this time of the year when nature is arrayed in all her beauty of newness and color, one should not miss a single chance to capture that glory (even if it means getting up at 5:30 a.m.).

By the way, I did receive some baby pictures this week, but not nearly enough as I would like to make a nice layout in a week or so of those favorite poses. Send them in right away to Camera Notes, Monroe News-Star — World, Monroe.

New Novel By Dean Acheson Is Revealing

A CITIZEN LOOKS AT CONGRESS. By Dean Acheson. Harper.

Acheson says Congress should use its investigative powers to get the facts to help it debate, test and criticize foreign and other major administration policies.

"It is not necessary to pry into secrets which would help our adversaries," he writes, "but it is necessary continually to prod officialdom into letting our own people know what well-informed people elsewhere know."

Acheson was secretary of state for the last four years of the Truman administration. His first book after leaving the Cabinet was "A Democrat Looks at His Party."

He says time has brought about a reversal of the legislative and executive roles as conceived in the Constitution, adding, "Today —and even more tomorrow — it is the president who initiates and proposes policy; it is the Congress which approves, modifies, or vetoes."

The division of powers is so vague, he adds, that both the president and Congress "can insist upon the legitimacy" of what each does.

The way to more effective legislative action will not be found in formulas or in the mechanics of organization, Acheson writes, although he feels restricting time-consuming investigations to "the essential minimum" and reducing the size of Senate committees, with each senator serving on only one committee, would help.

Congress in facing problems of increasing complexity must use the "honest and common sense" approach, the writer continues. It cannot hope to take over the executive task of administering the government, although the "attempt will always be made and some damage will be done."

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Many New Books Now At Public Library

By FRANCES FLANDERS

Among the new books added to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library during the past week there is one important book of fiction and a number of interesting non-fiction titles. The book of fiction is "Challenge to Venus" written by Charles Morgan. From the pen of a master craftsman flows this mystical love story set in Varenna, an ancient Italian hill town. The ill-fated lovers are the beautiful widow Fiammetta and the Englishman, Martin Lyghe. The author infuses his story with fine, subtle touches and in his expert fashion, paints a vivid picture of Italian aristocratic society.

BIOGRAPHIES

Biographies are always popular with our patrons. A most interesting autobiography received this week is "A Mirror for Narcissus" written by Negley Farson. As many of you will remember he wrote a chronicle of his early life several years ago, which he called "The Way of a Transgressor." Where most people have experiences, Mr. Farson has ADVENTURES. In this book he tells us what he has been doing since 1935. He has known an amazing variety of people, from cabinet members to coal miners. He has been to odd, interesting places and says that he no longer travels to see the world, but to see what effect the world will have on him. A literary autobiography is "Days of the Phoenix" by Van Wyck Brooks. This is an account of the great literary figures of the nineteen-twenties. Mr. Brooks is an expert in the field of American literature and has painted a graphic portrait of the period.

ARTS-MUSIC

In the field of the arts there are two interesting new books. One is called "Olin Downes on Music" and was edited by the wife of the late music critic. This is a selection of his writings during the half-century from 1906 to 1955. This is a book which will be very popular with musicians. An American institution which had a remarkable influence on the cultural development of our country was the showboat which plied the western rivers.

SHOWBOATS, RIVERS

Philip Graham has written an interesting account of the history and activities of this type of frontier entertainment which he calls simply "Showboats." The book is a delightful and authoritative record of America's showboats, from the first one launched in 1831, to the last, now tied up at a St. Louis dock. It is also a record of the men and women who built and loved these floating theaters, of those who performed on their stages, and of the thousands who made up their audiences. These showboats brought their rich cargoes of entertainment—genuine laughter, a glimpse of other worlds, a respite from the grindnig hardships of the present, emotional relaxation — to valley farmers, isolated factory workers and miners, and backwoodsmen who otherwise would have lacked all such opportunities. This is a book for the student of the American theater as well as the student of history.

Books of spiritual help are also no one even knew of their existence. At that time the first clay tablets bearing curiously wedge - shaped signs were dug from the mounds in Mesopotamia. Since then devoted scientists around the world have unlocked the door to the secrets of the wedge-shaped signs and in doing so, have provided us with some of the most startling discoveries of modern archeology. A very fine publication which comes out six times a year is called "American Heritage." It is a periodical in hard covers dealing with different period of American history. It is beautifully illustrated and contains much valuable material dealing with the early history of our country. Another valuable book for students of history is "Everyday Life in Anglo Saxon, Viking and Norman England" written by the Quennells. It gives a very fine picture of life in this period. "The Rise and Fall of Nazi Germany" by T. L Jarman is highly recommended for everyways popular and we have two new ones in our collection. One is called "A Diary of Private Prayer" and was written by John Baillie and the other is by Glenn Clark and is titled "Come Follow Me." It is an account of the ministry of Jesus in Galilee 2,000 years ago.

HISTORY BOOKS

A knowledge of history which helps us understand our own times by knowing how men have lived in the past is one of the most valuable fields of knowledge. This week we added four titles to our history collection. One is called "A Short History of Ireland" and was written by Roger Chauvire'. It is an interesting account of these charming people and should be popular with everyone who has Irish blood in their veins. Another is called "From the Tables of Sumer." It was written by Samuel Noah Kramer and gives us an interesting account of the life of the Sumerians who lived in the Mesopotamian Valley about 5,000 years ago. Up until 100 years one who wants to review the history of these people.

OCCUPATIONS, HOBBIES

The public library in addition to offering information on cultural and historical subjects is also a source of very valuable information on occupations and hobbies. Among this weeks additions are books on a variety of subjects. One of these is called "Book Collecting" and the author is Rovert L. Collison. Another is a "Practical Pictorial Guide to Mechanisms and Machines" by S. S. Palestrant. It is really a pictorial dictionary of mechanisms used with all sorts of machines and appliances. It should be extremely valuable.

CRUEL BUT GOOD

One Of Roark's Best Is About Cocks' Fighting In Louisiana

By LERA MORGAN

THE CRUEL COCKS, by Garland Roark (Doubleday & Company—$3.75).

As David Boutte turned away from the fighting cocks in the arena, he spied a momentary movement on the stock of dead cocks that had been thrown to one side. One of the defeated cocks was still alive. His first impulse was to wiring the poor creature's neck to end its misery. Instead, without knowing why, he tucked the bird under his shirt and walked back to his father's shrimp lugger. This act of kindness was to send David Bouette, a thirteen year old boy from Bayou Lafourche, deep in the heart of south Louisiana, on a whirling career that he never dreamed possible.

The cock, which David named Petit Bayley, slowly gained strength and health under the gentle hands of his rescuer, and David developed a great respect and affection for so brave a bird. His daily promise to Bayley was that he would never have to fight again.

David's father, Jean Bouette, long acknowledged as the best loved, and most irresponsible man on the Bayou Lafourche, had great plans for Bayley however, which he tried vainly to keep from David. Being a gambling man, he saw in Bayley a chance to promote the practice of cock fighting in the small communities along the Bayou, and with a cock that walked with a limp as Bayley did, the betting odds could possibly make him a rich man. Against David's wishes, and better judgment, Jean made plans to pit Bayley against cocks owned by local people of the Bayou.

Working his way from a pile of dead cocks Bayley reached the top and became known nationwide for his skill and prowess as a fighter. David became famous as a trainer of fighting cocks, however his fame did not make the pitting of Bayley any easier for him. He loved the cock, and could hardly stand by the arena where he was fighting without becoming ill.

"Bill your cocks" was a phrase that filled David with fear and apprehension. He was not ever to know whether this feeling of fear stemmed from the thought of losing the game cock he loved, or maybe from a sense of guilt that the talks Father Villeneuve gave him on the evils of cock fighting.

Garland Roark has brought to his book in words the color of the "Cajun Country" of Louisiana with his descriptions of the beautiful Bayou Lafourche and the easy - going yet eventful lives of the people living along its banks.

Story Of Writer Told Sincerely

Very few first novels received the critical acclaim of Flood's "Love Is A Bridge" which appeared in 1953, and now Flood, still under 30 years of age, has published his second, "A Distant Drum." If it fails to match the first in scope and depth, it makes up in intensity, for this is the story of a young writer finding himself and it is told with the same technical proficiency and sincerity that distinguished Flood's first book.

Here is a writer who runs contrary to the current American literary trend on almost every score except ability. He writes about people of position and means instead of those who are striving to stay afloat economically, but he gives them substance and reality. He is a devout Catholic, but there is no trace of sanctimoniousness. He believes earnestly in the American ideal, but without chauvinism. Any of these qualities in an Englishman, or even a continental writer, would occasion no surprise, but here in the United States in 1957 they seem surprisingly original.

"A Distant Drum" has obvious autobiographical qualities, since the first part is set at Harvard, which Flood attended, and the last is concerned with the United States army, for which Flood volunteered and from which he was painfully separated. Tying the two frustrating love story.

Oddly enough the army experiences come through much more vividly than lo those at Harvard or on Park Avenue. "A Distant Drum" is a highly readable, solid book.

Nothing Strange In Playing Mozart

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK, April 13 (UP) — As Irving Kolodin aptly points out in the album notes, there no longer is the slightest novelty about Benny Goodman playing Mozart. He is a master musician and master of his instrument. Mozart is the musician's musician. What remains, then, is to report that Goodman has a new Mozart record.

It is a recording of his playing of Mozart's clarinet concerto and clarinet quintet, both of which he has recorded before but not with this polish, thoughtfulness and musical sophistication. For the concerto, he played with the Boston Symphony, and for the quintet with a quartet of string players drawn from that orchestra (RCA Victor - LM2073.)

Lesser known and perhaps more subtle Mozart has been admirably recorded in the Missa Brevis K.194 and the Credo Mass K.257. Bernhard Paumgartner, that sensitive if somewhat rigid Mozartian, was in charge of the singers, choir, and orchestra of the Salzberg Mozarteum (Epic-3323.)

To add to the list of the better-recorded performances of Mozart's Requiem is one made by Vienese singers and players with Herman Scherchen conducting (Ducretet-Thomson-93079.)

in a LOVING, SOVEREIGN GOD

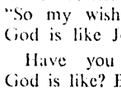
A little brown-eyed girl returning home from Sunday school said to her mother, "I wish God were like Jesus."

When her mother asked her what she thought about God, she indicated that to her God was distant and unfriendly. She thought Jesus kind, friendly, and very close.

Her mother explained to her that much of what we know about God is what Jesus told us about him. She reminded her of the statement Jesus used to describe God to his disciples: "O righteous Father, the world hath not known thee: but I have known thee . . ." (John 17:25), and "He that hath seen me hath seen the Father" (John 14:9). Her mother said that Jesus came to earth and showed us what God is like.

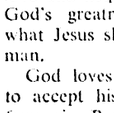
With her big brown eyes she looked at her mother and said, "So my wish has come true. God is like Jesus."

Have you wondered what God is like? Baptists follow the Bible in believing Jesus showed us what God is like. The Bible teaches that God is all powerful, but also that he makes moral laws which he himself obeys. For instance, God has said, "Thou shalt not bear false witness." He does not lie. God is supreme but he is not a cruel dictator, arbitrarily exercising his supreme power without regard for justice.



God is love. Jesus made this very plain. He once said, "God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son . . ." (John 3:16). His love is a giving love.

The greatest demonstration of the supreme power of God is found in what he did in giving his Son to die for us, so that by accepting his Son we might have eternal life with God. God shows his great power in his great love. Love teaches that it is greater to give life than to kill, to build up than to destroy, to give than to get, to lift up than to crush, to heal than to hurt.



The little brown-eyed girl made one of life's greatest discoveries when she found out that all of the love and helpfulness she saw in Jesus is the love and helpfulness God gives. God's greatness is proved in what Jesus showed he does for man.

God loves us and wants us to accept his offer to save us from sin. But he will not force this love on us. We must make our own choice. He will not compel us to accept his love against our will.

God is friendly; he is gracious. He wants to be known as Father. Jesus told his disciples to shut themselves up in a closet with God and say, "Our Father." Alone with God—It is the safest place in the world. This is what Baptists believe.

Since then devoted scientists around the world have unlocked the door to the secrets of the wedge-shaped signs and in doing so, have provided us with some of the most startling discoveries of modern archeology. A very fine publication which comes out six times a year is called "American Heritage." It is a periodical in hard covers dealing with different period of American history. It is beautifully illustrated and contains much valuable material dealing with the early history of our country. Another valuable book for students of history is "Everyday Life in Anglo Saxon, Viking and Norman England" written by the Quennells. It gives a very fine picture of life in this period. "The Rise and Fall of Nazi Germany" by T. L Jarman is highly recommended for everyways popular and we have two new ones in our collection. One is called "A Diary of Private Prayer" and was written by John Baillie and the other is by Glenn Clark and is titled "Come Follow Me." It is an account of the ministry of Jesus in Galilee 2,000 years ago.

HISTORY BOOKS

A knowledge of history which helps us understand our own times by knowing how men have lived in the past is one of the most valuable fields of knowledge. This week we added four titles to our history collection. One is called "A Short History of Ireland" and was written by Roger Chauvire'. It is an interesting account of these charming people and should be popular with everyone who has Irish blood in their veins. Another is called "From the Tables of Sumer." It was written by Samuel Noah Kramer and gives us an interesting account of the life of the Sumerians who lived in the Mesopotamian Valley about 5,000 years ago. Up until 100 years one who wants to review the history of these people.

OCCUPATIONS, HOBBIES

The public library in addition to offering information on cultural and historical subjects is also a source of very valuable information on occupations and hobbies. Among this weeks additions are books on a variety of subjects. One of these is called "Book Collecting" and the author is Rovert L. Collison. Another is a "Practical Pictorial Guide to Mechanisms and Machines" by S. S. Palestrant. It is really a pictorial dictionary of mechanisms used with all sorts of machines and appliances. It should be extremely valuable.

Nothing Strange In Playing Mozart

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK, April 13 (UP) — As Irving Kolodin aptly points out in the album notes, there no longer is the slightest novelty about Benny Goodman playing Mozart. He is a master musician and master of his instrument. Mozart is the musician's musician. What remains, then, is to report that Goodman has a new Mozart record.

It is a recording of his playing of Mozart's clarinet concerto and clarinet quintet, both of which he has recorded before but not with this polish, thoughtfulness and musical sophistication. For the concerto, he played with the Boston Symphony, and for the quintet with a quartet of string players drawn from that orchestra (RCA Victor - LM2073.)

Lesser known and perhaps more subtle Mozart has been admirably recorded in the Missa Brevis K.194 and the Credo Mass K.257. Bernhard Paumgartner, that sensitive if somewhat rigid Mozartian, was in charge of the singers, choir, anl orchestra of the Salzberg Mozarteum (Epic-3323.)

To add to the list of the better-recorded performances of Mozart's Requiem is one made by Vienese singers and players with Herman Scherchen conducting (Ducretet-Thomson-93079.)

CRUEL BUT GOOD

One Of Roark's Best Is About Cocks' Fighting In Louisiana

By LERA MORGAN

THE CRUEL COCKS, by Garland Roark (Doubleday & Company—$3.75).

As David Boutte turned away from the fighting cocks in the arena, he spied a momentary movement on the stock of dead cocks that had been thrown to one side. One of the defeated cocks was still alive. His first impulse was to wiring the poor creature's neck to end its misery. Instead, without knowing why, he tucked the bird under his shirt and walked back to his father's shrimp lugger. This act of kindness was to send David Bouette, a thirteen year old boy from Bayou Lafourche, deep in the heart of south Louisiana, on a whirling career that he never dreamed possible.

The cock, which David named Petit Bayley, slowly gained strength and health under the gentle hands of his rescuer, and David developed a great respect and affection for so brave a bird. His daily promise to Bayley was that he would never have to fight again.

David's father, Jean Bouette, long acknowledged as the best loved, and most irresponsible man on the Bayou Lafourche, had great plans for Bayley however, which he tried vainly to keep from David. Being a gambling man, he saw in Bayley a chance to promote the practice of cock fighting in the small communities along the Bayou, and with a cock that walked with a limp as Bayley did, the betting odds could possibly make him a rich man. Against David's wishes, and better judgment, Jean made plans to pit Bayley against cocks owned by local people of the Bayou.

Working his way from a pile of dead cocks Bayley reached the top and became known nationwide for his skill and prowess as a fighter. David became famous as a trainer of fighting cocks, however his fame did not make the pitting of Bayley any easier for him. He loved the cock, and could hardly stand by the arena where he was fighting without becoming ill.

"Bill your cocks" was a phrase that filled David with fear and apprehension. He was not ever to know whether this feeling of fear stemmed from the thought of losing the game cock he loved, or maybe from a sense of guilt that the talks Father Villeneuve gave him on the evils of cock fighting.

Garland Roark has brought to his book in words the color of the "Cajun Country" of Louisiana with his descriptions of the beautiful Bayou Lafourche and the easy - going yet eventful lives of the people living along its banks.

Story Of Writer Told Sincerely

Very few first novels received the critical acclaim of Flood's "Love Is A Bridge" which appeared in 1953, and now Flood, still under 30 years of age, has published his second, "A Distant Drum." If it fails to match the first in scope and depth, it makes up in intensity, for this is the story of a young writer finding himself and it is told with the same technical proficiency and sincerity that distinguished Flood's first book.

Here is a writer who runs contrary to the current American literary trend on almost every score except ability. He writes about people of position and means instead of those who are striving to stay afloat economically, but he gives them substance and reality. He is a devout Catholic, but there is no trace of sanctimoniousness. He believes earnestly in the American ideal, but without chauvinism. Any of these qualities in an Englishman, or even a continental writer, would occasion no surprise, bu here in the United States in 1957 they seem surprisingly original.

"A Distant Drum" has obvious autobiographical qualities, since the first part is set at Harvard, which Flood attended, and the last is concerned with the United States army, for which Flood volunteered and from which he was painfully separated. Tying the two frustrating love story.

Garden Books

Another book which fills a long felt need is "Plant Propagation in Pictures" by Montague Free. This book will be of great interest to gardeners. It tells how to increase the number of plants in your home and garden by division, grafting, layering, cuttings, bulbs and tubers, sowing seeds and spores. A book which discusses a fascinating hobby and which will appeal to boys and men is called "Snakes and Snake Hunting" and was written by Carl Kauffeld; curater of reptiles at the Staten Island Zoo.

BAPTISTS BELIEVE... in a LOVING, SOVEREIGN GOD

A little brown-eyed girl returning home from Sunday school said to her mother, "I wish God were like Jesus."

When her mother asked her what she thought about God, she indicated that to her God was distant and unfriendly. She thought Jesus kind, friendly, and very close.

Her mother explained to her that much of what we know about God is what Jesus told us about him. She reminded her of the statement Jesus used to describe God to his disciples: "O righteous Father, the world hath not known thee: but I have known thee . . ." (John 17:25), and "He that hath seen me hath seen the Father" (John 14:9). Her mother said that Jesus came to earth and showed us what God is like.

Have you wondered what God is like? Baptists follow the Bible in believing Jesus showed us what God is like. The Bible teaches that God is all powerful, but also that he makes moral laws which he himself obeys. For instance, God has said, "Thou shalt not bear false witness." He does not lie. God is supreme but he is not a cruel dictator, arbitrarily exercising his supreme power without regard for justice.

God is love. Jesus made this very plain. He once said, "God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son . . ." (John 3:16). His love is a giving love.

The greatest demonstration of the supreme power of God is found in what he did in giving his Son to die for us, so that by accepting his Son we might have eternal life with God. God shows his great power in his great love. Love teaches that it is greater to give life than to kill, to build up than to destroy, to give than to get, to lift up than to crush, to heal than to hurt.

The little brown-eyed girl made one of life's greatest discoveries when she found out that all of the love and helpfulness she saw in Jesus is the love and helpfulness God gives. God's greatness is proved in what Jesus showed he does for man.

God loves us and wants us to accept his offer to save us from sin. But he will not force this love on us. We must make our own choice. He will not compel us to accept his love against our will.

God is friendly; he is gracious. He wants to be known as Father. Jesus told his disciples to shut themselves up in a closet with God and say, "Our Father." Alone with God—It is the safest place in the world. This is what Baptists believe.

In the arrangement section Mrs. B. Knight and Mrs. J. A. Hayes received ribbons.

Mrs. H. A. Cleveland and Mrs. B. A. Rouse conducted their talents in presenting a lovely Hawaiian design. A modern container of deep green held the graceful Hawaiian flower, or Bell of Poland and golden yellow Columbine, called Red Cap.

Also on display at the Garden Center were pots of bulbs grown by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hayes, Cole State Prison, a fascinating ruffled variety which is Clivia. Mixed with this and Mr. Parker's one of the most unusual combinations with the Clivia were tuberous rooted Begonias. Also on display was Princess Begonia, one of the well known colorful ones. This is a flat blue, modern sort of flowers on tall stalks. Mr. Hays has been growing this variety for 25 years.

Dues are now paid and membership of the Dogwood Garden Club and its Society garden is ready. You may visit their garden on April 27 the following gardens will be open: Mrs. E. F. THE HOME SHIFT

Cause And Cure Of Plant Disease

By Mildred Swift

When the "Plant Doctor" made his garden visits in the Twin Cities, he explained the following: The natural dropping of camellia leaves is expected. This is indicated by the leaves turning a beautiful shade of rose. Falling caused by a lack of potash in the soil is indicated by yellow leaves, with dark green spots. The correction for the latter is applications of muriate of potash. He also said that die back in any plant could be caused by injury or growing conditions. When the soil is too tight or the plant too deep, the roots just can't get very much food. Therefore, the plant prunes itself by feeding part of the plant and letting parts of it die. The treatment is — always prune past the dead parts into green wood. Correct the growing condition by loosening the soil and raising the plant.

We can usually count on Easter being the last cold spell. Plant caladium bulbs soon after. There are many new varieties in the stores. Lord Derby is the pink we like so well; caladium the white. Edith Meade is green and white with red vein; Texas Wonder is green and red; Mrs. Handleman, green, white and red speckled. Crimson Wave is red. Caladiums like good rich loamy soil. Plant two to three inches deep. The lighter the soil the deeper the bulb can be planted. The white caladium bulb will brighten dark shady corners in the garden, as it thrives in semi - shade.

While planting seed, don't forget "Bells of Ireland." Like Sweet Alyssum, these seed can be planted every month in the year. This is lovely in arrangements and dries nicely for winter use. Sweet Alyssum is beautiful in planters. There's one on Glenmar with the plants in full bloom. It drapes over the sides so nicely.

Food News

We Americans spent one fourth of our take home pay for food, which amounts to $7.90 per person per week. Economists say we can have adequate meals for $5.50 per person. Now the question is how to get the most from your food dollar. The big answer is, plan before you buy. Get all the information you can about foods on the market. Listen to radio and television market news, read your newspaper food columns and ads. Take advantage of specials. Know the foods in heavier seasonal supply and plan to take advantage of them. Use less expensive cuts of meat. Compare the cost of fresh, frozen and canned foods. Read the labels on canned and packaged foods. Use dry or evaporated milk for cooking. They'll cut the price of the milk bill tremendously. If time permits, prepare foods yourself. You pay for that service. Remember, food savings are usually in pennies, but within a year the dollars saved will be your own.

Speaking of foods in good supply, milk and milk products, peanut butter and peanuts are good buys now. Why not treat the family to a peanut butter ice cream pie? Here's the recipe:

Allow ice cream to soften slightly. Mix peanut butter until soft and creamy. Add softened ice cream gradually until peanut butter and ice cream are blended. Place in baked pastry shell. Top with salted peanuts for garnish. Store in freezer several hours or until firm.

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Sun Scald Is Killer Of Many Of Our Trees

By William Lanier Hunt

Every year, a great many newly planted trees die "for no reason at all." But trees do not die "for no reason at all." When you cannot see why a tree has died, it usually turns out to be one of three things that caused the death: sun-scald, rocking by the wind or lack of water at some time or other.

When a tree is set out in full sun, its trunk needs protection for at least the first year. Especially along city streets and in front of hot walls, the trunk of a tree will get so hot that you cannot hold your hand on it. Such a trunk is being literally cooked by the sun. The growing layer right underneath the bark will be killed on the south side, and soon the tree will succumb and die. Even if it survives and the cambium grows back over the center you're apt to have a sick tree later on.

"Bad ..." some one will say, "trees grow on hot walls". Yes, they do, but their foliage knocks off the sun and does not allow it to burn their stems. In some cases, the sun gets too hot for the growing tips of vines, and they are killed back in summer and prevented from spreading over a wall. Plants differ, too, in their ability to take the sun. One of the most beautiful trees in the world is the native Southern yellow wood. We rarely see this tree in people's yards and gardens, however, because the trunk is very subject to sun scald. A glorious specimen that used to grow in the little arboretum at The University of North Carolina was killed by sun scald after it had got to be more than a foot around. Apparently, the removal of trees on the south of it had let in the sun.

There are several ways to protect trunks of newly planted trees from sun scald. People often wrap the trunks of their trees with burlap. Your columnist, however, favors a sun protector made of either one very wide board or of two boards nailed together at right angles. The V-shaped two-board protector fits around a tree trunk nicely, while the single board is wide enough to keep off the sun by itself. Stand either of these protectors on end and fit it up to the trunk on the south side. A piece of large twine or a small rope will hold these protectors to their trees.

When wild trees native to our woods are brought out of the shade or semi-shade, they scorch easily. This is the reason for the annual loss of so many dogwoods and redbuds on our streets.

Citizens Sell Stock For Own Industry Plan

By MACK HOFFMAN

BARABOO, Wis., April 13 (AP)—Door-to-door houseware salesmen don't often compete with door-to-door stock and bond salesmen but it happened in this southern Wisconsin community of 7,500.

The doorbell securities sales were conducted in the interest of Baraboo's industrial development. The campaign is still going on although the home canvassing phase was completed in about a week.

A unique industrial expansion program is being financed through a community fund-raising drive sponsored by the Baraboo Industrial Expansion Corp. Probably the most novel of the ideas developed by the corporation is the use of stamps and a stamp book.

Citizens who cannot afford to buy a $50 full share of stock or a bond in the corporation, can purchase $1 stamps and receive a stock or bond when the book is filled. Canvassers went from house to house, explaining the purpose of the project, distributing stamp books and selling stamps. The stamps now are being sold at banks.

The corporation has brought five new plants to the city since 1947. One of them, the Flambeau Plastics Corp. has expanded to the extent it needs a new plant. The company has acquired some land and the Baraboo Expansion Corp., with the help of an insurance loan not yet negotiated, will finance the $200,000 building.

The Expansion Corp. hopes to borrow $100,000, use $55,000 it has on hand and secure the remaining $55,000 from the door - to - door stamp drive.

The Baraboo Industrial Expansion Corp. was founded by seven businessmen in 1947. Each chipped in $5,000 to improve employment opportunities in the city. The city had suffered an economic setback due to the closing of a woolen mill and a production cutback at the nearby Badeger Ordnance Plant.

Since its inception, the corporation has been responsible for increasing payrolls in the city by $1,250,000 a year.

In addition to the Flambeau plant financing project, the corporation hopes to accumulate a bankroll sufficient to attract other companies to the city.

Salvation Army On Scene Wherever Disaster Hits

Capt. Louis Mockabee and Mrs. Mockabee, officers of the Salvation Army in Monroe, which is at all times up and stirring in aid to those who require assistance when hard times hit unprepared, stores. Lord Derby is the pink we furnish some information in disaster cases.

Great floods have recently caused losses in Virginia. At one point eight loads of clothing were provided through the Salvation Army, the Kiwanis club and the press.

Trucks from the Richmond Men's Social Service center for days were kept busy in rounding up tons of clothing and bedding.

More than 1,000 Louisville residents, including 350 from church organizations, joined the Army in collecting, sorting and boxing supplies for the flooded areas. The central handling depot was set up in the state fair grounds. Boxing was also provided.

Scouts, veterans groups and others furnished aid.

The Salvation Army was in the job in the Bishop, Va., mine disaster where 37 lost their lives in an explosion. The national guard aided the Salvation Army relief efforts with equipment, large coffee urns and food supplies.

In the Reno blasts, the Salvation Army rendered immediate service. Over 80 gallons of coffee were served and 1,000 sandwiches were provided.

When Gans, Okla., was struck by a terrible tornado, Salvation Army officers Capt. and Mrs. B. A. Freeman immediately went to the disaster area. A emergency feeding station, set up quickly, served 503 meals. Shortly thereafter, a truck load of clothing and bedding arrived on the desolate scene from Fort Smith, Ark. The next day two truck loads of furniture arrived and aided with other essentials.

In addition to physical and material aid, the social worker of the Salvation Army visited hospitals visiting each person who was a patient, giving spiritual comfort as well as seeing that clothing was also provided.

May Be Hoax

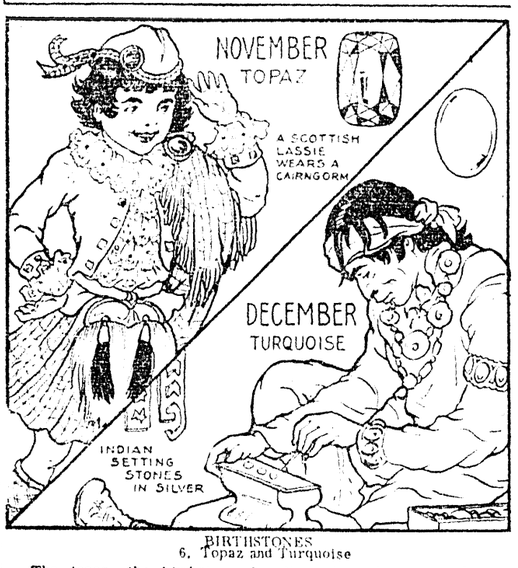
SAN ANTONIO, April 14 (AP)—Two thousand pupils of Northeast Junior School were dismissed shortly before 1 p.m. yesterday when water at the school turned pale green.

School Supt. W. C. Reader said the action was precautionary until samples of the water could be tested by the health department.

Reader said he and several faculty members drank coffee made from the green water today and suffered no ill effects.

-TODAY'S ASSIGNMENT FOR:

JUNIOR EDITORS



BIRTHSTONES
6. Topaz and Turquoise

The topaz, the birthstone for November, is a gem of many colors. It ranges from water-clear crystals through the yellows to brown. The most valuable topazes are the deep rich sherry yellows.

This stone is believed to assure a long life and to bring the wearer beauty and intelligence. If it is worn on the left hand, it is supposed to banish sadness.

For the November page of your birthstone book we are giving you a picture of a Scottish lassie wearing the cairngorm, the national gem of Scotland. She has two of these yellow brown gems, one on her bonnet, the other on her shoulder.

December's birthstone is the turquoise. Many of these light blue and green jewels were found in Turkey in ancient times and they derived their name from that country. The finest turquoise today is found in Persia. Some are found in New Mexico, where Indians make a business of making fine ornaments out of them.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Wisner Gardeners Exhibit Flowers

By Mary M. Jardine

Wisner Garden Club members exhibited at the Garden Center this week. In the horticulture section ribbons were awarded as follows: Mrs. E. A. Kiper for camellia, Mrs. H. A. Cruce for pansies and Mrs. R. M. Ward for calendulas.

In the arrangement section Mrs. E. B. Knotts and Mrs. E. A. Kiper tied for first place. Mrs. Kiper created a crescent line arrangement of foliage using a black compote for a container. The line was established with the new growth of pine branches, with a large cluster of loquat foliage used as a center of interest. This was a most interesting combination of materials and the arrangement will last a long time.

Mrs. Knotts chose for her container an oblong black container. The open crescent design was established with clipped pine branches. Red Amaryllis were massed within the crescent line. The color here was bold and compelling.

Mrs. H. A. Cruce and Mrs. R. A. Brown combined their talents in presenting a lovely triangular design. A modern compote of deep green held the graceful triangular placement of Bells of Ireland with golden yellow calendulas enhancing the line.

Also on display at the Garden Center were iris from the garden of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hipp, Calhoun. Snow Flurry, a beautifully frilled variety which is lightly flushed with blue and Hit Parade, one of the medium toned flamingo - pinks with the characteristic tangerine beard. Also on display was Princess Beatrice, the oldest known bearded iris. This is a light blue, medium sized blooms on tall stalks. Mr. Hipp has been growing this variety for 25 years.

It's iris time again and members of the Dixieland Daylily and Iris Society cordially invite you to visit their gardens on April 21. The following gardens will be open: Mrs. E. F. Kenny, 1500 Forsythe Avenue, Mrs. Pattie Carr, 108 Bell Avenue; Mrs. Frank Williams, 3800 Lee Avenue; Mrs. R. C. Pittard, Norris Lane, West Monroe; Mrs. J. H. Savage, 406 Clayton, West Monroe; Mrs. W. R. Gates, 404 Linderman, West Monroe, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hipp, Calhoun.

With the beginning of the hemerocallis season we think of garden visiting and of the annual meeting. SAN ANTONIO, April 13 (UP)—Two thousand pupils of Northeast high school were dismissed shortly before 1 p.m. yesterday when water at the school turned pale green.

School Supt. W. C. Reader said the action was precautionary until samples of the water could be tested by the health department.

Reader said he and several faculty members drank coffee made from the green water today and suffered no ill effects.

THE HOME SHIFT

Cause And Cure Of Plant Disease

By Mildred Swift

When the "Plant Doctor" made his garden visits in the Twin Cities, he explained the following: The natural dropping of camellia leaves is expected. This is indicated by the leaves turning a beautiful shade of rose. Falling caused by a lack of potash in the soil is indicated by yellow leaves, with dark green spots. The correction for the latter is applications of muriate of potash. He also said that die back in any plant could be caused by injury or growing conditions. When the soil is too tight or the plant too deep, the roots just can't get very much food. Therefore, the plant prunes itself by feeding part of the plant and letting parts of it die. The treatment is — always prune past the dead parts into green wood. Correct the growing condition by loosening the soil and raising the plant.

We can usually count on Easter being the last cold spell. Plant caladium bulbs soon after. There are many new varieties in the stores. Lord Derby is the pink we like so well, cadidum the white. Edith Meade is green and white with red vein; Texas Wonder is green and red; Mrs. Handleman, green, white and red speckled. Crimson Wave is red. Caladiums like good rich loamy soil. Plant two to three inches deep. The lighter the soil the deeper the bulb can be planted. The white caladium bulb will brighten, dark shady corners in the garden, as it thrives in semi - shade.

While planting seed, don't forget "Belles of Ireland." Lke Sweet Alyssum, these seed can be planted every month in the year. This is lovely in arrangements and dries nicely for winter use. Sweet Alyssum is beautiful in planters. There's one on Glenmar with the plants in full bloom. It drapes over the sides so nicely.

Food News

We Americans spent one fourth of our take home pay for food, which amounts to $7.90 per person per week. Economists say we can have adequate meals for $5.50 per person. Now the question is how to get the most from your food dollar. The big answer is, plan before you buy. Get all the information you can about foods on the market. Listen to radio and television market news, read your newspaper food columns and ads. Take advantage of specials. Know the foods in heavier seasonal supply and plan to take advantage of them. Use less expensive cuts of meat. Compare the cost of fresh, frozen and canned foods. Read the labels on canned and packaged foods. Use dry or evaporated milk for cooking. They'll cut the price of the milk bill tremendously. If time permits, prepare foods yourself. You pay for that service. Remember, food savings are usually in pennies, but within a year the dollars saved will be your own.

Speaking of foods in good supply, milk and milk products, peanut butter and peanuts are good buys now. Why not treat the family to a peanut butter ice cream pie? Here's the recipe:

1 9-inch baked pie shell.
1 quart vanilla ice cream.
½ cup chunk-style peanut butter.

Allow ice cream to soften slightly. Mix peanut butter until soft and creamy. Add softened ice cream gradually until peanut butter and ice cream are blended. Place in baked pastry shell. Top with salted peanuts for garnish. Store in freezer several hours or until firm.

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Sun Scald Is Killer Of Many Of Our Trees

By William Lanier Hunt

Every year, a great many newly planted trees die "for no reason at all." But trees do not die "for no reason at all." When you cannot see why a tree has died, it usually turns out to be one of three things that caused the death: sunscald, rocking by the wind or lack of water at some time or other.

When a tree is set out in full sun, its trunk needs protection for at least the first year. Especially along city streets and in front of hot walls, the trunk of a tree will get so hot that you cannot hold your hand on it. Such a trunk is being literally cooked by the sun. The growing layer right underneath the bark will be killed on the south side, and soon the tree will succumb and die. Even if it survives and the cambium grows back over the center you're apt to have a sick tree later on.

"But . . .," some one will say, "...vines grow on hot walls". Yes, they do, but their foliage knocks off the sun and does not allow it to burn their stems. In some cases, the sun gets too hot for the growing tips of vines, and they are killed back in summer and prevented from spreading over a wall. Plants differ, too, in their ability to take the sun. One of the most beautiful trees in the world is the native Southern yellow wood. We rarely see this tree in people's yards and gardens, however, because the trunk is very subject to sun scald. A glorious specimen that used to grow in the little arboretum at The University of North Carolina was killed by sun scald after it had got to be more than a foot around. Apparently, the removal of trees on the south of it had let in the sun.

There are several ways to protect trunks of newly planted trees from sun scald. People often wrap the trunks of their trees with burlap. Your columnist, however, favors a sun protector made of either one very wide board or of two boards nailed together at right angles. The V-shaped two-board protector fits around a tree trunk nicely, while the single board is wide enough to keep off the sun by itself. Stand either of these protectors on end and fit it up to the trunk on the south side. A piece of large twine or a small rope will hold these protectors to their trees.

When wild trees native to our woods are brought out of the shade or semi-shade, they scorch easily. This is the reason for the annual loss of so many dogwoods and redbuds on our streets.

Citizens Sell Stock For Own Industry Plan

By MACK HOFFMAN

BARABOO, Wis., April 13 (AP)—Door-to-door houseware salesmen don't often compete with door-to-door stock and bond salesmen but it happened in this southern Wisconsin community of 7,500.

The doorbell securities sales were conducted in the interest of Baraboo's industrial development. The campaign is still going on although the home canvassing phase was completed in about a week.

A unique industrial expansion program is being financed through a community fund-raising drive sponsored by the Baraboo Industrial Expansion Corp. Probably the most novel of the ideas developed by the corporation is the use of stamps and a stamp book.

Citizens who cannot afford to buy a $50 full share of stock or a bond in the corporation, can purchase $1 stamps and receive a stock or bond when the book is filled. Canvassers went from house to house, explaining the purpose of the project, distributing stamp books and selling stamps. The stamps now are being sold at banks.

The bonds pay four per cent interest. The stocks have not paid any dividends but are deemable at the purchase price.

The corporation has brought five new plants to the city since 1947. One of them, the Flambeau Plastics Corp. has expanded to the extent it needs a new plant. The company has acquired some land and the Baraboo Expansion Corp., with the help of an insurance loan not yet negotiated, will finance the $200,000 building.

The Expansion Corp. hopes to borrow $100,000, use $35,000 it has on hand and secure the remaining $65,000 from the door - to - door stamp drive.

The Baraboo Industrial Expansion Corp. was founded by seven businessmen in 1947. Each chipped in $5,000 to improve employment opportunities in the city. The city had suffered an economic setback due to the closing of a woolen mill and a production cutback at the nearby Badeger Ordnance Plant.

Since its inception, the corporation has been responsible for increasing payrolls in the city by $1,250,000 a year.

In addition to the Flambeau plant financing project, the corporation hopes to accumulate a bankroll sufficient to attract other companies to the city.

Salvation Army On Scene Wherever Disaster Hits

Capt. Louis Mockabee and Mrs. Mockabee, officers of the Salvation Army in Monroe, which is at all times up and stirring in aid to those who require assistance when hard times hit unprepared, furnish some information in disaster cases.

Great floods have recently caused losses in Virginia. At one point eight loads of clothing were provided through the Salvation Army, the Kiwanis club and the press.

Trucks from the Richmond Men's Social Service center for days were kept busy in rounding up tons of clothing and bedding.

Lt. Commissioner A. E. Cheshram, former southern territorial commander, got back into harness with a vengeance during the time of last month's flood in Virginia and West Virginia.

Emergency shelter was provided, clean beds prepared, and meals served.

More than 1,000 Louisville residents, including 350 from church organizations, joined the Army collecting, sorting and boxing supplies for the flooded areas. The central handling depot was set up in the state fair grounds. Boy Scouts, veterans groups and others furnished aid.

The Salvation Army was on the job in the Bishop, Va., mine disaster where 37 lost their lives in an explosion. The national guard aided the Salvation Army relief efforts with equipment, large coffee urns and food supplies.

In the Reno blasts, the Salvation Army rendered immediate service. Over 80 gallons of coffee were served and 1,000 sandwiches were provided.

When Gans, Okla. was struck by a terrific tornado, Salvation Army officers Capt. and Mrs. B. A. Freeman immediately went to the disaster area. A emergency feeding station, set up quickly, served 508 meals. Shortly thereafter, a truck load of clothing and bedding arrived on the desolate scene from Fort Smith, Ark. The next day two truck loads of furniture arrived and aided with other essentials.

In addition to physical and material aid, the social worker of the Salvation Army visited hospitals visiting each person who was a patient, giving spiritual comfort as well as seeing that clothing was also provided.

BIRTHSTONES
6. Topaz and Turquoise

The topaz, the birthstone for November, is a gem of many colors. It ranges from water-clear crystals through the yellows to brown. The most valuable topazes are the deep rich sherry yellows.

This stone is believed to assure a long life and to bring the wearer beauty and intelligence. If it is worn on the left hand, it is supposed to banish sadness.

If rubbed briskly or slightly warmed, the topaz will generate enough electricity to pick up bits of paper.

For the November page of your birthstone book we are giving you a picture of a Scottish lassie wearing the cairngorm, the national gem of Scotland. She has two of these yellow brown gems, one on her bonnet, the other on her shoulder.

December's birthstone is the turquoise. Many of these light blue and green jewels were found in Turkey in ancient times and they derived their name from that country. The finest turquoise today is found in Persia. Some are found in New Mexico, where Indians make a business of making fine ornaments out of them.

The Story Behind The Easter Bunny

By Euna Spielman

Easter gives us a feeling of spring. It is a time which always lifts the spirits of the adults and brings joy to the youngsters in the form of Easter egg hunts and with many the ownership of real live rabbits. Have you ever thought how eggs and the bunny became associated with Easter. Legend tells us that the hare (Bunny) was originally a bird until an ancient Teutonic goddess turned it into a four - legged animal. The hare in grateful recognition of its former quality as a bird and swift messenger of the spring Goddess is able to lay eggs once a year, on her festival in the spring. This pagan legend was adopted by early Christians, who transformed it to illustrate the resurrection through the development of the egg into the chicken. Hence we have our Easter egg. Eggs are plentiful this Easter so the children in the family can hunt the dyed eggs to their hearts' content. Some of this colorful eggs will add interest to the arrangement of flowers you plan to use on the Easter dinner table.

Gall On Azalea Leaves

Large thick gall - like leaves are sometimes found on azaleas. This disease is caused by a fungus known as exobasidium. Usually by the time this disease is noticed it is too late to control it and damaged leaves should be removed and burned. However, bordeaux mixture will control the disease if applied soon enough. If you have had it before, spray now.

Bakarama A Grand Success

The Bakarama was made a success through cooperation of the many persons who participated. The agent wishes to thank each and every one who assisted with this contest. Two hundred, eleven cakes were entered. The first place winner was Mrs. W. J. Thomas, West Monroe and a member of the Thrifty Homemakes club; second place with Mrs. Robert D. Carter, 603 Downey Lane, Monroe; third place was Mrs. E. F. Caldwell, West Monroe.

The judges for this cake baking contest were: Miss Frances Kelso, head of the home economic department, Northeast College and Mrs. Irene Turner, food and nutrition specialist of L. S. U. Extension Service, Baton Rouge.

Other Important Events

Miss Estelle Fournett, food preservation specialist of L. S. U. Extension Service, will meet the leaders for a training meeting, April 30 at 9:30 a.m. Food prices are taking a toll of the family's money — come learn how to reduce this cost. Let's have 100 per cent clubs represented. The meeting place is Agriculture Building.

Wayne Robicahux, associate ext. sociologist (recreation) will be with us May 3 to train the recreation leaders. (Same place and time.) Those of you who have worked with Mr. Robchaux know he can help us, so let's have two or more leaders from each club take this training.

Seven Sins Against Safety

According to the information given by National Safety Council, the average American housewife commits at least one of the "Seven Deadly Sins Against Safety," every time she enters her kitchen to prepare a family meal. See how many of these violations you commit — knowingly or unknowingly. Dressing dangerously. Ruffled blouses, fancy aprons which tempt fire should not be worn near the stove. Failing to keep the stove clean. Even the best housekeepers sometimes neglect to scrub all grease from oven, burners, and tray. Grease is one of the main causes of stove fires. Hanging towels, or other flammables over the stove. Dangerous placement of pots and pans. They should be put on back burners or with handles turned inward on the stove. That way, curious toddlers can't reach them. Forgetting to use pot holders when handling hot equipment. Not keeping first aid equipment on hand. Even the smallest of burns can become infected if not treated properly. Every kitchen should have a simple first aid kit of its own, containing bandages, scissors, tape, sterile cotton, vaseline petroleum jelly and a good disinfectant. Now knowing how to give first aid. Despite all of the educational and informational services available to the public, many adults don't understand the basic rules of first aid. For minor burns, use pure petroleum jelly and then cover the burn with a clean bandage.

YOUNGSTERS EYES WILL BULGE

Firemen Make Ready Big Forsythe Park Egg Hunt

After many weeks of concentrated planning all preliminaries are being perfected for a return of an old time custom which has lain quiescent for several years or more. It is the holding of an Egg hunt at Forsythe park at 2:30 Easter afternoon.

Members of the Monroe fire department, sponsors of the affair which is headed by Chief H. L. Hales and Capt. H. E. Roberts together by auxiliary assistance from the wives of the firemen, are getting all in readiness for the big Easter afternoon hunt. It is explained that it will be necessary to limit it to white children. The party is set for 2.30 p.m., and a large attendance from all over northeast Louisiana, is expected to participate.

The eggs, gaily colored by the firemen's wives, will be hidden on the grounds of Forsythe park next Sunday morning. In excess of 2,500 eggs will be required.

The egg hunt will be directed from a grand stand at the rear of the L. B. Faulk home of the American Legion. There a loud speaker and public address system will be provided.

There are to be separate groups utilized so that there will be no confusion, all this will be explained by Captain Roberts over the public address system. One group, in an area all by itself, will be devoted to small youngsters, babies and those three to eight years. In the case of all but the very small babies, no parent or adult is to touch the eggs for in each case when the youngster is old enough to discover his own eggs he is to be the one to possess the treasure.

The next group of children will be those of eight to 12 years and they will have an area all their own in which to search and with no parent or adult to in any way take part in the hunt.

There will be a certain egg that will have a number that when found by a little girl will be the one that draws the diamond which is valued at approximately $50.

A small boy's tricycle and one still smaller for a little fellow, will be awarded through numbers that are on certain eggs that prove lucky.

All this part of the hunt is meant to be so planned as to give full play to the boys and girls in their special age groups, but there are still more things to be donated, this time to adults. Their section of the grounds for the egg hunt will be apart from the ones for the children.

Through the courtesy of fully 100 merchants, adults will be awarded electric smoothing irons, other electric equipment, and kitchen articles, some of considerable value will be awarded. These awards will be made through cards with lucky numbers.

All this is done, Captain Roberts states, to make children and adults well pleased with the afternoon's results.

Special police, provided by the City of Monroe, will supervise the routing of automobiles to the park. They will be parked out of harm's way and when the program starts not a car will be permitted to be moved. At the close, under the careful watchfulness of the special officers, they will be instructed to leave, but with lack of confusion. This feature is to assure that no accidents mar the pleasure of the occasion.

All who live anywhere in northeast Louisiana are bidden to participate in this big party which is made possible through the generosity of Monroe merchants and the gifts that they are only too willing to provide for the occasion.

Steel Auto Top Convertible Due

By LEE LINDBERG

DETROIT, April 13 (UP)—The auto industry's first automatic steel-top convertible will go on sale at Ford dealerships across the country next Thursday.

The car, featuring an all-steel top that slides into the trunk, will carry a suggested list price of $2,702—or $313 above the suggested price of Ford's present "canvass top" convertible.

New Skyliner

Production of the new model, named the "Skyliner," will exceed 20,000 units in the next year, according to Mc Namara. That tops output schedules for the Ford Thunderbird.

Mc Namara said the Thursday introduction would mark "a historic date" in the automobile industry for three reasons:

—The Skyliner represents the culmination of 40 years of work by engineers who sought to develop a car providing the open-air pleasure of a convertible in good weather and the protection of a steel top in bad weather.

A New Avenue

The hideaway top convertible is expected to have its greatest appeal in northern states where some motorists shy away from conventional convertibles because the fabric tops deteriorate in the winter.

The Skyliner steel top automatically disappears into the trunk 40 seconds after the driver presses a button on the instrument panel. When the top is up, there is 40 per cent more trunk space than in the conventional Ford convertible.

Unveiled Last year

Signs Building Funds Loosening

By ROBERT F. COLL

WASHINGTON, April 13 (UP)—There are increasing signs throughout the nation that lending institutions are loosening their purse strings a little on home mortgage money.

But the "tight money" situation apparently still has the man with the modest income choked off from obtaining a mortgage.

Essentially the problem of obtaining a mortgage in today's strict market narrows down to how much you can pay for a home—the more you spend the easier your mortgage problems.

Man in the Middle

The man in the middle is the modest income buyer, who is not likely to feel any softness in the mortgage market until the end of this year or early in 1958.

In addition to the price range of the buyer, there are certain specific conditions in scattered localities across the nation that have kept mortgage money circulating even through the height of the credit squeeze.

As usual, the hardest areas in which to obtain mortgages are the South and the West. The easiest remains the Northeast.

Perhaps the biggest factor in the slight easing in the mortgage market in some areas is the recent attitude of businessmen toward borrowing.

There is ample evidence that business has put on the brakes in borrowing, partly due to spiraling interest rates. Some businessmen probably have heard so much talk of tight money that they simply have not sought loans.

Waning Enthusiasm

Whatever the cause of the waning enthusiasm, it cannot be pinned on any slowdown in the booming economy over the first three months of the year.

Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks reported recently that business activity climbed to a new high during the quarter, although he did single out housing as a weak spot in an otherwise rosy picture.

The main indications of easing in home buying credit are shrinking discount rates in some areas and a growing supply of money to lend in banks and similar institutions.

Discounts — sometimes called points—normally are arranged through the builder. He will ask a bank to handle a mortgage for a prospective buyer.

Discount Rate

If the lender agrees, it can charge a discount rate based on a percentage of the original loan. It then receives its normal interest rate on the remainder until the loan is paid off.

For example, a builder with a $10,000 house approaches a lending institution charging a five per cent discount. The discount is deducted at once, and the builder receives $9,500 for his house.

DUE TO HIGH COST

Nickel Newspapers Are Getting Scarcer Each Day

By JAMES DEVLIN

NEW YORK, April 13 (UP)—When you step up to the newsstands these days, you find that fewer and fewer newspapers can be bought for a nickel.

The rise in the cost of everything that goes into making a newspaper — newsprint, labor, materials and services — has forced almost 100 of them to increase their price to 6, 7 or 10 cents in the past year.

In all, 331 of the 1,733 English-language dailies in the United States now are charging those prices.

Still charging a nickel in the face of soaring costs are 1,326 newspapers, or 263 less than in 1951. Only 25 still charge less than 5 cents.

All three afternoon newspapers — the World-Telegram & Sun, Journal-American and the Post — went from 5 to 10 cents. The morning tabloids — the Daily News and Daily Mirror — increased from 4 cents to 5.

Publisher Seymour Berkson, in announcing the Journal-American increase, said:

'Our annual cost for newsprint and wages alone is 14 million dollars a year more today than it was in 143 (when the newspaper last increased its price).

"With the new increase to $134 a ton just put into effect on March 1, our bill for newsprint — the paper we print on—has increased 236 per cent in the same period."

Here is how newsprint prices have increased:

The price per ton, delivered in New York, was $100 in 1949, $106 in 1950, $116 in 1952, $126 in 1952, $130 last year, and $134 this year. And it may go higher.

He said the latest $4 increase "should have been $8 a ton" and that another boost "will have to come eventually."

The American Newspaper Publishers Assn. reported that average wages of newspaper employes increased from 20 to 27 per cent from 1950 through 1956.

It said the average hourly pay of printers rose from $2.10 to $2.62, or 25 per cent, in the six-year period. The ANPA also reported these wage increases: pressmen, 33 per meiifstereotypers, 23 per cent; photo engravers, 20 per cent; and mailers, 25 per cent.

An ANPA study of the top 20 cities in which newspapers have contracts with editorial workers showed that their average top minimums increased from $95.87 a week in 1950 to a top minimum of $121.46 in 1956, for a 27 per cent increase.

The ANPA frequently has criticized the increasing cost of newsprint.

The Story Behind The Easter Bunny

By Euna Spielman

Easter gives us a feeling of spring. It is a time which always lifts the spirits of the adults and brings joy to the youngsters in the form of Easter egg hunts and with many the ownership of real live rabbits. Have you ever thought how eggs and the bunny became associated with Easter. Legend tells us that the hare (Bunny) was originally a bird until an ancient Teutonic goddess turned it into a four - legged animal. The hare in grateful recognition of its former quality as a bird and swift messenger of the spring Goddess is able to lay eggs once a year, on her festival in the spring. This pagan legend was adopted by early Christians, who transformed it to illustrate the resurrection through the development of the egg into the chicken. Hence we have our Easter egg. Eggs are plentiful this Easter so the children in the family can hunt the dyed eggs to their hearts' content. Some of this colorful eggs will add interest to the arrangement of flowers you plan to use on the Easter dinner table.

Gall On Azalea Leaves

Large thick gall - like leaves are sometimes found on azaleas. This disease is caused by a fungus known as exobasidium. Usually by the time this disease is noticed it is too late to control it and damaged leaves should be removed and burned. However, bordeaux mixture will control the disease if applied soon enough. If you have had it before, spray now.

Bakarama A Grand Success

The Bakarama was made a success through cooperation of the many persons who participated. The agent wishes to thank each and every one who assisted with this contest. Two hundred, eleven cakes were entered. The first place winner was Mrs. W. J. Thomas, West Monroe and a member of the Thrifty Homemakes club; second place with Mrs. Robert D. Carter, 603 Downey Lane, Monroe; third place was Mrs. E. F. Caldwell, West Monroe.

The judges for this cake baking contest were: Miss Frances Kelso, head of the home economic department, Northeast College and Mrs. Irene Turner, food and nutrition specialist of L. S. U. Extension Service, Baton Rouge.

Other Important Events

Miss Estelle Fournett, food preservation specialist of L. S. U. Extension Service, will meet the leaders for a training meeting, April 30 at 9:30 a.m. Food prices are taking a toll of the family's money — come learn how to reduce this cost. Let's have 100 per cent clubs represented. The meeting place is Agriculture Building.

Wayne Robicahux, associate ext. sociologist (recreation) will be with us May 3 to train the recreation leaders. (Same place and time.) Those of you who have worked with Mr. Robchaux know he can help us, so let's have two or more leaders from each club take this training.

Seven Sins Against Safety

According to the information given by National Safety Council, the average American housewife commits at least one of the "Seven Deadly Sins Against Safety," every time she enters her kitchen to prepare a family meal. See how many of these violations you commit — knowingly or unknowingly. Dressing dangerously. Ruffled blouses, fancy aprons which tempt fire should not be worn near the stove. Failing to keep the stove clean. Even the best housekeepers sometimes neglect to scrub all grease from oven, burners, and tray. Grease is one of the main causes of stove fires. Hanging towels, or other flammables over the stove. Dangerous placement of pots and pans. They should be put on back burners or with handles turned inward on the stove. That way, curious toddlers can't reach them. Forgetting to use pot holders when handling hot equipment. Not keeping first aid equipment on hand. Even the smallest of burns can become infected if not treated properly. Every kitchen should have a simple first aid kit of its own, containing bandages, scissors, tape, sterile cotton, vaseline petroleum jelly and a good disinfectant. Now knowing how to give first aid. Despite all of the educational and informational services available to the public, many adults don't understand the basic rules of first aid. For minor burns, use pure petroleum jelly and then cover the burn with a clean bandage.

YOUNGSTERS EYES WILL BULGE

Firemen Make Ready Big Forsythe Park Egg Hunt

After many weeks of concentrated planning all preliminaries are being perfected for a return of an old time custom which has lain quiescent for several years or more. It is the holding of an Egg hunt at Forsythe park at 2:30 Easter afternoon.

Members of the Monroe fire department, sponsors of the affair which is headed by Chief H. L. Hales and Capt. H. E. Roberts together by auxiliary assistance from the wives of the firemen, are getting all in readiness for the big Easter afternoon hunt. It is explained that it will be necessary to limit it to white children. The party is set for 2:30 p.m., and a large attendance from all over northeast Louisiana, is expected to participate.

The eggs, gaily colored by the firemen's wives, will be hidden on the grounds of Forsythe park next Sunday morning. In excess of 2,500 eggs will be required.

The egg hunt will be directed from a grand stand at the rear of the L. B. Faulk home of the American Legion. There a loud speaker and public address system will be provided.

There are to be separate groups utilized so that there will be no confusion, all this will be explained by Captain Roberts over the public address system. One group, in an area all by itself, will be devoted to small youngsters, babies and those three to eight years. In the case of all but the very small babies, no parent or adult is to touch the eggs for in each case when the youngster is old enough to discover his own eggs he is to be the one to possess the treasure.

The next group of children will be those of eight to 12 years and they will have an area all their own in which to search and with no parent or adult to in any way take part in the hunt.

There will be a certain egg that will have a number that when found by a little girl will be the one that draws the diamond which is valued at approximately $50.

A small boy's tricycle and one still smaller for a little fellow, will be awarded through numbers that are on certain eggs that prove lucky.

All this part of the hunt is meant to be so planned as to give full play to the boys and girls in their special age groups, but there are still more things to be donated, this time to adults. Their section of the grounds for the egg hunt will be apart from the ones for the children.

Through the courtesy of fully 100 merchants, adults will be awarded electric smoothing irons, other electric equipment, and kitchen articles, some of considerable value will be awarded. These awards will be made through cards with lucky numbers.

All this is done, Captain Roberts states, to make children and adults well pleased with the afternoon's results.

Special police, provided by the City of Monroe, will supervise the routing of automobiles to the park. They will be parked out of harm's way and when the program starts not a car will be permitted to be moved. At the close, under the careful watchfulness of the special officers, they will be instructed to leave, but with lack of confusion. This feature is to assure that no accidents mar the pleasure of the occasion.

All who live anywhere in northeast Louisiana are bidden to participate in this big party which is made possible through the generosity of Monroe merchants and the gifts that they are only too willing to provide for the occasion.

Steel Auto Top Convertible Due

By LEE LINDBERG

DETROIT, April 13 (UP)—The auto industry's first automatic steel-top convertible will go on sale at Ford dealerships across the country next Thursday.

The car, featuring an all-steel top that slides into the trunk, will carry a suggested list price of $2,702—or $313 above the suggested price of Ford's present "canvass top" convertible.

New Skyliner

Production of the new model, named the "Skyliner," will exceed 20,000 units in the next year, according to Mc Namara. That tops output schedules for the Ford Thunderbird.

Mc Namara said the Thursday introduction would mark "a historic date" in the automobile industry for three reasons:

—The Skyliner represents the culmination of 40 years of work by engineers who sought to develop a car providing the open-air pleasure of a convertible in good weather and the protection of a steel top in bad weather.

A New Avenue

—The new car opens "a completely new avenue" for automotive body styling just as the station wagon did nearly four decades ago.

The hideaway top convertible is expected to have its greatest appeal in northern states where some motorists shy away from conventional convertibles because the fabric tops deteriorate in the winter.

The Skyliner steel top automatically disappears into the trunk 40 seconds after the driver presses a button on the instrument panel. When the top is up, there is 40 per cent more trunk space than in the conventional Ford convertible.

Unveiled Last year

Signs Building Funds Loosening

By ROBERT F. COLL

WASHINGTON, April 13 (UP)—There are increasing signs throughout the nation that lending institutions are loosening their purse strings a little on home mortgage money.

But the "tight money" situation apparently still has the man with the modest income choked off from obtaining a mortgage.

Essentially the problem of obtaining a mortgage in today's strict market narrows down to how much you can pay for a home—the more you spend the easier your mortgage problems.

Man in the Middle

The man in the middle is the modest income buyer, who is not likely to feel any softness in the mortgage market until the end of this year or early in 1958.

In addition to the price range of the buyer, there are certain specific conditions in scattered localities across the nation that have kept mortgage money circulating even through the height of the credit squeeze.

As usual, the hardest areas in which to obtain mortgages are the South and the West. The easiest remains the Northeast.

Perhaps the biggest factor in the slight easing in the mortgage market in some areas is the recent attitude of businessmen toward borrowing.

There is ample evidence that business has put on the brakes in borrowing, partly due to spiraling interest rates. Some businessmen probably have heard so much talk of tight money that they simply have not sought loans.

Waning Enthusiasm

Whatever the cause of the waning enthusiasm, it cannot be pinned on any slowdown in the booming economy over the first three months of the year.

Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks reported recently that business activity climbed to a new high during the quarter, although he did single out housing as a weak spot in an otherwise rosy picture.

The main indications of easing in home buying credit are shrinking discount rates in some areas and a growing supply of money to lend in banks and similar institutions.

Discounts — sometimes called points—normally are arranged through the builder. He will ask a bank to handle a mortgage for a prospective buyer.

Discount Rate

If the lender agrees, it can charge a discount rate based on a percentage of the original loan. It then receives its normal interest rate on the remainder until the loan is paid off.

For example, a builder with a $10,000 house approaches a lending institution charging a five per cent discount. The discount is deducted at once, and the builder receives $9,500 for his house.

DUE TO HIGH COST

Nickel Newspapers Are Getting Scarcer Each Day

By JAMES DEVLIN

NEW YORK, April 13 (AP)—When you step up to the newsstands these days, you find that fewer and fewer newspapers can be bought for a nickel.

The rise in the cost of everything that goes into making a newspaper — newsprint, labor, materials and services — has forced almost 100 of them to increase their price to 6, 7 or 10 cents in the past year.

In all, 381 of the 1,733 English-language dailies in the United States now are charging those prices.

Still charging a nickel in the face of soaring costs are 1,326 newspapers, or 268 less than in 1951. Only 25 still charge less than 5 cents.

All three afternoon newspapers — the World-Telegram & Sun, Journal-American and the Post — went from 5 to 10 cents. The morning tabliods — the Daily News and Daily Mirror — increased from 4 cents to 5.

Publisher Seymour Berkson, in announcing the Journal-American increase, said:

'Our annual cost for newsprint and wages alone is 14 million dollars a year more today than it was in 143 (when the newspaper last increased its price).

"With the new increase to $134 a ton just put into effect on March 1, our bill for newsprint — the paper we print on—has increased 236 per cent in the same period."

Here is how newsprint prices have increased:

The price per ton, delivered in New York, was $100 in 1949, $106 in 1950, $116 in 1952, $126 in 1952, $130 last year, and $134 this year. And it may go higher.

The American Newspaper Publishers Assn. reported that average wages of newspaper employes increased from 20 to 27 per cent from 1950 through 1956.

It said the average hourly pay of printers rose from $2.10 to $2.62, or 25 per cent, in the six-year period. The ANPA also reported these wage increases: pressmen, 33 per meiifstereotypers, 23 per cent; photo engravrs, 20 per cent; and mailers, 25 per cent.

An ANPA study of the top 20 cities in which newspapers have contracts with editorial workers showed that their average top minimums increased from $95.87 a week in 1950 to a top minimum of $121.48 in 1956, for a 27 per cent increase.

The ANPA frequently has criticized the increasing cost of newsprint.

WHY GROW OLD

Hubby Can Use Reducing Diet

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

While there are plenty of men who are overweight and the term bay window has more than one meaning, women are more likely than men to accumulate extra luggage. There are several reasons for this.

In the first place, a good cook tastes the food she prepares in order to see that it is seasoned properly. Then, too, the woman is around the house much of each day and therefore has more temptation to snack than her husband does. Women also are likely to drop sports earlier than men. Another factor is the fact that the average woman indulges in much more daytime social life than the average man.

Nevertheless, men also have their health and figure problems. Today correct weight is thought of as a health measure as well as an aid to good looks. Heart disease seems to be the number one hazard for men, even men in the prime of life. Overweight zooms the probability that this may happen to them.

Women often wish to know if their husbands can use the same reducing diet they are using. He can use it in principle as a guide in planning well balanced meals, but he requires more calories than his wife even when losing weight. This is because of his greater stature. So, he can eat the same items but take larger helpings. When his wife has one poached egg he can have two, when she has one helping of lean meat, he can have a larger one or a second helping, just so long as he keeps track of his calorie intake.

Lunchtime is a good time for men to cut down on their calories. If they have an adequate breakfast and dinner they can eat high protein, vitamin and mineral, but low-calorie lunches. This is also profitable because a heavy lunch bogs one down and makes quick, clear thinking more difficult.

Every once in a while I give a day or so to the men who read "Why Grow Old?" If you would like to have Hubby Reducing Diet, which gives you a loss of from 7 to 12 pounds in 12 days time, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for that booklet. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

A NEW METHOD

DES MOINES (UP) — David Cox, 5, balked when his parents tried the string-to-door-knob technique of pulling out his loose teeth. He scampered away with the string attached to the tooth, and his mother, Mrs. Oliver Cox, resumed her house work. She turned on the vacuum cleaner, the string was sucked into the machine and out popped the tooth.

WHY GROW OLD

Hubby Can Use Reducing Diet

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

While there are plenty of men who are overweight and the term bay window has more than one meaning, women are more likely than men to accumulate extra luggage. There are several reasons for this.

In the first place, a good cook tastes the food she prepares in order to see that it is seasoned properly. Then, too, the woman is around the house much of each day and therefore has more temptation to snack than her husband does. Women also are likely to drop sports earlier than men. Another factor is the fact that the average woman indulges in much more daytime social life than the average man.

Nevertheless, men also have their health and figure problems. Today correct weight is thought of as a health measure as well as an aid to good looks. Heart disease seems to be the number one hazard for men, even men in the prime of life. Overweight zooms the probability that this may happen to them.

Women often wish to know if their husbands can use the same reducing diet they are using. He can use it in principle as a guide in planning well balanced meals, but he requires more calories than his wife even when losing weight. This is because of his greater stature. So, he can eat the same items but take larger helpings. When his wife has one poached egg he can have two, when she has one helping of lean meat, he can have a larger one or a second helping, just so long as he keeps track of his calorie intake.

Lunchtime is a good time for men to cut down on their calories. If they have an adequate breakfast and dinner they can eat high protein, vitamin and mineral, but low-calorie lunches. This is also profitable because a heavy lunch bogs one down and makes quick, clear thinking more difficult.

Every once in a while I give a day or so to the men who read "Why Grow Old?" If you would like to have by Tubby Hubby Reducing Diet, which gives you a loss of from 7 to 12 pounds in 12 days time, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for that booklet. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

A NEW METHOD

DES MOINES (UP) — David Cox, 5, balked when his parents tried the string-to-door-knob technique of pulling out his loose teeth. He scampered away with the string attached to the tooth, and his mother, Mrs. Oliver Cox, resumed her house work. She turned on the vacuum cleaner, the string was sucked into the machine and out popped the tooth.

'PROMISED LAND'

Home Is 'Sweeter' After World Tours

COLUMBIA, April 13 (Special) — Joe T. Kelly, Oak Grove business and civic leader who during the past 10 years has traveled extensively world - wide, except behind Russia's Iron Curtain, last night emphasized to the membership of the Columbia Lions club that the more he had traveled abroad the greater had become his appreciation for the United States.

"Truly, America is the 'promised land,' from the viewpoint of comparison with the rest of the world," he declared.

Kelly is being sponsored by the 30-year-old Oak Grove Lions club, of which he has been an active member for 20 years, for election to the position of district governor of Louisiana Lionism's district 8-L. This district is comprised of 40 Lions clubs in the northern sector of the state.

Kelly was introduced here last night by Marvin N. Lipp, publisher and editor of The West Carroll Gazette at Oak Grove, who accompanied him to the meeting. Other guests included George D. McKnight, supervisor of the Farmers Home Administration in Caldwell parish, and Marion T. Lipp, member of the Winnsboro Lions club, but presently at Monroe where he is affiliated with the News - Star editorial department staff.

Kelly, in his interesting and informative travel - talk, dealt principally with the experiences of a tour of several months last summer to areas of the Mid-East and Africa.

He was in Egypt, he said, during the time of Nasser's election. Nasser's was said to have been the only name on the ballot, and there was a $100 penalty for failure to vote.

Kelly described the continent of Africa as an undeveloped territory of "vast area, much diversity and great extremes, with tremendous potentials."

Archie Darden, president of the club and Caldwell parish clerk of court, presided at the meeting.

Union Parish Plans Free Chest X-Rays

FARMERVILLE, April 13 (Special) — A chest x-ray survey for Union parish has been scheduled for the period from April 15 through 26, Victor Antley, of the health unit office here, announced today.

A mobile x - ray bus from the state department of health is to be sent to the parish for the purpose of the survey, which will be available for free chest x-ray examinations of all persons over 15 years of age. Any person, regardless of age, who has had a "positive patch test" is invited to receive an examination, Antley said.

It was pointed out that, in addition to locating possible cases of tuberculosis, the examinations may also possibly reveal certain types of heart defects and some kinds of tumors.

The schedule for examinations was released as follows:

April 15, Farmerville, afternoon; April 16 and 17, Farmerville, all day; April 18, Spearsville, morning, and Lillie, afternoon; April 22, Bernice, afternoon; April 23, Bernice, all day; April 24, Marion, all day; April 25, Linville, morning, and Spencer, afternoon; April 26, Downsville, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

TIM TYLER'S LUCK

by Lyman Young and Tom Massey

AS I'VE SAID, BIG BOSS IS CLAIMED TO BE THE TALLEST LIVING ELEPHANT....THE BOONA NATIVES SAY IF CAUGHT ALIVE HE COULD BE SOLD FOR A FORTUNE....

MEANTIME, HE CONTINUES TO DESTROY THEIR VILLAGES WHILE ESCAPING THEIR CLEVEREST TRAPS—

I BELIEVE THE ONLY WAY TO CAPTURE BIG BOSS IS WITH THESE AKA-GAS BOMBS — A FEW WHIFFS WILL RENDER HIM UNCONSCIOUS—

--OUR MISSION IS TO FIND BIG BOSS AND THEN TOSS THESE AT HIM ?

YES, AND THEN AFTER HE'S SUBDUED THE NATIVES CAN SECURELY BIND HIS LEGS—

YOU WILL FIRST REPORT TO CHIEF PONTOS AT THIS VILLAGE—

THINK THE FIVE GAS BOMBS WILL BE ENOUGH, TIM ?

THEY'D BETTER BE, OR ELSE !

STEVE, POTEET IS VERY DEPRESSED!

.. YES, MRS. TORR! I WISH I KNEW HOW TO GET THROUGH TO HER...

IT'S NONE OF MY BUSINESS, BUT I THINK SHE WAS MORE BROKEN UP BY YOU AND MRS. OLSON NOT GETTING TOGETHER THAN BY THE LOSS OF THE BASKETBALL CHAMPIONSHIP!

... I'LL TRY TO THINK OF SOMETHING TO CHEER THE KID... AND THANKS FOR ALL YOU HAVE DONE, MRS. T.

HUH? OH, YES'M!

THANK YOU, DEAR!

WELL! WELL! — THERE'S A LETTER FOR YOU!

HUH? FOR ME? WHO IN TH' WORLD...?

April 3, 1957

Dearest Potect:

I have not forgotten you — depend upon that. You have in many respects done me more than justice out of the warmth and goodness of your heart.

Come, let us go back to the quiet place ——— where we "do not forget each other."

BRINGING UP FATHER

AH, I SEE WE'RE GOIN' TO HAVE A REAL BREAKFAST FOR A CHANGE!

YES, DEAR! DOESN'T IT LOOK GOOD?

I WAS GETTING AWFULLY TIRED OF THAT DIET WE WERE ON!

YOU WEREN'T HALF AS TIRED OF IT AS I WUZ!

AND, BESIDES, IT WASN'T DOING ME ANY GOOD — I'D GET SO HUNGRY I KEPT NIBBLING BETWEEN MEALS!

SO YOUR WIFE HAS DECIDED NOT TO DIET ANY MORE?

THAT'S RIGHT! AND IT WAS GOOD NEWS FOR ME! EVERY TIME SHE HEARD OF A NEW DIET, SHE'D MAKE ME GO ON IT WITH HER!

HOW ABOUT HAVING DINNER TOGETHER?

I'D LOVE TO — BUT I'M ON A VERY STRICT DIET - LEMON RIND AND CELERY!

HAVE YOU TRIED THE NEW OLIVE AND ANCHOVY DIET?

NOT YET. I JUST STARTED ON THE VERY LATEST ONE --SHREDDED PARSLEY AND SOYBEAN.

I SURE GIT A KICK OUT OF THESE FAT DAMES AND THEIR DIETS! THEY KEEP GITTIN' SILLIER ALL THE TIME!

ELLA FANT WENT ON A NEW DIET - KUMQUAT JUICE AND CUCUMBERS!

I HEAR IT'S WONDERFUL! AVA DUPOIS TRIED IT, AND NOW SHE CAN WEAR A 48 DRESS!
